In a depositor's action against bank for reimbursement for bank's payment of allegedly forged checks, the court held that the fact that checks charged to depositor's checking account were not reflected in depositor's own records, which checks were not produced in evidence, did not provide a basis upon which the jury could reasonably have inferred or found that the missing checks were drawn by a forger and were, therefore, improperly charged to the depositor's account. B. G. Myrick v. National Savings & Trust Company (D.C. App. 1970, 268 A. 2d 526).

§ 28:3-406. Negligence contributing to alteration or unauthorized signature.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Negligence

"In a depositor's action against bank for reimbursement for bank's payment of allegedly forged checks, the court held that the depositor was negligent as a matter of law in failing to inquire of bank as to her lack of receipt of monthly statements and cancelled checks, especially after bank informed depositor that bank's records showed she had no money in her account, and this negligence substantially contributed to the making of an unauthorized signature and depositor was precluded from asserting lack of bank's authority to pay allegedly forged checks. B. G. Myrick v. National Savings & Trust Company (D.C. App. 1970, 268 A. 2d 526).

Where bank, by debiting entire amount of dishonored check for $149,266.44 against payee's account on receipt of notice of dishonor, found that payee was then overdrawn by $721.48, and bank entered this figure on payee's balance statement as a deficit for that day in payee's account, and where had not payee's account been previously credited by bank with a $2,823.33 check deposited subsequent to original receipt of dishonored check the overdraft at crucial time would have amounted to $3,544.81, bank is a holder in due course for $721.48, not $3,544.81, since bank elected to apply the $2,823.33 check to the deficit. *Security Bank v. Negligence

In a case where warehouse was of fire resistant construction, fire alarm system was effectively operating, police and fireman service were near, warehouse was patrolled at fixed intervals by outside guard and iron bars and wire-mesh screening covered the windows on the ground warehouseman was not negligent in failing to provide 24-hour inside guard service or in failing to adequately secure windows and was not liable for damage to stored furniture from fire set by demented policeman after policeman removed wire-mesh screen, but, in any event, arson under the circumstances peculiar to this case was not a foreseeable result of any failure on part of warehouseman. *Union Storage Co., Inc. v. NOTES TO DECISIONS

Under the provisions of the Uniform Commercial Code, classification of goods is mutually exclusive. Franklin Investment Co., Inc. v. E. P. Homburg (D.C. App. 1969, 252 A. 2d 95).

Among the same parties and at the same point in time, a product may be classified as both “inventory” and “consumer goods.” Id.

The manner in which a product is classified under the secured transactions provisions of the Uniform Commercial Code is determined at time of agreement between parties giving rise to security interest, and, as to them, categorization remains unaffected by later transfer of product in question. Id.

Inventory

An automobile held by a used car dealer for purpose of sale to buying public in the ordinary course of business was “inventory” and remained so despite subsequent sale of automobile, and, thus, under provision of Uniform Commercial Code a buyer of the automobile in ordinary course of business bought the same free of security interest of dealer’s chattel mortgagee. Franklin Investment Co. Inc. v. E. P. Homburg (D.C. App. 1969, 252 A. 2d 95).

Inventory

An automobile held by a used car dealer for purpose of sale to buying public in the ordinary course of business was "inventory" and remained so despite subsequent sale of automobile, and, thus, under provision of Uniform Commercial Code a buyer of the automobile in ordinary course of business bought the same free of security interest of dealer's chattel mortgagee. *Franklin Investment Co., Inc. v. Under the provisions of the Uniform Commercial Code, classification of goods is mutually exclusive. Franklin Investment Co., Inc. v. E. P. Homburg (D.C. App. 1969, 252 A. 2d 95).

Among the same parties and at the same point in time, a product may be classified as both "inventory" and "consumer goods." Id.

The manner in which a product is classified under secured transactions provisions of the Uniform Commercial Code is determined at time of agreement between parties giving rise to security interest, and, as to them, categorization remains unaffected by later transfer of product in question. Id.

If an assignee named in an assignment for the benefit of creditors fails or refuses to comply with any of the requirements of sections 21-2103 and 21-2104,<sup>1</sup> a judge of the court having probate jurisdiction may, on the application of the assignor or a creditor interested in the assignment, remove the assignee and appoint a trustee in his place to execute the trusts created by the assignment, who shall give bond as the court may require. And the court may accept the resignation of an assignee or trustee, and in case of his resignation, death, or removal from the District, appoint a trustee in his place. The court, for cause shown, on the application of an interested person, may remove an assignee or trustee and appoint a trustee in his place, and make and enforce all orders necessary to put the newly appointed trustee in possession of all property covered by the assignment. Upon the death of an assignee or trustee the court may require his executor or administrator to settle his account and to deliver over to his successor all property belonging to the trust, in default of which the successor may bring suit upon the bond of the deceased assignee or trustee or upon the bond of the executor or administrator, accordingly as the assignee or trustee, executor or administrator is the party in default. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 675, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965; Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 1, 85 Stat. 665.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 28-3303, 35-1361.

Credit charge as usury

Credit charge of $219 for purchase over two-year period of merchandise that was available to buyer at cash price of $594.85 plus $17.85 sales tax does not constitute "interest" and is not usury. M. C. Morris v. Capitol Furniture & Appliance Co., Inc. (D.C. App. 1971, 280 A. 2d 775).

Time-price sale

Bona fide sale of property on credit at a price that exceeds cash price by more than legal rate of interest does not constitute usury since seller is privileged to fix one price for cash and another for credit. M. C. Morris v. Capitol Furniture & Appliance Co., Inc. (D.C. App. 1971, 280 A. 2d 775).

Where cash sale price of sofa was $320, installment sale contract provided for cash price of $400, $12 sales tax, insurance premium of $7.03 and finance charge and fee for related services in amount of $94.56 and seller, which assigned agreement to finance corporation, merely received its cash price plus fee of $82.48 for transacting the loan and did not contemplate and enlarged credit price sale when the contract was executed and did not intend to protect its right of repossession, transaction was not a bona fide sale at a time price but was rather a cloak for a usurious loan. W. Lee v. Household Finance Corporation (D.C. App. 1970, 263 A. 2d 635).

§ 28-3302. Rate of interest not expressed and on judgments.*SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 35-1361.

§ 28-3303. Usury defined.

If a person or corporation contracts in the District,

(1) verbally, to pay a greater rate of interest than 6 percent per annum, or

(2) in writing, to pay a greater rate than is permitted under section 28-3301 or 28-3308 or under chapter 36 of this subtitle, the creditor shall forfeit the whole of the interest so contracted to be received.

This section does not affect sections 26-601 to 26-611. (Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 675, Pub. L. 88-509, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1965; Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 2, 85 Stat. 665.)

REFERENCE IN TEXT

Sections 26-601 to 26-611, referred to in the last sentence, refer to the Act of Feb. 4, 1913, as amended. Subsequent to the enactment of this section, the Act of Feb. 4, 1913, was amended by adding a new section 14 which has been classified to section 26-612.

AMENDMENT

1971—Section 2 of Act Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, amended clause (2) by striking out "8 per centum per annum" and inserting "is permitted under section 28-3301 or 28-3308 or under chapter 36 of this subtitle" in lieu thereof.

NOTES TO DECISIONS*Burden of proof

In the case, the court held that the assignee of conditional sale contract and note, that called for "time price" more than 8% greater than balance due, did not establish that transaction was not usurious, and thus did not establish that it was holder in due course, since there was no showing that "finance charge" or "carrying charge" was included to compensate seller for expense other than price of loan. L. Fuller v. Universal Acceptance Corporation (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 506).

Commission as constituting usury

Commission paid by a borrower to a loan broker for obtaining a loan from a third person does not constitute usury. J. Oliver v. United Mortgage Company, Inc., etc. (D.C. App. 1967, 230 A. 2d 722).

Even if loan broker had advanced his own funds to borrower, but had done so for convenience only and with expectation of reimbursing himself promptly from funds supplied by lender, broker who had retained commission for that service was not liable to borrower for allegedly usurious interest on ground that broker was principal on loan. Id.

Borrower was not entitled to recover portion of commission retained by loan broker for arranging loan on ground that transaction was usurious in absence of showing that broker was acting solely as agent of lender. Id.

Credit charge as usury

Credit charge of $219 for purchase over two-year period of merchandise that was available to buyer at cash price of $594.85 plus $17.85 sales tax does not constitute "interest" and is not usury. M. C. Morris v. Capitol Furniture & Appliance Co., Inc. (D.C. App. 1971, 280 A. 2d 775).

Evidence

A showing that buyer under conditional sale contract was charged $47.88 for use of $300 for 12 months made a prima facie showing of usury, although total sum was labeled "time price", since credit had been prearranged through finance company to which contract was assigned. L. Fuller v. Universal Acceptance Corporation. (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 506).

An usurer cannot conceal his handiwork by avoiding use of term "interest". Id.

Forfeiture

In this case the court held that the assignee of a conditional sales contract and note was not entitled to recover "finance charge" or "carrying charge" which exceeded 8% per annum since the assignee did not establish that it was holder in due course and that transaction was not usurious. L. Fuller v. Universal Acceptance Corporation. (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 506).

Jurisdiction

The District of Columbia Court of General Sessions is without jurisdiction to render a declaratory judgment that centralized credit services' finance charges computed at annual rates of 18% and 12% exceeded interest rate which Congress has deemed lawful. P. Simmons v. Central Charge Service, Inc. (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A. 2d 850).

Nature of defense of usury

Usury as a defense attacks the original transaction as not bona fide and denies assignee of note the status of holder in due course. Universal Acceptance Corporation v. F. Marzullo et ano. (D.C. App. 1969, 260 A. 2d 90).

Placement fees

Where if the total of loan placement fee, appraisal fee and charge for credit report is deducted from face amount of loan the effective yield is 6.96 percent, the loan is not usurious. L. L. Bettum v. Montgomery Federal Savings & Loan Association, Inc. (Md. App. 1971, 277 A. 2d 600).

Pleading

A complaint against a centralized credit service, which sought to recover all interest paid by plaintiff and persons similarly situated and to which there was a statement attached showing that the defendant service charged 18% interest per annum on certain amounts and 12% interest per annum on other sum without any assertion that the statement constituted plaintiff's account, asked, in essence, for an advisory opinion that the defendant services' finance charges were usurious and should cease, and failed to state a cause of action. P. Simmons v. Central Charge Service, Inc. (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A. 2d 850).

Tainted transaction

The court held, that in this case the working arrangement between the conditional seller of television set and the assignee of purchasers' note was tainted such that it bore a "badge of fraud" and supported trial judge's ruling in suit by assignee on note that the note was usurious and that assignee could not be given status of holder in due course. Universal Acceptance Corporation v. F. Marzullo et ano. (D.C. App. 1969, 260 A. 2d 90).

Bona fide sale of property on credit at a price that exceeds cash price by more than legal rate of interest does not constitute usury since seller is privileged to fix one price for cash and another for credit. M. C. Morris v. Capitol Furniture & Appliance Co., Inc. (D.C. App. 1971, 280 A. 2d 775).

Where cash sale price of sofa was $320, installment sale contract provided for cash price of $400, $12 sales tax, insurance premium of $7.03 and finance charge and fee for related services in amount of $94.56 and seller, which assigned agreement to finance corporation, merely received its cash price plus fee of $82.48 for transacting the loan and did not contemplate an enlarged credit price sale when the contract was executed and did not intend to protect its right of repossession, transaction was not a bona fide sale at a time price but was rather a cloak for a usurious loan. W. Lee v. Household Finance Corporation (D.C. App. 1970, 263 A. 2d 635).

§ 28-3304. Action to recover usury paid.*NOTES TO DECISIONS*Pleading

A complaint against a centralized credit service, which sought to recover all interest paid by plaintiff and persons similarly situated and to which there was a statement attached showing that the defendant service charged 18% interest per annum on certain amounts and 12% interest per annum on other sum without any assertion that the statement constituted plaintiff's account, asked, in essence, for an advisory opinion that the defendant services' finance charges were usurious and should cease, and failed to state a cause of action. P. Simmons v. Central Charge Service, Inc. (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A. 2d 850).

Time limitation

An action by makers of a promissory note secured by deeds of trust on Washington, D.C. property to recover usurious portion of interest, would have to be brought within one year of date of payment of interest under District of Columbia Code provision. J. Katz et al. v. Simcha Company, Inc. (Court of App. Md. 1968, 246 A. 2d 555).

§ 28-3307. District of Columbia Council authorized to exempt certain mortgages and loans.

The District of Columbia Council is authorized from time to time to provide by regulation for the exemption from the provisions of this chapter of any mortgage or loan insured or guaranteed under the National Housing Act or chapter 37 of title 38, United States Code, the interest rate of which is subject to regulation by an officer or agency of the Federal Government. The Council is further authorized to amend or repeal any such regulation at any time, but no such amendment or repeal shall affect any such loan or mortgage lawfully made or committed to be made while such exemption is in effect. (Added Aug. 20, 1970, Pub. L. 91-385, § 2(a), 84 Stat. 828.)

REFERENCE IN TEXT

The National Housing Act, referred to in text, is classified to 12 U.S.C. 1701 et seq.

§ 28-3308. Finance charge on direct installment loans.

(a) On a loan in which the principal does not exceed $25,000 (other than a loan directly secured on real estate or a direct motor vehicle installment loan covered by chapter 36 of this subtitle) to be repaid in equal or substantially equal monthly, or other periodic, installments, any federally insured bank or savings and loan association doing business in the District of Columbia may contract for and receive interest at the rate permitted under this chapter or, in lieu of such interest, a finance charge, which, if expressed as an annual percentage rate, does not exceed a rate of 11½ percent per annum on the unpaid balances of principal. This section does not limit or restrict the manner of contracting for the finance charge, whether by way of discount, add-on or simple interest, so long as the annual percentage rate of the finance charge does not exceed that permitted by this section.

(b) If such installment loan is precomputed.

(1) the finance charge may be calculated on the assumption that all scheduled payments will be made when due, and

(2) except as provided in subsection (c), upon prepayment in full of the unpaid balance of a precomputed direct installment loan, refinancing, or consolidation, an amount not less than the unearned portion of the finance charge calculated according to this section shall be rebated to the debtor. If the rebate otherwise required is less than $1, no rebate need be made.

(c) Upon prepayment in full of such direct installment loan other than a refinancing or consolidation, whether or not precomputed, the lender may collect or retain a minimum charge within the limits stated in this section of the finance charge earned at the time of prepayment is less than any minimum charge contracted for. The minimum charge may not exceed the smaller of the following: (1) the amount of the finance charge contracted for, or (2) $5 in a transaction which had a principal of $75 or less, or $7.50 in a transaction which had a principal of more than $75.

(d) The unearned portion of the finance charge is a fraction of the finance charge of which the numerator is the sum of the periodic balances scheduled to follow the computational period in which the prepayment occurs, and the denominator is the sum of all periodic balances under either the related loan agreement or, if the balance owing resulted from a refinancing or a consolidation, under the related refinancing agreement or consolidation agreement.

(e) As used in this section, "finance charge", and "annual percentage rate" shall have the respective meanings under the provisions of the Truth-in-Lending Act (82 Stat. 146 et seq.; 15 U.S.C. 1601 et seq.) and the regulations and interpretations thereunder; and "federally insured bank or savings and loan association" means an insured bank as defined in section 3 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act or an "insured institution" as defined in section 401 of the National Housing Act. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 3, 85 Stat. 665.)

Chapter 35.—STATUTE OF FRAUDS*§ 28-3502. Special promise to answer for debt or default of another.*NOTES TO DECISIONS*Conflict of laws

For the purpose of determining whether a corporate officer's personal guaranty of work to be performed by the corporation was within the statute of frauds, there was no significant difference between the form of statute in force in District of Columbia and Maryland. I. R. Friedman v. D. Clark (Md. C. App. 1969, 248 A. 2d 867).

Memorandum

The general rule is that the essential terms of agreement required to be in writing by virtue of statute of frauds must be expressed in writing without resort to parol evidence. Educational Enterprises, Inc. v. P. C. Greening (D.C. App. 1970, 265 A. 2d 287).

Parol evidence

In this case, the court of appeals held that the trial court properly ruled that parol evidence of employer's policy regarding bonuses was admissible as aid in interpretation of handwritten agreement, which was signed by employer some nine months after oral promise to pay employee certain salary for a year and which provided that "Earning—Salary and Bonus" for year totaled specified amount, to explain that total compensation for year was limited to specified amount and that employee would not receive an additional amount by way of discretionary Christmas bonus. Educational Enterprises, Inc. v. P. C. Greening (D.C. App. 1970, 265 A. 2d 287).

Sufficiency of writing

Letter wherein shopping center operators indicated appreciation for company's efforts in assisting operators in their application for proper zoning and stated that in event of success operators would give company opportunity to be major tenant with rental and terms at least equal to that of any other major department store in the center, together with full performance by company of the assistance services, was sufficient writing to satisfy District of Columbia statute of frauds. City Stores Company v. H. M. Ammerman et al. (1967, 266 F. Supp. 766).

Unilateral contract

Defendants' letter stating that defendants would give plaintiff opportunity to become major tenant in contemplated shopping center with rental and terms at least equal to that of any other major store in center was sufficient evidence of unilateral contract to satisfy District of Columbia statute of frauds. H. M. Ammerman et al. v. City Stores Company (1968, 394 F. 2d 950, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 325).

§ 28-3504. New promise or acknowledgement<sup>1</sup> of contract—Action against joint contractors.

In an action upon a simple contract, an acknowledgement or promise by words only is not sufficient evidence of a new or continuing contract whereby to take the case out of the operation of the statute of limitations or to deprive a party of the benefit thereof unless the acknowledgement or promise is in writing, signed by the party chargeable thereby. This section does not alter or take away, or lessen the effect of a payment of principal or interest made by any person. In actions against two or more joint contractors, or executors, or administrators, if it appears at the trial, or otherwise, that the plaintiff, though barred by the statute of limitations as to one or more of the defendants, is nevertheless entitled to recover against any other defendant by virtue of a new acknowledgement or promise or otherwise, judgment may be given for the plaintiff as to that defendant. An indorsement or memorandum of a payment written or made upon a promissory note, bill of exchange, or other writing, by or on behalf of the party to whom the payment is to be made, is<sup>2</sup> sufficient proof of the payment so as to take the

Based on D.C. Code, 1961 ed., § 28-3005 (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1390, ch. 854, § 1271).

The term "real estate" is substituted for "lands, tenements, or hereditaments" to conform with the style of revisions generally.

Changes are made in phraseology.

§ 28-3701. Definitions.

As used in this chapter—

(1) “revolving credit account” means an arrangement between a seller or financial institution and a buyer pursuant to which (A) the seller may permit the buyer to purchase goods or services on credit either from the seller or by use of a credit card or other device, whether issued by the seller or a financial institution, (B) the unpaid balances of amounts financed arising from purchases and the credit service and other appropriate charges are debited to an account, (C) a credit service charge if made is not precomputed but is computed on an outstanding unpaid balance of the buyer’s account from time to time, and (D) the buyer has the privilege of paying the balances in full or in installments.

(2) “credit service charge” means the sum of (A) all charges payable directly or indirectly by the buyer and imposed directly or indirectly by the seller as an incident to the extension of credit, including any of the following types of charges which are applicable; time price differential, service, carrying or other charge, however denominated, premium or other charge for any guarantee or insurance protecting the seller against the buyer’s default or other credit loss; (B) charges incurred for investigating the collateral or credit-worthiness of the buyer or for commissions or brokerage for obtaining the credit, irrespective of the person to whom the charges are paid or payable, unless the seller had no notice of the charges when the credit was granted.

(3) “seller” means a person engaged in the District of Columbia in the business of selling goods or services to retail buyers.

(4) “buyer” means a person who buys goods or obtains services from a seller pursuant to a retail credit sale and not principally for the purpose of resale; and includes a person who enters into a prior agreement with a financial institution whereby the latter agrees to pay the debts of the buyer as they accrue at various retail sellers, designated by the financial institution, in consideration of the buyer paying to the financial institution the cash sales price plus the credit service charge on the purchase.

(5) “person” includes any individual, partnership, corporation, association, trust, joint stock company, or any other group of persons however organized.

(6) “financial institution” means a person who enters into an agreement with a buyer whereby the former agrees to extend credit to the buyer and to apply it as directed by the buyer pursuant to a credit card issued to the buyer by the financial institution; and this term includes any federally insured bank as defined in section 3 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act doing business in the District of Columbia. #### § 28-3702. Amount and computation of credit service charge.

(a) The seller or financial institution may contract for the payment by the buyer of a credit service charge not exceeding that permitted by this section.

(b) A credit service charge may be made in each billing cycle. For the purpose of computing the outstanding balance subject to the credit service charge, (1) the outstanding balance on any day shall consist of an amount which shall not exceed the sum of the total charges to the account less the amounts paid or credited to the account prior to such day, or (2) the outstanding balance may be computed by the average daily balance method. The credit service charge may also be computed for all outstanding balances within a range of not in excess of $10 on the basis of the median amount within such range if as so computed such credit service charge is applied to all outstanding balance within such range.

(c) If the billing cycle is monthly, the charge may not exceed 1½ percent of that part of the outstanding balance which is $500 or less and 1 percent on that part of this amount which is more than $500. If the billing cycle is not monthly, the maximum charge is that percentage which bears the relation to the applicable monthly percentage as the number of days in the billing cycle bears to thirty. For the purposes of this section, a variation of not more than four days from month to month is “the same day of the billing cycle.” (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 668.)

§ 28-3801. Scope—Limitation on agreements and practices.

This chapter applies to actions to enforce rights arising from a consumer credit sale or a direct installment loan. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 668.)

28-3802. Definitions.

"As used in this chapter—

(1) "revolving credit account" means a revolving credit account as defined in section 28-3701 of this subtitle.

(2) "consumer credit sale" means a sale of goods or services in which—

(A) A credit is granted by a person who regularly engages as a seller in credit transactions of the same kind;

(B) the buyer is a natural person;

(C) the goods or services are purchased primarily for a personal, family, household, or agricultural purpose;

(D) either the debt is payable in installments or a finance charge is made; and

(E) the amount financed does not exceed $25,000.

The term includes any contract in the form of a bailment or lease if the bailee or lessee contracts to pay as compensation for use a sum substantially equivalent to or in excess of the aggregate value of the property and services involved and it is agreed that the bailee or lessee will become, or for no other or a nominal consideration has the option to become, the owner of the property upon full compliance with his obligations under the contract.

(3) "direct installment loan" means a direct installment loan as that term is used in section 28-3308 of this subtitle and does not include a loan secured on real estate or a direct motor vehicle installment loan covered by chapter 36 of this subtitle.

(4) "cross collateral" means an arrangement wherein a seller in a "consumer credit sale secures a debt arising from the sale by contracting for a security interest in other property if as a result of a prior sale the seller has an existing security interest in the other property. The seller may also contract for a security interest in the property sold in the subsequent sale as a security for the previous debt. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 669.)

§ 28-380. Balloon payments.

With respect to a consumer credit sale or direct installment loans except for revolving credit accounts:

(1) No creditor shall at any time enter into an agreement which contains or anticipates a schedule of payments under which any one payment is not equal or substantially equal to all other payments, excluding any final payment which is less than the average of previous payments or any down payment received by the creditor contemporaneously with or prior to the consummation of the transaction, or under which the intervals between any consecutive payments differ substantially.

(2) Notwithstanding any provision of this section, where a consumer's livelihood is dependent upon seasonal or intermittent income, the parties may agree in a separate writing that one or more payments or the intervals between one or more payments may be reduced or expanded in accordance with the needs of the consumer if such payments are expressly related to the consumer's income. The separate writing shall contain a conspicuous notice directly above the signature line stating: "I waive my right to have all payments to be made under this agreement in substantially equal amounts".

(3) In the event that the provisions of paragraph (2) apply, the consumer shall have the right at any time, without further cost or obligation, to revise the schedule of payments to conform both as to amounts and intervals to the average of all installments and intervals. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 669.)

§ 28-3804. Assignment of earnings and authorization to confess judgment prohibited.

(c) An assignment of earnings or an authorization in violation of this section is subject to the provisions of section 28-3813(d)(1) of this subtitle. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 670.)

§ 28-3805. Debts secured by cross-collateral.

(a) If debts arising from two or more consumer credit sales other than sales pursuant to a revolving charge account (§ 28-3701), are secured by cross-collateral, or consolidated into one debt payable on a single schedule of payments, and the debt is secured by security interests taken with respect to one or more of the sales, payments received by the seller after the taking of the cross-collateral or the consolidation are deemed, for the purpose of determining the amount of the debt secured by the various security interests, to have been first applied to the payment of the debts arising from the sales first made. To the extent debts are paid according to this section, security interests in items of property terminate as the debts originally incurred with respect to each item are paid.

(b) Payment received by the seller upon a revolving charge are deemed, for the purpose of determining the amount of the debt secured by the various security interests, to have been applied first to the payment of credit service charges in the order of their entry to the account and then to the payment of debts in the order in which the entries to the account showing the debts were made.

(c) If the debts consolidated arose from two or more sales made on the same day, payments received by the seller are deemed, for the purpose of determining the amount of the debt secured by the various security interests, to have been applied first to the payment of the smallest debt. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 670.)

§ 28-3806. Attorney's fees.

With respect to a consumer credit sale or direct installment loans the agreement may provide for the payment by the consumer of reasonable attorney's fees not in excess of 15 per centum of the unpaid balance of the obligation. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 670.)

§ 28-3807. Negotiable instruments prohibited.

(a) In a consumer credit sale, no seller shall take or otherwise arrange for the consumer to sign an instrument, except a check, payable "to order" or "to bearer" as evidence of the credit obligation of the consumer.

(b) Any holder of an instrument prohibited by subsection (a) of this section 28-3807, if he takes it with knowledge of a violation of this section, takes it subject to all claims and defenses of the consumer up to the amount owing on the transaction total at the time of the assignment. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 670.)

§ 28-3808. Assignees subject to defenses.

(a) With respect to a consumer credit sale, an assignee of the rights of the seller or lessor is subject to all claims and defenses of the consumer or lessee arising out of the sale notwithstanding any terms or agreements to the contrary, but the assignee's liability under this section may not exceed the amount owing to the assignee at the time of the assignment.

(b) Rights of the consumer or lessee can only be asserted as a matter of defense to or set-off against a claim by the assignee. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 670.)

§ 28-3809. Lender subject to defenses arising from sales.

(a) A lender who makes a direct installment loan for the purpose of enabling a consumer to purchase goods or services is subject to all claims and defenses of the consumer against the seller arising out of the purchase of the goods or service if such lender acts at the express request of the seller, and—

(1) the seller participates in the preparation of the loan instruments, or

(2) the lender is a person or organization controlled by or under common control with the seller, or

(3) the seller receives or will receive a fee, compensation, or other consideration from the lender for arranging the loan.

(b) The lender's liability under this section may not exceed the amount of the loan. Rights of the debtor can only be asserted affirmatively in an action to cancel and void the sale from its inception, or as a matter of defense to or set-off against a claim by the lender. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 671.)

§ 28-3810. Referral sales.

With respect to a consumer credit sale, the seller or lessor may not give or offer to give a rebate or discount or otherwise pay or offer to pay value to the buyer or lessee as an inducement for a sale or lease in consideration of his giving to the seller or lessor the names of prospective purchasers of lesses, or otherwise aiding the seller or lessor in making a sale or lease to another person, if the earning of the rebate, discount, or other value is contingent upon the occurrence of an event subsequent to the time the buyer or lessee agrees to buy or lease. If a buyer or lessee is induced by a violation of this section to enter into a consumer credit sale, the agreement is unenforceable by the seller or lessor and the buyer or lessee, at his option, may rescind the agreement or retain the goods delivered and the benefit of any services performed, without any obligation to pay for them. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 671.)

§ 28-3811. Home solicitation sales.

(a) As used in this section, "home solicitation sale" means a cash sale or a consumer credit sale of goods, other than farm equipment, or services in which the seller or a person acting for him engages in a personal solicitation of the sale at or near a residence of the buyer and the buyer's agreement or offer to purchase is there given to a seller or a person acting for him. It does not include a sale made pursuant to a preexisting revolving credit account or prior negotiations between the parties at a business establishment at a fixed location where goods or services are offered or exhibited for sale.

(b) Except as provided in subsection (f), in addition to any right otherwise to revoke an offer, the buyer has the right to cancel a home solicitation sale until midnight of the third business day after the day on which the buyer signs an agreement or offer to purchase which complies with this section.

(c) Cancellation occurs when the buyer gives written notice of cancellation to the seller at the address stated in the agreement or offer to purchase.

(d) Notice of cancellation, if given by mail, is given when it is deposited in a mail box properly addressed and the postage prepaid.

(e) Notice of cancellation given by the buyer need not take a particular form and is sufficient if it indicates by any form of written expression the intention of the buyer not to be bound by the home solicitation sale.

(f) The buyer may not cancel a home solicitation sale if the buyer requests the seller to provide goods or services without delay because of an emergency, and

(1) the seller in good faith makes a substantial beginning of performance of the contract before the buyer gives notice of cancellation, and

(2) in the case of goods, the goods cannot be returned to the seller in substantially as good condition as when received by the buyer, and

(3) the buyer has signed separately the following notice which appears under the conspicuous caption: "WAIVER OF RIGHT TO CANCEL" and reads as follows: "Because of an emergency I waive any right I may have to cancel this home solicitation sale".

(g) (1) In a home solicitation sale, unless the buyer requests the seller to provide goods or services without delay in an emergency, the seller must present to the buyer and obtain his signature to a written agreement or offer to purchase which designates as the date of the transaction the date on which the buyer actually signs and contains a statement of the buyer's rights which complies with paragraph (2) of this subsection.

(2) The statement must—

(A) appear under this conspicuous caption: "BUYERS RIGHT TO CANCEL", and

(B) read as follows:

"If this agreement was solicited at or near your residence and you do not want the goods or services, you may cancel this agreement by mailing a notice to the seller. The notice must say that you do not want the goods or services and must be mailed before midnight of the third business day after you signed this agreement. The notice must be mailed to:-----

(insert name and address of seller)

If you cancel, the seller may not keep any of your cash down payment."

(3) Until the seller has complied with this section the buyer may cancel the home solicitation sale by notifying the seller in any manner and by any means of his intention to cancel.

(h) (1) Except as provided in this section, within ten days after a home solicitation sale has been canceled or an offer to purchase revoked the seller must tender to the buyer any payments made by the buyer and any note or other evidence of indebtedness. A provision permitting the seller to keep all or any part of any payment, note, or evidence of indebtedness is in violation of this section and unenforceable.

(2) If the down payment includes goods traded in, the goods must be tendered in substantially as good condition as when received by the seller. If the seller fails to tender the goods as provided by this section, the buyer may elect to recover an amount equal to the trade-in allowance stated in the agreement.

(3) The seller is not entitled to retain a cancellation fee.

(4) Until the seller has complied with the obligations imposed by this section the buyer may retain possession of goods delivered to him by the seller and has a lien on the goods in his possession or control for any recovery to which he is entitled.

(i) (1) Except as provided by the provisions on retention of goods by the buyer (subsection (h) (4) of this section), within a reasonable time after a home solicitation sale has been canceled or an offer to purchase revoked, the buyer upon demand must tender to the seller any goods delivered by the seller pursuant to the sale but he is not obligated to tender at any place other than his residence. If the seller fails to demand possession of goods within a reasonable time after cancellation or revocation, the goods become the property of the buyer without obligation to pay for them. For the purpose of this section, forty days is presumed to be a reasonable time.

(2) The buyer has a duty to take reasonable care of the goods in his possession before cancellation or revocation and for a reasonable time thereafter, during which time the goods are otherwise at the seller's risk.

(3) If the seller has performed any services pursuant to a home solicitation sale prior to its cancellation, the seller is entitled to no compensation. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 671.)

§ 28-3812. Limitation on creditors' remedies.

(a) This section applies to actions or other proceedings to enforce rights arising from consumer credit sales, consumer leases, and direct installment loans (other than a loan directly secured on real estate or a direct motor vehicle installment loan covered by chapter 36 of title 28, District of Columbia Code); and, in addition, to extortionate extensions of credit.

(b) (1) During the thirty-day period after a default consisting of a failure to pay money the creditor may not because of the default (A) accelerate the unpaid balance of the obligation, (B) bring action against the debtor, or (C) proceed against the collateral.

(2) Unless the creditor has first (A) notified the debtor that he has elected to accelerate the unpaid balance of the obligation because of default, (B) brought action against the debtor, or (C) proceeded against the collateral, the debtor may cure a default consisting of a failure to pay money by tendering the amount of all unpaid sums due at the time of tender, without acceleration, plus any unpaid delinquency or deferral charges. Cure restores the debtor to his rights under the agreement as though the defaults cured had not occurred.

(3) Posting of any notice required by law shall be deemed valid if mailed by certified mail to the debtor's last known address.

(c) (1) The debtor may redeem the collateral from the creditor at any time—

(A) within fifteen days of the creditor's taking possession of the collateral, or

(B) thereafter until the creditor has either disposed of the collateral, entered into a contract for its disposition, or gained the right to retain the collateral in satisfaction of the debtor's obligation pursuant to the provisions on disposition of collateral in section 9-505 of subtitle I of title 28, District of Columbia Code.

(2) The debtor may redeem the collateral by tendering fulfillment of all obligations secured by the collateral including reasonable expenses incurred in realizing on the security interest.

(d) Subject to the provisions in this part, the parties may agree that the creditor has the right to take possession of the collateral on default. In taking possession, a secured party may proceed without judicial process if this can be done without breach of the peace and with consent of the debtor. Those who take the collateral through repossession shall be deemed the agent of the creditor, and the creditor shall be civilly liable for any of the actions of its agents.

(e) (1) This subsection applies to consumer credit sales of goods or services and to direct installment loans secured by interests in goods.

(2) A creditor may not maintain a proceeding for a deficiency unless he has disposed of the goods in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner.

(3) If the creditor repossesses or voluntarily accepts surrender of goods which were the subject of the sale and in which he has a security interest, the consumer is not personally liable to the creditor for the unpaid balance of debt arising from the sale of a commercial unit of goods of which the cash price was $2,000 or less. In that case the creditor is not obligated to resell the collateral unless the consumer has paid 60 percent or more of the cash price and has not signed after default a statement renouncing his rights in the collateral.

(4) If the creditor takes possession or voluntarily accepts surrender of goods which were not the subject of the sale but in which he has a security interest to secure a debt arising from a sale of goods or services or a combined sale of goods and services and the cash price of the sale was $2,000 or less, the debtor is not personally liable to the creditor for the unpaid balance of the debt arising from the sale and the creditor's duty to dispose of the collateral is governed by the provisions on disposition of collateral in section 9-505 of subtitle I of title 28, District of Columbia Code.

(5) If the creditor takes possession or voluntarily accepts surrender of goods in which he has a security interest to secure a debt arising from a direct installment loan and the net proceeds of the loan paid to or for the benefit of the debtor are $2,000 or less, the consumer is not personally liable to the lender for the unpaid balance of the debt arising from the loan and the lender's duty to dispose of the collateral is governed by the provisions on disposition of collateral in section 9-505 of subtitle I of title 28, District of Columbia Code.

(6) The consumer shall be liable in damages to the creditor if the debtor has wrongfully damaged the collateral or if, after default and demand, the debtor has wrongfully failed to make collateral available to the creditor.

(7) If the creditor elects to bring an action against the buyer for a debt arising from a consumer credit sale of goods or services, when under this section he would not be entitled to a deficiency judgment if he repossessed the collateral, and obtains judgment—

(A) he may not repossess the collateral, and

(B) the collateral is not subject to levy or sale on execution or similar proceedings pursuant to the judgment.

(f) (1) If it is the understanding of the creditor and the debtor at the time an extension of credit is made that delay in making repayment or failure to make repayment could result in the use of violence or other criminal means to cause harm to the person, reputation, or property of any person, the repayment of the extension of credit is unenforceable through civil judicial processes against the debtor.

(2) If it is shown that an extension of credit was made at an annual rate exceeding 45 per centum and that the creditor then had a reputation for the use or threat of use of violence or other criminal means to cause harm to the person, reputation, or property of any person to collect extensions of credit or to punish the nonrepayment thereof, there is prima facie evidence that the extension of credit was unenforceable under paragraph (1) of this subsection.

(g) (1) With respect to a consumer credit sale, or direct installment loan, if the court as a matter of law finds—

(A) the agreement to have been unconscionable at the time it was made, or to have been induced by unconscionable conduct, the court may refuse to enforce the agreement, or

(B) any clause of the agreement to have been unconscionable at the time it was made, the court may refuse to enforce the agreement, or may enforce the remainder of the agreement without the unconscionable clause, or may so limit the application of any unconscionable clause as to avoid any unconscionable result.

(2) If it is claimed or appears to the court that the agreement or any clause thereof may be unconscionable the parties shall be afforded a reasonable opportunity to present evidence as to its setting, purpose, and effect to aid the court in making the determination.

(3) For the purpose of this section, a charge or practice expressly permitted by this section is not in and of itself unconscionable in the absence of other practices and circumstances. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 673.)

§ 28-3813. Consumers' remedies.

(a) The remedies provided by this section shall be liberally administered to the end that the consumer as the aggrieved party shall be put in at least as good a position as if the creditor had fully complied with this chapter. Except as is otherwise specifically provided where there are willful and repeated violations of this chapter consequential and special damages may be had in lieu of the specific penalties allowed, and in addition punitive damages may be had as indicated.

(b) Any right or obligation declared by this chapter is enforceable by action unless the provision declaring it specifies a different and limited effect.

(c) "Transaction total" means—

(1) in the case of transactions pursuant to open end credit plans or consumer credit transactions, the total of the following calculated as if the amount or amounts financed were paid over the maximum period of the plan or, if there is no such period, over twelve months beginning with the next billing cycle or cycles following the transaction or transactions:

(A) the amount financed, plus any down payment or required deposit balance, and

(B) the total finance charge, including any prepaid finance charge;

(2) in the case of other than open end transactions or consumer credit transactions, the total of the following:

(A) the amount financed, plus any down payment or required deposit balance, and

(B) the amount of all precomputed or precomputable finance charge, including any prepaid finance charge.

(d) (1) In the discretion of the court, a consumer may recover from the person violating this chapter, in addition to the damages the law otherwise allows, 10 percent of the transaction total, if applicable, or $100, whichever is greater, for violations to which this section applies.

(2) This section also applies to all violations for which no other remedy is specifically provided.

(e) If a consumer prevails in a suit brought under this Act,<sup>1</sup> the court may assess reasonable attorney's fees in addition to any other amounts recoverable under this chapter.

(f) Any charge, practice, term, clause, provision, security interest, or other action or conduct which can be shown to be in willful violation of the provisions of this chapter shall confer no rights or obligations enforceable by action. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, § 4, 85 Stat. 675.)

(d) No debt collector shall unreasonably oppress, harass, or abuse any person in connection with the collection of or attempt to collect any claim alleged to be due and owing by that person or another in any of the following ways:

(8) any representation that an existing obligation of the consumer may be increased by the addition of attorney's fees, investigation fees, service fees, or any other fees or charges when in fact such fees or charges may not legally be added to the existing obligation; and

(9) any false representation or false impression about the status or true nature of or the services rendered by the debt collector or his business.

(g) No debt collector shall use unfair or unconscionable means to collect or attempt to collect any claim in any of the following ways:

(i) No debt collector shall take or accept for assignment any of the following:

(1) an assignment of any claim for attorney's fees which have not been lawfully provided for in the writing evidencing the obligation; or

(2) an assignment for collection of any claim upon which suit has been filed or judgment obtained, without the debt collector first making a reasonable effort to contact the attorney representing the consumer.

(j) (1) Proof, by substantial evidence, that a debt collector has willfully violated any provision of the foregoing subsections of this section shall subject such debt collector to liability to any person affected by such violation for all damages proximately caused by the violation.

(2) Punitive damages may be awarded to any person affected by a willful violation of the foregoing subsections of this section, when and in such amount as is deemed appropriate by the court and trier of fact. (Added Dec. 17, 1971, Pub. L. 92-200, §4, 85 Stat. 675.)

§ 29-240. Sale, lease, or exchange of property or assets as an entirety—Transfer of franchise—Agreement submitted to stockholders—Rights of dissenting stockholders—Procedure—Effect of performance of agreement—Recording.

Every corporation having capital stock and heretofore or hereafter organized or existing under this chapter and sections 26-302 and 44-101 to 44-103, or which has availed or may hereafter avail itself of the provisions of this chapter and sections 26-302 and 44-101 to 44-103 pursuant to sections 29-101, 29-102, may, pursuant to a meeting of its stockholders, held upon notice given in accordance with the provisions of section 29-231, sell, lease, or exchange all of its property and assets as an entirety, including its good will, and franchises howsoever granted and/or acquired, to or with any other such corporation or any other corporation organized or existing under the laws of any state of the United States which is duly authorized by its charter or otherwise to acquire and hold such or similar property, or to or with any natural person. An agreement containing the terms and conditions of the proposed sale, lease, or exchange shall, after approval thereof by a majority of the trustees or directors of such vendor, lessor, or grantor corporation, be submitted to said stockholders at said meeting for their approval; and if approved by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of all the stock outstanding (or, if two or more classes of stock have been issued, of two-thirds of each class, including stock of any class to which the charter denies the right to vote), such agreement shall be executed and its terms and conditions performed. Any stockholder who, at such meeting, voted against the agreement submitted or who shall in writing file his protest at least five days before the holding of such meeting, may within twenty days after such meeting (but not afterwards) make upon such vendor, lessor, or grantor corporation a written demand for payment for his stock; and he shall thereupon be entitled to receive an amount equal to the fair value thereof, unaffected by such sale, lease, or exchange of said corporate property and assets. If such dissenting stockholder and said vendor, lessor, or grantor corporation of which he is a stockholder shall fail to agree upon the fair value of said stock (or if, having agreed, such corporation shall fail to pay or tender the amount thereof), such stockholder shall be entitled to file, within thirty days after such written demand (but not afterwards, against said vendor, lessor or grantor corporation, in the court having jurisdiction of civil actions wherein the amount in controversy exceeds $50,000, a petition for an accounting and for the ascertainment of the fair value of his shares without regard to any depreciation or appreciation thereof in consequence of such sale, lease, or exchange; and on the coming in of the answer to said petition, which shall be filed within such reasonable period as the court may fix, the court shall pass an order referring the matter to a commissioner or commissioners agreed upon by the parties, and if the parties do not so agree, then to the auditor of said court, for the purpose of ascertaining such fair value, and such order may prescribe the time and manner of producing evidence; and the award of said commissioner or commissioners (or that of a majority of them) or of said auditor, when confirmed by decree of said court, shall be final and conclusive on all parties, and said vendor, lessor, or grantor corporation shall pay such stockholder the fair value of his shares ascertained as aforesaid, and on receiving such payment or on a tender thereof, said stockholder shall transfer his stock to the said vendor, lessor, or grantor corporation for cancelation, and until said award is paid or tendered, said stockholder shall have a lien for the payment of such award on the proceeds of such sale, lease, or exchange, prior to any distribution by said vendor, lessor, or grantor corporation and said payment and lien may be collected and enforced in the same manner as other decrees and liens are by law enforceable in such court. If the amount awarded said stockholder exceeds the amount offered by the corporation prior to the filing of said suit, costs shall be awarded to said stockholder; otherwise, costs shall be awarded to the corporation. Each party shall have the right of appeal as in other cases in such court. The proceeding by a dissenting stockholder hereunder shall not prevent or delay the execution and performance of any agreement so approved by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of each class of stock: Provided, however, That the right granted to a dissenting stockholder hereunder to demand payment for his shares shall cease, if at any time prior to the entry of any decree herein provided for, the defendant corporation shall make it appear to such court that the agreement of sale, lease, or exchange has been rescinded by appropriate corporate action, so that the shares of such dissenting shareholder remain unaffected thereby. Upon the performance of any agreement of sale hereunder of all of the property and assets as an entirety of a corporation (including its good will and franchises), all property, assets, rights, privileges, franchises, and powers of said selling corporation shall be vested in the purchasing corporation or person and shall thereafter be as effectually the property of the purchasing corporation or person as they were of the selling corporation subject to the provisions of this section, and such purchasing corporation or person shall thereupon immediately file in the office of the recorder of deeds of the District of Columbia proper evidence of such sale, and thereupon said selling corporation shall be dissolved and cease, subject, however, to the provisions of sections 29-715 to 29-718. Nothing contained herein shall affect the provisions of sections 28-1701 to 28-1705, or any of the provisions of chapters 1-10 of title 43, or any amendment or supplement thereof, or of any other law regulating public-utility corporations in the District of Columbia. § 29-1102. Definitions.

(b) The term "professional service" means any type of personal service to the public which may be lawfully rendered only pursuant to a license and which by law, custom, standards of professional conduct or practice in the District of Columbia, before December 10, 1971, could not be rendered by a corporation, including without limitation the services performed by certified public accountants, attorneys, architects, practitioners of the healing arts, dentists, optometrists, podiatrists, and professional engineers.

CODIFICATION

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 29-1114.

§ 29-1103. Applicability.

This chapter shall not apply to any corporation now in existence or hereafter organized which may lawfully render professional services other than pursuant to this chapter, nor shall anything herein contained alter or affect any existing or future right or privilege permitting or not prohibiting performance of professional services through the use of any form of business organization. Any corporation organized under chapter 9 of this title may be brought within the provisions of this chapter by complying with the provisions of this chapter and filing amended or restated articles of incorporation meeting the requirements of section 29-1106. (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 3, 85 Stat. 577.)

§ 29-1104. Construction.

The provisions of this chapter shall not be construed as repealing, modifying, or restricting the applicable provisions of law relating to corporations, or regulating the several professions covered by this chapter, except insofar as such laws conflict with the provisions of this chapter. Except as otherwise provided by this chapter, the provisions of chapter 9 of this title shall be applicable to any professional corporation organized under this chapter. (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 4, 85 Stat. 577.)

§ 29-1105. Purpose; powers.

A professional corporation may charge for such services, may collect such charges, and may compensate those who render such service. A professional corporation may employ persons who are not licensed, but such persons shall not perform professional services; and no license shall be required of any person who is employed by a professional corporation to perform services for which no license is otherwise required.

(b) No professional corporation may do any act which is prohibited to an individual licensed to render the professional service for which the corporation is organized.

(c) Notwithstanding any provision of this chapter, a professional corporation may—

(i) invest its funds in real estate, mortgages, stocks, bonds, or other type of investment;

(ii) own real estate or personal property; and

(iii) enter into partnership and other agreements with individuals (who may be shareholders, directors, employees, or agents of the professional corporation), partnerships, or professional corporations rendering the same type of professional services within or without the District of Columbia, to the same extent that an individual licensed to render the same professional service may enter into such partnership or other agreements pursuant to law, rules, regulations, or standards of professional conduct of the profession practiced through the professional corporation.

§ 29-1106. Incorporation.

One or more natural persons may incorporate a professional corporation by delivering articles of incorporation in duplicate originals to the Commissioner. The articles of incorporation shall meet the requirements of chapter 9 of this title and, in addition, shall set forth—

(b) the names and addresses, including street and number, if any, of the original shareholders of the corporation; and

(c) a statement that each of the original shareholders and directors named in the articles of incorporation is licensed to render a professional service which the corporation is to be organized. (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 6, 85 Stat. 578.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 29-1103, 29-1114.

§ 29-1107. Number of directors.

A professional corporation shall have one or more directors, without regard to the number of shareholders. (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 7, 85 Stat. 578.)

§ 29-1108. Qualifications of shareholder, director, and officer.

No person shall be a shareholder, director, or officer of a professional corporation or render professional services on its behalf unless he is an individual licensed to render a professional service for which the corporation is organized, except that if a professional corporation has only one shareholder, the secretary of the corporation need not be licensed to perform (and may not perform if not so licensed) such professional services. As used in this section, the term "officer" shall mean chairman of the board, president, vice president, treasurer, and secretary. Nothing in this chapter shall require a shareholder or incorporator of a professional corporation to have a present or future employment relationship with the corporation or actively to participate in any capacity in the production of income of, or performance of professional service by, such corporation. (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 8, 85 Stat. 578.)

§ 29-1109. Corporate name.

The corporate name shall contain the words "professional corporation", or the abbreviation "P.C.", or the word "chartered", and shall not contain the word "company", "incorporated", "corporation", or "limited", or an abbreviation of one of such words. (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 10, 85 Stat. 578.)

§ 29-1111. Professional relationship; liabilities.

(a) The provisions of this chapter shall not be construed to alter or affect the professional relationship between an individual furnishing professional services and an individual receiving such service, either with respect to liability arising out of such professional service or the confidential relationship, if any, between the individual rendering, and the individual receiving such professional service. An individual shall be personally liable and accountable only for any negligent or wrongful acts or misconduct committed by him, or by any individual under his supervision and control in the rendering of professional service on behalf of a corporation organized under this chapter. No individual shall be so personally liable and accountable merely because he is a director, officer, or manager of the professional corporation.

(b) The corporation shall be liable up to the full value of its assets for any negligent or wrongful acts or misconduct committed by any of its officers, shareholders, directors, agents, or employees in their rendering of professional services on behalf of the corporation. Except as otherwise provided in this section, the liabilities of a professional corporation and its shareholders shall be governed by chapter 9 of this title. (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. (a) Shares in a professional corporation may be transferred only to an individual who is eligible under this chapter to be a shareholder of such corporation, or to such professional corporation, or may devolve by operation of law upon the personal representative or estate of a deceased or legally incompetent shareholder. The articles of incorporation, bylaws, or an agreement among its shareholders may provide that any such transfer shall be subject to the express approval of all, or of any lesser proportion of the remaining shareholders of the corporation, and may provide for the manner in which such consent shall be given. Any transfer made in violation of this section shall be void.

(b) A professional corporation may reacquire its own shares through purchase or redemption, and may cancel such shares if at least one share remains issued and outstanding, except when it is insolvent or the purchase or redemption would render it insolvent.

(c) The provisions of chapter 24 of title 2, and of the Securities Act of 1933 (15 U.S.C. 77a et seq.), shall not apply to the issuance or transfer of securities of a professional corporation. Every certificate for shares of a professional corporation shall contain on its face the following legend: "The ownership and transfer of these shares and the rights and obligations of shareholders are subject to the limitations of the District of Columbia Professional Corporation Act."

(d) In the event that shares of a professional corporation are attached for the individual debts of a shareholder, or are executed upon under any pledge or hypothecation thereof, the sole right of the creditor with respect to such shares shall be to obtain their redemption by such professional corporation within sixty days after serving written demand for redemption upon such corporation. The redemption price for such shares shall be (1) the amount to which the shareholder is entitled upon voluntary redemption of his shares by the provisions of the articles of incorporations, bylaws, or an agreement among its shareholders, or if there are no such provisions, (2) the book value of such shares at the end of the month immediately preceding the date of such demand, determined under generally accepted accounting methods consistent with the method of accounting used by the corporation for Federal income tax purposes, by an independent certified public accountant selected by the corporation, but paid by such creditor, for the purpose. (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 12, 85 Stat. 579.)

§ 29-1113. Merger or consolidation.

A professional corporation may merge or consolidate only with another domestic professional corporation, and only if both corporations are organized to render the same professional services or professional services which, although not the same, could otherwise be rendered by a single professional corporation. (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 13, 85 Stat. 580.)

§ 29-1114. Foreign professional corporations.

Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter, a foreign professional corporation licensed in a jurisdiction other than the District of Columbia to perform a professional service of the type defined in section 29-1102(b), may apply for and obtain a certificate of authority to render such professional services in the District of Columbia under the following terms and conditions:

(a) The articles of incorporation shall meet the requirements of section 29-1106, and shall state the address of its registered office in the District of Columbia and the name of its registered agent in the District of Columbia.

(b) The name of the foreign professional corporation shall meet the requirements of section 29-1109 and shall conform to any ethical standards applicable to the rendering of professional service in the District of Columbia.

(c) The powers of any foreign professional corporation admitted under this section shall not exceed the powers permitted to domestic professional corporations under section 29-1105.

(e) An annual report shall be filed in accordance with the requirements of section 29-1119.

(f) No certificate of authority shall be granted to a professional corporation incorporated in a jurisdiction which does not permit reciprocal admission of professional corporations incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia. (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 14, 85 Stat. 580.)

§ 29-1115. Disqualified professional.

If any individual rendering professional services on behalf of a professional corporation assumes a public office which prohibits his rendering of the professional services, or for any other reason is disqualified by law to render the professional services, he immediately shall sever all employment relationship in which he shares in the corporation's profits attributable to professional services rendered after such assumption of office or other disqualification. For the purposes of section 29-1116, he shall be referred to as a "disqualified shareholder". (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 15, 85 Stat. 580.)

§ 29-1116. Stock of disqualified, deceased, legally incompetent shareholder.

(a) Subject to the limitations of this section, a disqualified shareholder and personal representatives, legatees, or heirs of a deceased or legally incompetent shareholder may continue to own shares of a professional corporation but shall not be permitted to participate in any decisions concerning the rendering of professional services by the corporation. The articles of incorporation, bylaws, or an agreement among the shareholders of a professional corporation may provide, consistent with the provisions of this section, for the disposition of shares of a disqualified, deceased, or legally incompetent shareholder.

(b) The articles of incorporation, bylaws, or an agreement among shareholders may provide that, within ninety days (or any earlier date) after the date a shareholder becomes a disqualified shareholder, the disqualified shareholder shall sell and surrender, and the corporation or any individuals qualified to be shareholders shall purchase and receive, his shares of stock of the corporation. In the absence of any such provision, the disqualified shareholder shall sell and surrender, and the corporation shall purchase and receive, his shares of stock of the corporation within thirty days after the date he becomes a disqualified shareholder. Unless otherwise provided by the articles of incorporation, bylaws, or an agreement among the shareholders, payment for the shares of stock purchased pursuant to the provisions of this subsection shall be made in full no later than six months after the expiration of the period by which the purchases must be made.

(c) The articles of incorporation, bylaws, or an agreement among shareholders may provide that, within one year (or any earlier date) after the date of death of a shareholder, his personal representative, legatees, or heirs shall sell and surrender, and the corporation or any individuals qualified to be shareholders shall purchase and receive, the shares of stock of the corporation owned by the deceased shareholder. In the absence of any such provision, the personal representatives, legatees, or heirs shall sell and surrender, and the corporation shall purchase and receive, the shares of stock of the corporation within one hundred and eighty days after the date of death of the shareholder. Unless otherwise provided by the articles of incorporation, bylaws, or an agreement among the shareholders, payment for the shares of stock purchased pursuant to the provision of this subsection shall be made in full no later than one year after the date of death of the shareholder. (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 16, 85 Stat. 580.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

§ 29-1117. Redemption price.

In the event the articles of incorporation, bylaws or an agreement among the shareholders, do not fix the price at which the corporation or its shareholders may purchase the shares of a disqualified, deceased, legally incompetent, retired, or expelled shareholder, or does not provide a method of determining such price, then the price for such shares shall be the book value of such shares on the last day of the month immediately preceding the disqualification, death, adjudication of incompetence, retirement or expulsion of the shareholder, determined under generally accepted accounting methods, consistent with the method of accounting used by the corporation for Federal income tax purposes, by an independent certified public accountant employed by the corporation for the purpose. (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 17, 85 Stat. 581.)

§ 29-1118. Perpetual existence; dissolution.

A professional corporation shall have perpetual existence, except that whenever all shareholders of a professional corporation cease at any time for any reason to be licensed to perform the professional services for which the corporation was organized, the professional corporation shall be treated as converted into a corporation organized under chapter 9 of this title. Unless the holders of all of the outstanding shares of the corporation unanimously amend the articles of incorporation to adopt purposes consistent with chapter 9 of this title within sixty days after the date on which the last shareholder of the corporation ceased to be licensed to perform those professional services, the dissolution of the corporation shall be deemed to have been authorized by the act of the corporation and any shareholder may at any time thereafter file with the Commissioner, on behalf of the corporation, a statement of intent to dissolve. (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 18, 85 Stat. 582.)

(a) the names and addresses, including street and number, if any, of all shareholders of the corporation; and

(b) a statement that each shareholder, director, and officer of the corporation is currently licensed to render a professional service for which the corporation is organized. (Dec. 10, 1971, Pub. L. 92-180, § 19, 85 Stat. 582.)

Chapter 2.—PROPERTY RIGHTS

§ 30-201. Married women—Power to dispose of separate property—Under 21 years of age.

NOTES TO DECISION

Tenancy by entirety

Tenancy by the entirety is recognized whether the subject matter is real or personal. In re Estate of J. S. Wall (1971, 440 F. 2d 215, 142 U.S. App. D.C. 187).

Rights and remedies of existing creditors cannot be obliterated by the expedient of erecting a tenancy by the entirety in property that is otherwise vulnerable. Id.

Where decedent and his widow had owned real estate as tenants by the entirety, and the property was sold in order to avert foreclosure and proceeds were deposited in account in names of decedent and his widow as tenants by the entirety, and the decedent had desired no change in type of ownership of proceeds, proceeds were free from claims of decedent's creditors, and fact that decedent and widow had been separated and had filed separate income tax return would not support inference that decedent and widow had mutually undertaken to dissolve tenancy by the entirety in the fund. Id.

§ 30-216. Release of dower.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 45-501.

§ 30-211. Husband liable for wife's acts in certain cases.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Remarried wife

Generally, husband's liability for debts and necessities of the wife ceases upon her remarriage unless continued liability on his part is expressly provided for in the separation agreement or divorce decree. W. T. Francis v. D. H. Murray (D.C. App. 1971, 284 A. 2d 663).

Language within settlement and support agreement that divorced husband agreed “to pay all extraordinary medical and dental expenses of minor children and wife, during their minority.” did not mean that the husband's liability for such expenses of wife would continue after her remarriage, particularly in view of failure to use phrase “even if the wife remarried” in conjunction with such language, though such phrase had been used twice previously in the agreement. Id.

Chapter 3.—UNIFORM SUPPORT

§ 30-301. Purpose—Effective date.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 11-1101.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Constitutionality

The Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, this chapter, requiring husband, wife, father, mother, or adult child of recipient of public assistance to be responsible, according to his ability to pay, for support of such recipient, does not deny due process. C. Groover v. Essex County Welfare Board (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 143).

Fact that county welfare board sought to collect support for mother only from one son under this chapter requiring husband, wife, father, mother, or adult child of recipient of public assistance to be responsible according to his ability to pay, for support of such recipient, and not from other children, who live in other jurisdictions, and who are allegedly able to contribute, does not render application of such chapter to son a denial of equal protection. Id.

As used in this chapter, unless the context requires otherwise—

* * * * *

(d) “Court” means the Family Division of the Superior Court and, when the context requires, means the court of any other State as defined in a substantially similar reciprocal law.

AMENDMENT

1970—Section 159(f) (1) of Act July 29, 1970, Public Law 91-358 amended subsection (d) by striking out “Domestic Relations Branch of the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia” and inserting in lieu thereof “Family Division of the Superior Court.”

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11-101.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 11-1101.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Duration of support

Father's motion to vacate and set aside all support orders entered against him, under Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, was premature where filed before child's 18th birthday, and judgment under Act required current support payments until child reached 18. W. Howze v. E. Howze (D.C. App. 1967, 225 A. 2d 477).

Law governing

District of Columbia judgment, under Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, requiring husband to make support payments until child reaches 18, was not in conflict with doctrines of res judicata or full faith and credit regarding Michigan divorce decree which required payments only until age 17. W. Howze v. E. Howze (D.C. App. 1967, 225 A. 2d 477).

Stepchild

Since the husband did not intend that in loco parentis relation should continue during separation as to child of wife by her former marriage, husband is not obliged to provide support for such child. L. Jackson, Jr. v. L. Jackson (D.C. App. 1971, 278 A. 2d 114).

§ 30-303. Remedies additional to those now existing.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 11-1101.

Additional support

Under Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, wife, who has obtained foreign divorce, may petition for additional support after divorce decree has been fully satisfied. W. Howze v. E. Howze (D.C. App. 1967, 225 A. 2d 477).

Decision determining father's continued liability under judgment previously entered under Uniform Act and requiring support payments until Michigan child should reach 18, would not impair right of mother, who had obtained Michigan divorce, to petition Michigan court for further support under Uniform Act after child reached 18. Id.

Imprisonment for contempt

The intermediate appellate court was quite aware that order of imprisonment must take into account the financial ability of the contemnor to comply with the terms of a court order, and that the appellant failed to make a showing of lack of financial ability in this case. J. R. Scott v. I. R. Scott (1967, 382 F. 2d 461, 127 U.S. App. D.C. 245).

Money judgment

Money judgment was proper means of collecting arrears in payments due under foreign decree for support of child. W. Howze v. E. Howze (D.C. App. 1967, 225 A. 2d 477).

§ 30-304. Extent of duties of support.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 11-1101.

Reliance on divorce decree

Evidence supported finding that divorce decree was no longer being relied upon to impose a duty of support on father, where order at issue was granted in response to mother's petition to increase support payments for her child until child reached age 18, and that order, though not specific, was intended to continue at lease until child was 17 years, 3 months old, and more likely until her 18th birthday, and, under either view, reliance was clearly placed on District of Columbia support laws and not on 1961 divorce decree which provided for support only until child reached age 17. W. Howze v. E. Howze (1967, 385 F. 2d 986, 128 U.S. App. D.C. 204).

Stepchild

Since the husband did not intend that in loco parentis relation should continue during separation as to child of wife by her former marriage, husband is not obliged to provide support for such child. L. Jackson, Jr. v. L. Jackson (D.C. App. 1971, 278 A. 2d 114).

Support duties

Under Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, enforceable duties of support include those imposed or impossible under laws of any state where alleged obligor was present during period for which support was sought. W. Howze v. E. Howze (D.C. App. 1967, 225 A. 2d 477).

§ 30-305. Remedies of a State furnishing support or institutional care.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 11-1101.

§ 30-306. How duties of support are enforced, jurisdiction in domestic relations court—Proceedings.

Proceedings to enforce duties of support initiated by the District of Columbia shall be commenced by the filing of a complaint irrespective of the relationship between the plaintiff and defendant. Jurisdiction of all proceedings under this chapter is vested in the Family Division of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia which shall have all power and authority heretofore vested in the Domestic Relations Branch of the District of Columbia Court of General Sessions. (July 10, 1957, 71 Stat. 286 Pub. L. 85-94, § 6; July 8, 1963, 77 Stat. 77, Pub. L. 88-60, § 1; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91-358, § 165(d), title I, 84 Stat. 586.)

1970—Section 165(d) of Act July 29, 1970, Public Law 91-358, amended section to read as above set out. For provisions of this section prior to this amendment, see 1967 edition of the code, and supplement III, thereto.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Abuse of discretion

Award requiring son, pursuant to Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, this chapter, obligating husband, wife, father, mother or adult child of recipient of public assistance to be responsible, according to his ability to pay, for support of such recipient, to pay $30 every two weeks toward maintenance and support of his mother was not abuse of discretion. C. Groover v. Essex County Welfare Board (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 143).

Imprisonment for contempt

The intermediate appellate court was quite aware that order of imprisonment must take into account the financial ability of the contemnor to comply with the terms of a court order, and that the appellant failed to make a showing of lack of financial ability in this case. *J. ## Preference of legitimate children

Children who are the result of a marital relationship are entitled to support from their father before and in preference to child born through an illicit association. J. L. Mitchell v. B. Mitchell (D.C. App. 1969, 257 A. 2d 496; aff'd 445 F. 2d 722, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

Under support order, rendered under Uniform Act, requiring father to make support payments until child reached 18, and including “money judgment” for arrearages, any “current” payments made after 18th birthday might be applied to reduce arrearage indebtedness *W. #### FINDINGS AND DECLARATION OF PURPOSE

Section 2, act Apr. 22, 1968, Pub. L. 90-292, provided:

"The Congress hereby finds and declares that the school is a focal point of neighborhood and community activity; that the merit of its schools and educational system is a primary index to the merit of the community; and that the education of their children is a municipal matter of primary and personal concern to the citizens of a community. It is therefore the purpose of this Act to give the citizens of the Nation's Capital a direct voice in the development and conduct of the public educational system of the District of Columbia; to provide organizational arrangements whereby educational programs may be improved and coordinated with other municipal programs; and to make District schools centers of neighborhood and community life."

REPEAL

Act Apr. 22, 1968, Pub. L. 90-292, § 3(c), repealed the provisions of the act of Aug. 2, 1957, Pub. L. 85-119, § 1, which added former subsection (b) to this section. The subsection authorized the Judges of the United States District Court to remove a member of the Board of Education for cause after a public hearing.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 31-1601, 31-1621.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Approval of political party

A local statute providing that the election of District of Columbia Board of Education members should be conducted on a nonpartisan basis does not prohibit a candidate from receiving approval of political party and using benefit of such approval to his advantage. C. L. Boone v. M. Taylor, et al. (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A. 2d 411).

Constitutionality of appointment of school board

statute providing that members of the District of Columbia board of education shall be appointed by United States District Court judges of the district. J. W. Hobson, etc., et al. v. C. F. Hansen, Superintendent etc., et al. (1967, 265 F. Supp. 902).

Constitutional provision that Congress may by law vest appointment of such inferior officers as they think proper in the President alone, in the courts of law, or in heads of departments empowered Congress to enact statute providing that members of the District of Columbia board of education shall be appointed by United States District Court judges of the District of Columbia. Id.

The fact that in a number of instances Congress has conferred appointive power upon court or judges of United States District Court for the District of Columbia was not conclusive on issue of validity of statute permitting appointment of members of District of Columbia board of education by United States District Court judges of the District of Columbia but demonstrated the deep-seated congressional view of the constitutional issue and was entitled to weight in judicial decision on that issue. Id.

Power conferred upon judges by statute stating that members of District of Columbia board of education shall be appointed by United States District Court judges of District of Columbia does not violate doctrine of separation of powers. Id.

The validity of congressional conference upon United States District Court judges of District of Columbia of power to appoint District of Columbia board of education members is not to be denied merely because an appointee in carrying out his own separation functions might become involved in controversies; the board members are accountable under the law for the manner in which they perform their duties. Id.

Impairment of judicial function

Appointive power conferred by Congress under statute providing that members of District of Columbia board of education shall be appointed by United States District Court judges of the District of Columbia does not violate due process though litigation might arise before the district court over manner in which the board administers the schools. J. W. Hobson etc., et al. v. C. F. Hansen, Superintendent etc., et al. (1967, 265 F. Supp. 902).

Court could not presume that in any future case, which might involve performance by members of District of Columbia board of education of their duties, a denial of due process would occur by reason of statute empowering United States District Court judges of the District of Columbia to appoint the board members. Id.

The official act of a judge of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia in participating in selection of District of Columbia board of education members does not in and of itself preclude on due process grounds the ability of the judge to decide fairly the merits of litigation challenging validity of performance by board member of his duties as such. Id.

Pupils and parents interest to challenge school board's authority

Pupils in public schools administered by District of Columbia board of education and parents of those pupils had sufficient interest to challenge authority of the board to administer the schools on theory that statute providing that members of board shall be appointed by United States District Court judges of the District of Columbia is unconstitutional. J. W. Hobson, etc., et al. v. C. F. Hansen, Superintendent etc., et al. (1967, 265 F. Supp. 902).

The fact that issue of basic authority of District of Columbia board of education to administer schools might escape resolution unless pupils and their guardians or parents had standing to challenge validity of statute purportedly giving that authority argued for resolving doubts, if any, as to standing in favor of the pupils, parents, and guardians, in absence of hard and fast rule governing standing to sue. Id.

§ 31-102. Appointment—Promotion—Transfer or dismissal of directors, teachers, upon recommendation of superintendent.

No appointment, promotion, transfer, or dismissal of any director, supervising principal, principal, head of department, teacher, or any other subordinate to the superintendent of schools shall be made by the Board of Education, except upon the written recommendation of the superintendent of schools. (June 20, 1906, 34 Stat. 317, ch. 3446, § 2; redesignated as subsection 2(f) by Act Apr. 22, 1968, Pub. L. 90-292, § 3(b), 82 Stat. 102.)

AMENDMENT

1968—Section 3(d) of Pub. L. 90-292 amended this section by striking out "board of education" and "board" each place they appear and inserted in lieu thereof "Board of Education" and "Board" respectively.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF PUB. L. 90-292 AND TERMINATION OF OFFICE

See note to § 31-101.

§ 31-103. Determination of general policies—Expenditures of funds—Appointment of teachers and employees.

The Board shall determine all questions of general policy relating to the schools, shall appoint the executive officers hereinafter provided for, define their duties, and direct expenditures. All expenditures of public funds for such school purposes shall be made and accounted for as now provided by law under the direction and control of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia. The Board shall appoint all teachers in the manner hereinafter prescribed and all other employees provided for in this chapter. (June 20, 1906, 34 Stat. 317, ch. 3446, § 2; redesignated as subsection 2(g) by Act Apr. 22, 1968, Pub. L. 90-292, § 3(b), 82 Stat. 102.)

Equalization of expenditures

Where District's elementary schools that had 74% white enrollment had 15.5% smaller pupil-teacher ratio, 9.7% greater average teacher cost and 26.7% greater teacher expenditure per pupil than did elementary schools that had 98% black enrollment, notwithstanding contentions that discrepancies were random, were due to technological reasons beyond defendants' control, and were inconsequential, right to equal educational opportunity was being denied, and it would be ordered that per pupil expenditures for teachers' salaries and benefits in any elementary school not deviate, except for adequate justification, by more than 5% from mean per pupil expenditure for teachers' salaries and benefits at all elementary schools in District. J. W. Hobson etc., et al. v. C. F. Hansen, Superintendent etc. et al. (1971, 327 F. Supp. 844).

§ 31-104. Annual estimates.

The Board of Education shall annually on the first day of October transmit to the commissioners of the District of Columbia an estimate in detail of the amount of money required for the public schools for the ensuing year, and said commissioners shall transmit the same in their annual estimate of appropriations for the District of Columbia, with such recommendations as they may deem proper. (June 20, 1906, 34 Stat. 316, ch. 3446, § 2; 5th par., as added Jan. 26, 1929, 45 Stat. 1139, ch. 105; redesignated as subsection 2(i), Apr. 22, 1968, Pub. L. 90-292, § 3(b), 82 Stat. 102.)

Constitutionality

Since pupil had graduated from public elementary and high schools in District of Columbia, the claim by pupil and his next friend to enjoin enforcement of allegedly unconstitutional District of Columbia Non-Resident Public School Tuition Act is moot. C. Truesdale etc. v. District of Columbia et al. (1970, 436 F. 2d 288, 141 U.S. App. D.C. 134).

Fair issues of fact as to whether pupil was bona fide resident of District of Columbia, whether his parents denied financial responsibility for his upkeep, including school tuition, whether his parents were financially able to support him, and whether considerations supporting tuition requirements for nonresidents attending a state university and for nonresidents attending public elementary and high schools are the same, preclude summary judgment in action by pupil and his next friend to recover tuition allegedly improperly exacted under allegedly unconstitutional District of Columbia Non-Resident Public School Tuition Act. Id.

Any person entering the service of the schools during a thirty-one-day month and serving until the end thereof shall be entitled to pay for that month from the date of entry to the 30th day of such month, both days inclusive; and any person entering such service during the month of February and serving until the end thereof shall be entitled to one month's pay, less as many days thereof as there were days elapsed prior to the date of entry. ### § 31-728. Term of service—Reduction of annuity—Contributions on leave—Monthly deposits.

The years of service which form the basis for determining the amount of the annuity provided in section 31-725(a) shall be computed from the date of original probationary appointment as a teacher in the public schools of the District of Columbia, including so much of any authorized leaves of absence without pay beginning on May 1, 1952, as does not exceed six months in the aggregate in any fiscal year, plus any service credit that may be allowed under the provisions of this section: Provided, That the total credit granted for leaves of absence without pay shall not exceed one year: Provided further, That deposits equal to 5 per centum of those portions of salary received between July 1, 1949, and May 1, 1952, for which service credit was not earned may be made, and service credit received accordingly. In computing an annuity under section 31-725(a) the total service of a teacher shall include days of unused sick leave credited to him. No deposit may be required for days of unused sick leave included in a teacher's total service under the preceding sentence. Days of unused sick leave shall not be counted in determining a teacher's average salary or his eligibility for an annuity. In computing the length of service of retiring teachers credit may be given, year for year, for (a) public-school service or its equivalent outside the District of Columbia but not to exceed ten years; (b) continuous temporary service in the public schools of the District of Columbia immediately prior to probationary appointment; (c) service in the government of the District of Columbia or the Government of the United States allowable under sections 1308, 3323, and 8331-8348 of title 5, U.S. Code [relating to retirement of government employees]; (d) periods of honorable active service in the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, or Coast Guard of the United States (but not the National Guard except when ordered to active duty in the service of the United States) prior to the date of the separation upon which title to annuity is based; except that, if a teacher is awarded retired pay on account of military service, his military service shall not be included unless such retired pay is awarded on account of a service-connected disability (1) incurred in combat with an enemy of the United States or (2) caused by an instrumentality of war and incurred in line of duty during an enlistment or employment as provided in Veterans Regulation Numbered 1 (a), part 1, paragraph 1, or is awarded under title III of Public Law 910, Eightieth Congress; (e) all educational leaves of absence with part pay authorized by the Board of Education in accordance with sections 31-632 to 31-637; and (f) continuous temporary service as an employee of any cafeteria or lunchroom operated in the public school buildings of the District of Columbia during any period prior to the date on which such cafeteria or lunchroom is placed under the Office of Central Management, Department of Food Services, District of Columbia, and immediately prior to probationary appointment as a teacher in the public schools of the District of Columbia: Provided, however, That that portion of the annuity which results from credit for service allowable under (a) and (c) of this section shall be reduced by the amount of any annuity which the retired teacher is entitled to receive under any Federal, State, or municipal retirement or pension system in respect to such service, except that such portion of the annuity after reduction shall not be less than the annuity purchasable with the deposit which the teacher is required to make under the provisions of this section in order to obtain credit for such service: Provided further, That no credit for service prescribed in this section, with the exception of periods of honorable service in the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, or Coast Guard of the United States and all educational leaves of absence with part pay authorized by the Board of Education in accordance with sections 31-632 to 31-637, shall be given to any teacher entering the said public schools after June 30, 1926, until he shall have deposited to the credit of the teachers' retirement and annuity fund of the District of Columbia a sum equal to the accumulated contributions and interest which he would have had credited to his individual account if such service had been rendered on active duty in the public schools of the District of Columbia, said contributions to be based on the average annual salary of the class to which the teacher is appointed: Provided further, That all contributions to the retirement fund made by any teacher on educational leave with part pay shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of section 31-721, but otherwise no provision of this subchapter shall be interpreted to deprive any teacher employed by the Board of Education of any rights or benefits allowable under sections 31-632 to 31-637. If the teacher so elects he may deposit the required sum in the teacher's retirement and annuity fund in monthly installments with interest at 3 per centum per annum compounded annually, upon making a claim with the Commissioner of the District of Columbia, or his designated agent. Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph, this sec-

(a) Should any teacher to whom this subchapter applies, after completing five years of eligible service and before becoming eligible for retirement, become separated from the service, such teacher may elect to receive a deferred annuity, computed as provided in section 31-725, beginning at the age of sixty-two years and terminating on the date of his death: Provided, That any teacher who becomes separated from the public schools of the District of Columbia for other than retirement purposes and who does not elect to receive a deferred annuity as provided for in this section, shall receive as soon as practicable after separation the refund of deductions, deposits, or redeposits with interest thereon, or any voluntary contributions made under the provisions of section 31-721, with interest: Provided further, That no teacher who shall withdraw the amount of his deductions, deposits, or redeposits under this section shall, after reinstatement, be entitled to credit for previous service unless he shall deposit in the fund the amount so withdrawn by him: And provided further, That the amount required to be so deposited may be paid by the teacher, if he so elects, in any number of monthly installments, not exceeding one hundred, with interest at 3 per centum compounded annually.

Such annuity and any right thereto shall terminate on the last day of the month before (A) the widow or dependent widower dies, (B) the widow or dependent widower remarries before becoming sixty years of age, or (C) the dependent widower becomes capable of self-support. In the case of a widow or dependent widower whose annuity under this paragraph is terminated because of remarriage before becoming sixty years of age, annuity at the same rate shall be restored commencing on the day the remarriage is dissolved by death, annulment, or divorce, if—

(ii) any lump sum paid on termination of the annuity is returned to the teachers' retirement and annuity fund established under section 31-722.

(3) In the event any teacher to whom this subchapter applies shall die subsequent to March 6, 1952, after completing at least eighteen months of eligible service, and is not survived by a widow, a dependent widower, and/or children, but is survived by dependent parents or a dependent father or a dependent mother, such surviving dependent parents or parent shall be paid an annuity, beginning the first day of the month following the death of the teacher, equal to 55 per centum of the amount of an annuity computed as provided in subsection (a) of section 31-725 with respect to such teacher, except that, in the computation of the annuity under such subsection, the annuity of the teacher shall be at least the smaller of (i) 40 per centum of his average salary, or (ii) the sum obtained under such subsection after increasing his eligible service of the type last performed by the period elapsing between the date of death and the date he would have become sixty years of age: Provided, That such payments shall be made jointly to surviving dependent parents and payment of such annuity shall continue after the death of either dependent parent: Provided further, That all such payments or any right thereto shall cease upon the death of both dependent parents.

§ 31-1111. Placement of children in schools.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Racial and economic discrimination

Board of Education will not be permitted to transfer two elementary schools from "cluster" of one junior high school to "cluster" of another junior high for purposes of pupil placement since the transfer has apparent segregatory purpose which would knowingly permit white children to escape an increasingly black school. J. W. Hobson etc. v. C. F. Hansen etc. (1970, 320 F. Supp. 720).

Boundary plan for assignment of pupils to schools had constitutional weaknesses since there were socio-economic differences between two areas divided by boundary and since school for one area was new and much better equipped than school for other area; and since pairing plan would give every child in areas opportunity during some part of his elementary school life to attend newer school and since two schools were only a block apart on dividing line, school board which had approved boundary plan was directed to reconsider. J. W. Hobson etc. v. C. F. Hansen etc. (1970, 320 F. Supp. 409).

Since the school board made its districting decision on basis of projected enrollment figures which were proved to be significantly inaccurate and which perhaps obscured important constitutional considerations, reconsideration of such decision was necessary upon such ground alone. Id.

In this action alleging racial and economic discrimination and other wrong doings in the operation of the public school system, the court ordered: 1. An injunction against racial and economic discrimination. 2. Abolition of the track system. 3. Abolition of the optional zones. 4. Transportation of voluntary children in overcrowded schools to underpopulated schools. 5. The defendants to file for court approval of a plan for pupil assignment eliminating racial and economic discrimination in the public school system. 6. Substantial integration of the faculty of each school beginning with the new school year. 7. The defendants to file for court approval, a teacher assignment plan fully integrating the faculty of each school. J. W. Hobson etc. v. C. F. Hansen etc. (1967, 269 F. Supp. 401; remanded 132 U.S. App. D.C. 372, 408 F. 2d 175).

§ 31-1118. Use of appropriated funds for transportation of students, to change racial balance in schools—Education of individuals in elementary or secondary schools outside the District—Exceptions.

No funds appropriated for the government of the District of Columbia may be used—

(1) to provide transportation for students enrolled in the public schools of the District of Columbia if the transportation is provided solely to change the racial balance in any public school in the District of Columbia, or

(2) for the cost of education (including the cost of transportation) of any individual in an elementary or secondary school located outside the District of Columbia, except (A) any handicapped individual for whom education facilities do not exist in the public school system of the District of Columbia and (B) any individual under the care, custody, or guardianship of the District of Columbia placed in a foster home or in an institution located outside the District of Columbia.

§ 31-1531. Method of assignment to service steps—Promotion of employees.

(a) (1) On July 1 of each year, following the effective date of the District of Columbia Teachers' Salary Act Amendments of 1970, each permanent employee in salary class 15 who is on service step 13 and has completed 15 years of creditable service shall be assigned to longevity step Y. Each permanent employee in salary class 15 who is in longevity step X, on such effective date, shall be assigned to longevity step Y. In determining years of creditable service in salary classes 3 through 15 for placement on service steps, credit shall be given for previous service in accordance with the provisions of this chapter governing the placement of employees who are newly appointed, reappointed, or reassigned or who are brought under this chapter in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(2) Any teacher who was promoted from the salary class originally designated Salary Class 18 under this chapter (redesignated as Salary Class 15 by amendments effective on January 1, 1963 [act Oct. 24, 1962, Pub. L. 87-881]), if such promotion occurred after June 30, 1958, and prior to January 1, 1963, and who on the effective date of this paragraph occupies the same position to which he was promoted during such period shall be assigned to the numerical service step in his class, or class and group to which he would have been assigned had he been promoted on or after January 1, 1963.

(b) As soon as such reevaluation is completed for all employees involved, each such employee shall be assigned to the numerical service step for his salary class, or class and group, under this chapter next above the step corresponding to the number of his years of creditable service rendered prior to July 1, 1958, as determined by such re-evaluation, but no employee shall receive a salary above the top step for his class, or class and group, or below the step already occupied by him. If such re-evaluation places the employee on a higher numerical service step than the one already occupied by him he shall receive the full annual salary at the higher step for the year beginning July 1, 1958. On July 1 of each year, following the effective date of the District of Columbia Teachers' Salary Act Amendments of 1970, each permanent employee who has not reached the highest service step for his group, or, if his salary class has no group, the highest service step for such salary class, shall advance one such service step until he reaches the highest service step for such group or salary class. However, the Board of Education, on the written recommendation of the Superintendent of Schools, is authorized to deny any such salary advancement following any school year in which the employee fails to receive a performance rating of "satisfactory" from his superior officer.

(c) The Superintendent of Schools, salary class 1, shall be assigned as of the date of his appointment as Superintendent to the salary step provided for that position in section 31-1501.

(d) Any permanent employee serving in a position which is not covered by this chapter but which may later be established under section 31-1522 shall be given service credit for the purpose of salary placement under this chapter equivalent to the number of years of satisfactory service rendered within the school system in the position then occupied by the employee, and shall be assigned to the numerical service step on the schedule for his class, or class and group, under this chapter next above the numerical service step corresponding to his years of creditable service in such position. If the employee has already attained a service step in such position which is numerically as high or higher than the top service step provided for his salary class, or class and group, under this chapter, he shall be assigned to the highest service step provided for his class, or class and group, under this chapter. (Aug. 5, 1955, 69 Stat. 526, ch. 569, title IV, § 6; Aug. 28, 1958, 72 Stat. 1009, Pub. L. 85-838, § 1; Oct. 24, 1962, 76 Stat. 1233, Pub. #### AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS FOR GRANTS

SEC. 2. There are authorized to be appropriated for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1969, and for each of the next three fiscal years, such sums as may be necessary, not to exceed in the aggregate $40,052,000, to enable the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare (hereafter in this Act referred to as the "Secretary"), to make grants to assist in meeting the cost of projects for the modernization of public or nonprofit private hospitals and in meeting the cost of projects for the construction or modernization of public health centers, long-term care facilities, including extended care facilities, diagnostic or treatment centers, rehabilitation facilities, facilities for the mentally retarded, and community mental health centers in the District of Columbia. Sums so appropriated shall remain available until expended.

LOANS FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OR MODERNIZATION OF HOSPITALS AND OTHER HEALTH FACILITIES

SEC. 3. (a) The Secretary may make loans to assist in meeting the cost of projects for the construction or modernization of any hospital or other facility referred to in section 2 of this Act. The Secretary may make a loan under this section only if he determines that the applicant for the loan is unable to obtain the amount of such loan for the project from other public or private sources at reasonable rates of interest. The amount of any loan made under this section may not exceed 50 per centum of the cost of the project for which the loan is sought.

(b) Any such loan may be made only on the basis of an application submitted to the Secretary in such form and containing such information and assurances as he may prescribe.

(c) Each such loan shall bear interest at the rate of 2½ per centum per annum on the unpaid balance thereof and shall be repaid over a period determined by the Secretary to be appropriate, but not exceeding 50 years.

(d) There is authorized to be appropriated $40,575,000 to carry out the provisions of this section.

APPROVAL OF APPLICATIONS

SEC. 4. (a) An application for a grant or loan with respect to any project may be approved by the Secretary under this Act only if an application for a grant with respect to such project has been filed under a Medical Facilities Act (which for purposes of this Act means title VI of the Public Health Service Act or, where appropriate, title II or part C of title I of the Mental Retardation Facilities and Community Mental Health Centers Construction Act of 1963) and—

(1) has been approved under a Medical Facilities Act and the application filed under this Act is for additional funds in connection therewith, or

(2) has been denied under a Medical Facilities Act because insufficient funds are available from the allotments of the District of Columbia under the applicable Medical Facilities Act to permit approval of the application.

In determining whether to approve an application for a grant under Medical Facilities Act for any project in the District of Columbia, the availability of additional funds for such project under this Act shall be taken into consideration. Approval of such application may be made contingent upon the approval of an application or applications with respect to such project under this Act and upon such additional funds being made so available.

(b) The Secretary shall establish criteria for determining the order in which to approve, under this Act, applications for grants and loans with respect to projects. Such criteria with respect to construction projects for the same type of facility (or for modernization projects) shall be the criteria developed by the State Agency of the District of Columbia pursuant to the State plan approved under the applicable Medical Facilities Act.

(c) In the case of any project with respect to which an application for a grant or loan is filed under this Act and with respect to which an application for a grant has been denied under a Medical Facilities Act, such application under this Act may be approved only if there is compliance with the same terms and conditions (including determination, in accordance with the applicable State plan, that the project is needed) as are applicable to applications for grants under the Medical Facilities Act, other than the availability of sufficient funds in the appropriate allotment of the District of Columbia.

(d) An application for a grant or loan under this Act with respect to any project may not be approved unless an opportunity to review the application has been afforded to a body, found by the Secretary to be a responsible metropolitan areawide planning body, and any recommendations of such body that were timely made have been considered by the appropriate State agency of the District of Columbia and have been submitted to the Secretary in connection with the application.

PAYMENTS

SEC. 5. (a) Payments under this Act with respect to any project shall be made in the manner provided under the applicable Medical Facilities Act for payment of the Federal share of the cost of projects for which applications are approved under such Act; except that payments under this Act shall also be subject to such reasonable conditions as the Secretary deems appropriate to safeguard the Federal interest.

(b) The total of the payments of grants made under this Act with respect to any project, together with any payments made with respect thereto under a Medical Facilities Act, may not exceed—

(1) in the case of a construction project for a long-term care facility, including extended care facilities, a diagnostic or treatment center, or a rehabilitation facility, 66⅔ per centum of the cost of such project; and

(2) in the case of any other project (including a modernization project), 50 per centum of the cost of such project.

RECOVERY OF PAYMENTS

SEC. 6. (a) Payments of grants under this Act shall be subject to recovery or recapture under the same conditions and to the same extent as is provided under the applicable Medical Facilities Act with respect to payments made thereunder.

(b) If, at any time before a loan made under this Act has been repaid in full, an event occurs for which (if a grant had been made under a Medical Facilities Act) recovery by the United States would be authorized, the unpaid balance of the loan shall become immediately due and payable by the applicant, and any transferee of the facility for which such loan was made shall be liable to the United States for such repayment.

MEANING OF TERMS

SEC. 6. The terms used in this Act shall have the same meaning as when used in the applicable Medical Facilities Act.

§ 32-786. Agency vested with parental rights—Consent to adoption—Adoption petition—Parents' relinquishment of rights—Recordation.

(a) Whenever a licensed child-placing agency shall have been given the permanent care and guardianship of any child and the rights of the parent or parents of such child shall have been terminated by order of a court of competent jurisdiction or by a legally executed relinquishment of parental rights, the agency is vested with parental rights and may consent to the adoption of the child pursuant to the statutes regulating adoption procedure. Minority of a natural parent shall not be a bar to such parent's relinquishment to a licensed agency. Any relinquishment of parental rights other than by court order as provided in this subsection may be revoked upon the written consent of all the parties to said relinquishment and any such relinquishment may be transferred from one licensed child-placing agency to another licensed child-placing agency, in which case the second agency shall assume all the rights and duties of the first agency. For the purposes of this section, "licensed child-placing agency" shall mean any child-placing agency licensed pursuant to this chapter or any child-placing agency licensed or authorized by any State, Territory, or possession of the United States, by the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, or by any foreign country or any state, province, or other governmental division of any foreign country for the care and placement of minors. Such transfer or relinquishment shall be filed in the Family Division of the Superior Court for the District of Columbia, as hereinafter provided in this section. Except in proceedings for adoption, no parent may voluntarily assign or otherwise transfer to another his rights and duties with respect to the permanent care and control of a child under sixteen years of age unless such relinquishment of parental rights is made to a licensed child-placing agency. Such relinquishment of parental rights shall be a statement in writing signed by the person relinquishing such parental rights who shall subscribe his name thereto and acknowledge the same before a representative of the licensed child-placing agency in the presence of at least one witness. Said relinquishment of parental rights shall be recorded and filed in a properly sealed file in the Family Division of the Superior Court for the District of Columbia. The seal of said file shall not be broken except for good cause shown and upon the written order of a judge of said court.

(b) The Commissioners or their designated agents are empowered to accept permanent care and guardianship of any child by a legally executed relinquishment of parental rights and when vested with such parental rights shall exercise them in the same manner as prescribed herein for a licensed child-placing agency. Such parental relinquishment taken by the Commissioners or their designated agents shall be subject to the same rights and requirements as to form, transfer, and disposition as are prescribed herein for a licensed child-placing agency. REFERENCES IN TEXT

In the main edition, the reference in this section to "section 11-909 and 11-910" which had reference to such sections as set out in the 1961 edition of the official D.C. Code, may be a typographical error, as § 11-909 thereof related to summons, notice, and custody of a child pursuant to the initiation of proceedings in the Juvenile Court, and § 11-910 thereof related to service of such summons. Therefore, they do not appear to be relevant with respect to the exception clause in which they are cited in this section.

In the official D.C. Code of 1929, in which this section was set out as § 218 of Title 8, the reference in the exception clause was to §§ 258 and 259 of Title 18 of that Code, which sections represented classifications of §§ 8 and 9, respectively, of the Juvenile Court Act of 1906. Section 8 of that Act (D.C. Code 1929, Title 18, § 258) prescribed the jurisdiction of the Juvenile Court of the District of Columbia, and § 9 thereof (D.C. Code 1929, Title 18, § 259) contained definitions, including the definition of "delinquent" children. After the general amendment of the Juvenile Court Act of 1906 by the Act of June 1, 1938, ch. 309, 52 Stat. 596, the said jurisdictional and definitive provisions of §§ 8 and 9 of the 1906 Act, were covered, with substantial changes, by §§ 5 and 6 thereof, which, in the 1940, 1951 and 1961 editions of the Code, were classified to §§ 11-906 and 11-907; and said §§ 8 and 9 of the 1906 Act, as so amended, then relating to summons, etc., as mentioned above, were classified in those Codes to said §§ 11-909 and 11-910.

All of the sections mentioned above were repealed in the revision and reenactment of Part II of the D.C. Code by Act Dec. 23, 1963, Pub. L. 88-241, 77 Stat. 478, eff. Jan. 1, 1964. Sections 11-906 and 11-907, containing, respectively, definitions and the jurisdictional provisions, were covered by §§ 11-1551, 11-1553, 11-554, 11-1556, 11-1557, 11-1583 and 16-2301; and §§ 11-909 and 11-910 (which, as stated above, appear to be irrelevant with respect to the exception clause in this section in which they are cited) were covered by §§ 16-2303 and 16-2304. Title 11 and chapter 23 of title 16 were again revised and amended generally by sections 111 and 121(a) of Pub. L. 91-358, and subject matter formerly covered by sections 16-2303 and 16-2304 is now covered generally by sections 16-2306, 16-2309, 16-2310, and 16-2316.

(a) The Congress finds that (1) juveniles who are not under proper supervision and control, or who have absconded, escaped, or run away, are likely to endanger their own health, morals, and welfare, and the health, morals, and welfare of others, and (2) the cooperation of the District of Columbia with the States is necessary to provide for the welfare and protection of juveniles and other persons in the District of Columbia.

(b) The Congress intends, in authorizing the District of Columbia to adopt the Interstate Compact on Juveniles, to have the District of Columbia cooperate fully with the States (1) in returning juveniles to those States requesting their return, and (2) in accepting and providing for the return of juveniles who are residents of the District of Columbia and who are found or apprehended in a State. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91-358, § 401, title IV, 84 Stat. 657.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

Section 901(b) (2) of Act July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91-358 provided in part:

"Title IV [Secs. 32-1101 to 32-1106] shall take effect on the date of the enactment of this Act." [July 29, 1970]

§ 32-1102. Authority to enter into compact.

(a) The Commissioner of the District of Columbia (hereafter in this title referred to as the "Commissioner") is authorized to enter into and execute on behalf of the District of Columbia a compact with any State or States legally joining therein in the form substantially as follows: [Subsection (b) follows Article XV of Compact]

"THE INTERSTATE COMPACT ON JUVENILES

"The contracting states solemnly agree:

"ARTICLE I—Findings and Purposes

"That juveniles who are not under proper supervision and control, or who have absconded, escaped or run away, are likely to endanger their own health, morals and welfare, and the health, morals and welfare of others. The cooperation of the states party to this compact is therefore necessary to provide for the welfare and protection of juveniles and of the public with respect to (1) cooperative supervision of delinquent juveniles on probation or parole; (2) the return, from one state to another, of delinquent juveniles who have escaped or absconded; (3) the return, from one state to another, of non-delinquent juveniles who have run away from home; and (4) additional measures for the protection of juveniles and of the public, which any two or more of the party states may find desirable to undertake cooperatively. In carrying out the provisions of this compact the party states shall be guided by the non-criminal, reformative and protective policies which guide their laws concerning delinquent, neglected or dependent juveniles generally. It shall be the policy of the states party to this compact to cooperate and observe their respective responsibilities for the prompt return and acceptance of juveniles and delinquent juveniles who become subject to the provisions of this compact. The provisions of this compact shall be reasonably and liberally construed to accomplish the foregoing purposes.

"ARTICLE II—Existing Rights and Remedies

"That all remedies and procedures provided by this compact shall be in addition to and not in substitution for other rights, remedies and procedures, and shall not be in derogation of parental rights and responsibilities.

"ARTICLE III—Definitions

"That, for the purposes of this compact, 'delinquent juvenile' means any juvenile who has been adjudged delinquent and who, at the time the provisions of this compact are invoked, is still subject to the jurisdiction of the court that has made such adjudication or to the jurisdiction or supervision of any agency or institution pursuant to an order of such court; 'probation or parole' means any kind of conditional release of juveniles authorized under the laws of the states party hereto; 'court' means any court having jurisdiction over delinquent, neglected or dependent children; 'state' means any state, territory or possessions of the United States, the District of Columbia, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico; and 'residence' or any variant thereof means a place at which a home or regular place of abode is maintained.

"ARTICLE IV—Return of Runaways

"(a) That the parent, guardian, person or agency entitled to legal custody of a juvenile who has not been adjudged delinquent but who has run away without the consent of such parent, guardian, person or agency may petition the appropriate court in the demanding state for the issuance of a requisition for his return. The petition shall state the name and age of the juvenile, the name of the petitioner and the basis of entitlement to the juvenile's custody, the circumstances of his running away, his location if known at the time application is made, and such other facts as may tend to show that the juvenile who has run away is endangering his own welfare or the welfare of others and is not an emancipated minor. The petition shall be verified by affidavit, shall be executed in duplicate, and shall be accompanied by two certified copies of the document or documents on which the petitioner's entitlement to the juvenile's custody is based, such as birth certificates, letters of guardianship, or custody decrees. Such further affidavits and other documents as may be deemed proper may be submitted with such petition. The judge of the court to which this application is made may hold a hearing thereon to determine whether for the purposes of this compact the petitioner is entitled to the legal custody of the juvenile, whether or not it appears that the juvenile has in fact run away without consent, whether or not he is an emancipated minor, and whether or not it is in the best interest of the juvenile to compel his return to the state. If the judge determines, either with or without a hearing. That<sup>1</sup> the juvenile should be returned, he shall present the appropriate court or to the executive authority of the state where the juvenile is alleged to be located a written requisition for the return of such juvenile. Such requisition shall set forth the name and age of the juvenile, the determination of the court that the juvenile has run away without the consent of a parent, guardian, person or agency entitled to his legal custody, and that it is in the best interest and for the protection of such juvenile that he be returned. In the event that a proceeding for the adjudication of the juvenile as a delinquent, neglected or dependent juvenile is pending in the court at the time when such juvenile runs away, the court may issue a requisition for the return of such juvenile upon its own motion, regardless of the consent of the parent, guardian, person or agency entitled to legal custody, reciting therein the nature and circumstances of the pending proceeding. The requisition shall in every case be executed in duplicate and shall be signed by the judge. One copy of the requisition shall be filed with the compact administrator of the demanding state, there to remain on file subject to the provisions of law governing records of such court. Upon the receipt of a requisition demanding the return of a juvenile who has run away, the court or the executive authority to whom the requisition is addressed shall issue an order to any peace officer or other appropriate person directing him to take into custody and detain such juvenile. Such detention order must substantially recite the facts necessary to the validity of its issuance hereunder. No juvenile detained upon such order shall be delivered over to the officer whom the court demanding him shall have appointed to receive him, unless he shall first be taken forthwith before a judge of a court in the state, who shall inform him of the demand made for his return and who may appoint counsel or guardian ad litem for him. If the judge of such court shall find that the requisition is in order, he shall deliver such juvenile over to the officer whom the court demanding him shall have appointed to receive him. The judge, however, may fix a reasonable time to be allowed for the purpose of testing the legality of the proceeding.

"Upon reasonable information that a person is a juvenile who has run away from another state party to this compact without the consent of a parent, guardian, person or agency entitled to his legal custody, such juvenile may be taken into custody without a requisition and brought forthwith before a judge of the appropriate court who may appoint counsel or guardian ad litem for such juvenile and who shall determine after a hearing whether sufficient cause exists to hold the person, subject to the order of the court, for his own protection and welfare, for such a time not exceeding 90 days as will enable his return to another state party to this compact pursuant to a requisition for his return from a court of that state. If, at the time when a state seeks the return of a juvenile who has run away, there is pending in the state wherein he is found any criminal charge, or any proceeding to have him adjudicated a delinquent juvenile for an act committed in such State, or if he is suspected of having committed within such state a criminal offense or an act of juvenile delinquency, he shall not be returned without the consent of such state until discharged from prosecution or other form of proceeding, imprisonment, detention or supervision for such offense or juvenile delinquency. The duly accredited officers of any state party to this compact, upon the establishment of their authority and the identity of the juvenile being returned, shall be permitted to transport such juvenile through any and all states party to this compact, without interference. Upon his return to the state from which he ran away, the juvenile shall be subject to such further proceedings as may be appropriate under the laws of that state.

"(b) That the state to which a juvenile is returned under this Article shall be responsible for payment of the transportation costs of such return.

"(c) That 'juvenile' as used in this Article means any person who is a minor under the law of the state of residence of the parent, guardian, person or agency entitled to the legal custody of such minor.

"ARTICLE V—Return of Escapees and Absconders

"(a) That the appropriate person or authority from whose probation or parole supervision a delinquent juvenile has absconded or from whose institutional custody he has escaped shall present to the appropriate court or to the executive authority of the state where the delinquent juvenile is alleged to be located a written requisition for the return of such delinquent juvenile. Such requisition shall state the name and age of the delinquent juvenile, the particulars of his adjudication as a delinquent juvenile, the circumstances of the breach of the terms of his probation or parole or of his escape from an institution or agency vested with his legal custody or supervision, and the location of such delinquent juvenile, if known, at the time the requisition is made. The requisition shall be verified by affidavit, shall be executed in duplicate, and shall be accompanied by two certified copies of the judgment, formal adjudication, or order of commitment which subjects such delinquent juvenile to probation or parole or to the legal custody of the institution or agency concerned. Such further affidavits and other documents as may be deemed proper may be submitted with such requisition. One copy of the requisition shall be filed with the compact administrator of the demanding state, there to remain on file subject to the provisions of law governing records of the appropriate court. Upon the receipt of a requisition demanding the return of a delinquent juvenile who has absconded or escaped, the court or the executive authority to whom the requisition is addressed shall issue an order to any peace officer or other appropriate person directing him to take into custody and detain such delinquent juvenile. Such detention order must substantially recite the facts necessary to the validity of its issuance hereunder. No delinquent juvenile detained upon such order shall be delivered over to the officer whom the appropriate person or authority demanding him shall have appointed to receive him, unless he shall first be taken forthwith before a judge of an appropriate court in the state, who shall inform him of the demand made for his return and who may appoint counsel or guardian ad litem for him. If the judge of such court shall find that the requisition is in order, he shall deliver such delinquent juvenile over to the officer whom the appropriate person or authority demanding him shall have appointed to receive him. The judge, however, may fix a reasonable time to be allowed for the purpose of testing the legality of the proceeding.

"Upon reasonable information that a person is a delinquent juvenile who has absconded while on probation or parole, or escaped from an institution or agency vested with his legal custody or supervision in any state party to this compact, such person may be taken into custody in any other state party to this compact without a requisition. But in such event, he must be taken forthwith before a judge of the appropriate court, who may appoint counsel or guardian ad litem for such person and who shall determine, after a hearing, whether sufficient cause exists to hold the person subject to the order of the court for such a time, not exceeding 90 days, as will enable his detention under a detention order issued on a requisition pursuant to this Article. If, at the time when a state seeks the return of a delinquent juvenile who has either absconded while on probation or parole or escaped from an institution or agency vested with his legal custody or supervision, there is pending in the state wherein he is detained any criminal charge or any proceeding to have him adjudicated a delinquent juvenile for an act committed in such state, or if he is suspected of having committed within such state a criminal offense or an act of juvenile delinquency, he shall not be returned without the consent of such state until discharged from prosecution or other form of proceeding, imprisonment, detention or supervision for such offense or juvenile delinquency. The duly accredited officers of any state party to this compact, upon the establishment of their authority and the identity of the delinquent juvenile being returned, shall be permitted to transport such delinquent juvenile through any and all states party to this compact, without interference. Upon his return to the state from which he escaped or absconded, the delinquent juvenile shall be subject to such further proceedings as may be appropriate under the laws of that state.

"(b) That the state to which a delinquent juvenile is returned under this Article shall be responsible for the payment of the transportation costs of such return.

"ARTICLE VI—Voluntary Return Procedure

"That any delinquent juvenile who has absconded while on probation or parole, or escaped from an institution or agency vested with his legal custody or supervision in any state party to this compact, and any juvenile who has run away from any state party to this compact, who is taken into custody without a requisition in another state party to this compact under the provisions of Article IV(a) or of Article V(a), may consent to his immediate return to the state from which he absconded, escaped or ran away. Such consent shall be given by the juvenile or delinquent juvenile and his counsel or guardian ad litem if any, by executing or subscribing a writing, in the presence of a judge of the appropriate court, which states that the juvenile or delinquent juvenile and his counsel or guardian ad litem, if any, consent to his return to the demanding state. Before such consent shall be executed or subscribed, however, the judge, in the presence of counsel or guardian ad litem, if any, shall inform the juvenile or delinquent juvenile of his rights under this compact. When the consent has been duly executed, it shall be forwarded to and filed with the compact administrator of the state in which the court is located and the judge shall direct the officer having the juvenile or delinquent juvenile in custody to deliver him to the duly accredited officer or officers of the state demanding his return, and shall cause to be delivered to such officer or officers a copy of the consent. The court may, however, upon the request of the state to which the juvenile or delinquent juvenile is being returned, order him to return unaccompanied to such state and shall provide him with a copy of such court order; in such event a copy of the consent shall be forwarded to the compact administrator of the state to which said juvenile or delinquent juvenile is ordered to return.

"ARTICLE VII—Cooperative Supervision of Probationers and Parolees

"(a) That the duly constituted judicial and administrative authorities of a state party to this compact (herein called 'sending state') may permit any delinquent juvenile within such state, placed on probation or parole, to reside in any other state party to this compact (herein called 'receiving state') while on probation or parole, and the receiving state shall accept such delinquent juvenile, if the parent, guardian or person entitled to the legal custody of such delinquent juvenile is residing or undertakes to reside within the receiving state. Before granting such permission, opportunity shall be given to the receiving state to make such investigations as it deems necessary. The authorities of the sending state shall send to the authorities of the receiving state copies of pertinent court orders, social case studies and all other available information which may be of value to and assist the receiving state in supervising a probationer or parolee under this compact. A receiving state, in its discretion, may agree to accept supervision of a probational or parolee in cases where the parent, guardian or person entitled to the legal custody of the delinquent juvenile is not a resident of the receiving state, and if so accepted the sending state may transfer supervision accordingly.

"(b) That each receiving state will assume the duties of visitation and of supervision over any such delinquent juvenile and in the exercise of those duties will be governed by the same standards of visitation and supervision that prevail for its own delinquent juveniles released on probation or parole.

"(c) That, after consultation between the appropriate authorities of the sending state and of the receiving state as to the desirability and necessity of returning such a delinquent juvenile, the duly accredited officers of a sending state may enter a receiving state and there apprehend and retake any such delinquent juvenile on probation or parole. For that purpose, no formalities will be required, other than establishing the authority of the officer and the identity of the delinquent juvenile to be retaken and returned. The decision of the sending state to retake a delinquent juvenile on probation or parole shall be conclusive upon and not reviewable within the receiving state, but if, at the time the sending state seeks to retake a delinquent juvenile on probation or parole, there is pending against him within the receiving state any criminal charge or any proceeding to have him adjudicated a delinquent juvenile for any act committed in such state or if he is suspected of having committed within such state a criminal offense or an act of juvenile delinquency, he shall not be returned without the consent of the receiving state until discharged from prosecution or other form of proceeding, imprisonment, detention or supervision for such offense or juvenile delinquency. The duly accredited officers of the sending state shall be permitted to transport delinquent juveniles being so returned through any and all states party to this compact, without interference.

"(d) That the sending state shall be responsible under this Article for paying the costs of transporting any delinquent juvenile to the receiving state or of returning any delinquent juvenile to the sending state.

"ARTICLE VIII—Responsibility for Costs

"(a) That the provisions of Articles IV(b), V(b) and VII(d) of this compact shall not be construed to alter or affect any internal relationship among the departments, agencies and officers of and in the government of a party state, or between a party state and its subdivisions, as to the payment of costs, or responsibilities therefor.

"(b) That nothing in this compact shall be construed to prevent any party state or subdivision thereof from asserting any right against any person, agency or other entity in regard to costs for which such party state or subdivision thereof may be responsible pursuant to Articles IV(b), V(b) or VII(d) of this compact.

"ARTICLE IX—Detention Practices

"That, to every extent possible, it shall be the policy of states party to this compact that no juvenile or delinquent juvenile shall be placed or detained in any prison, jail or lockup nor be detained or transported in association with criminal, vicious or dissolute persons.

"ARTICLE X—Supplementary Agreements

"That the duly constituted administrative authorities of a state party to this compact may enter into supplementary agreements with any other state or states party hereto for the cooperative care, treatment and rehabilitation of delinquent juveniles whenever they shall find that such agreements will improve the facilities or programs available for such care, treatment, and rehabilitation. Such care, treatment and rehabilitation may be provided in an institution located within any state entering into such supplementary agreement. Such supplementary agreements shall (1) provide the rates to be paid for the care, treatment and custody of such delinquent juveniles, taking into consideration the character of facilities, services and subsistence furnished; (2) provide that the delinquent juvenile shall be given a court hearing prior to his being sent to another state for care, treatment and custody; (3) provide that the state receiving such a delinquent juvenile in one of its institutions shall act solely as agent for the state sending such delinquent juvenile; (4) provide that the sending state shall at all times retain jurisdiction over delinquent juveniles sent to an institution in another state; (5) provide for reasonable inspection of such institutions by the sending state; (6) provide that the consent of the parent, guardian, person or agency entitled to the legal custody of said delinquent juvenile shall be secured prior to his being sent to another state; and (7) make provision for such other matters and details as shall be necessary to protect the rights and equities of such delinquent juveniles and of the cooperating states.

"ARTICLE XI—Acceptance of Federal and Other Aid

"That any state party to this compact may accept any and all donations: gifts and grants of money, equipment and services from the federal or any local government, or any agency thereof and from any person, firm or corporation, for any of the purposes and functions of this compact, and may receive and utilize the same subject to the terms, conditions and regulations governing such donations, gifts and grants.

"ARTICLE XII—Compact Administrators

"That the governor of each state party to this compact shall designate an officer who, acting jointly with like officers of other party states, shall promulgate rules and regulations to carry out more effectively the terms and provisions of this compact.

"ARTICLE XIII—Execution of Compact

"That this compact shall become operative immediately upon its execution by any state as between it and any other state or states so executing. When executed it shall have the full force and effect of law within such state, the form or execution to be in accordance with the laws of the executing state.

"ARTICLE XIV—Renunciation

"That this compact shall continue in force and remain binding upon each executing state until renounced by it. Renunciation of this compact shall be by the same authority which executed it, by sending six months' notice in writing of its intention to withdraw from the compact to the other states party hereto. The duties and obligations of a renouncing state under Article VII hereof shall continue as to parolees and probationers residing therein at the time of withdrawal until retaken or finally discharged. Supplementary agreements entered into under Article X hereof shall be subject to renunciation as provided by such supplementary agreements, and shall not be subject to the six months' renunciation notice of the present Article.

"ARTICLE XV—Severability

"That the provisions of this compact shall be severable and if any phrase, clause, sentence or provision of this compact is declared to be contrary to the constitution of any participating state or of the United States or the applicability thereof to any government, agency, person or circumstance is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of this compact and the applicability thereof to any government, agency, person or circumstances shall not be affected thereby. If this compact shall be held contrary to the constitution of any state participating therein, the compact shall remain in full force and effect as to the remaining states and in full force and effect as to the state affected as to all severable matters."

§ 33-401. Definitions.

REFERENCES IN TEXT

Section 4731 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, referred to in par. (t), was repealed by section 1101(b) (3) (A) of Pub. L. 91-513, 84 Stat. 1292. For current definition of "opiate", see section 102(17) of the Controlled Substances Act, Pub. L. 91-513, 84 Stat. 1244 (21 U.S.C. 802(17)).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Constitutionality

Statutes which made it unlawful for any person to manufacture, possess, have under his control, sell, prescribe, administer, dispense or compound any narcotic drug and which defined narcotic drug as including marijuana were constitutional. S. V. Scott v. United States (1968, 395 F. 2d 619, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 396).

§ 33-402. Acts declared unlawful.

CROSS REFERENCE

Arrest without warrant, generally, see § 23-581.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 23-546.

Acquittal on appeal

Court of Appeals, on reversing convictions for narcotic vagrancy, maintaining common nuisance, and possession of narcotics, for failure of evidence to show that defendants had in their possession more than trace of heroin, would not remand for new trial, where there was no showing that government had additional proof that actual amounts involved were more than mere traces that were actually usable or saleable as narcotics. L. Marshall and K. Watkins v. United States (D.C. App. 1967, 229 A. 2d 449).

Arrest

Action of one police officer in remaining behind open passenger door of police car with pistol drawn and pointed downward as other officer approached driver's side of parked automobile, that matched description of automobile reported to be occupied by gun-carrying narcotics users, for purpose of "covering" his partner, did not constitute an arrest. F. W. Green v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 275 A. 2d 555).

Concurrent sentences

Where defendants received concurrent sentences in prosecution for possession of narcotics, possession of implements of crime, unlawful entry and narcotics vagrancy and evidence was sufficient to support conviction of possession of narcotics and possession of implements of crime, District of Columbia Court of Appeals would not pass upon sufficiency of evidence to support other convictions. S. Keith, R. L. Payne and T. J. Walker v. United States (D.C. App. 1967, 232 A. 2d 92).

Constitutionality

Statutes which made it unlawful for any person to manufacture, possess, have under his control, sell, prescribe, administer, dispense or compound any narcotic drug and which defined narcotic drug as including marijuana were constitutional. S. V. Scott v. United States (1968, 395 F. 2d 619, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 396).

— Standing to challenge

Neither proof of prior narcotics convictions nor admission at time of arrest that defendant used narcotics and that he was participating in a methadone treatment program is sufficient to establish that defendant is an addict; thus, he has no standing to claim that this section is unconstitutional as applied to him or that punishing him for possession of narcotics would be cruel and unusual punishment in violation of the Eighth Amendment. F. Lyles v. United States (D.C. App. 1970, 271 A. 2d 793).

Cross-examination

Where gist of defense in prosecution for possession of narcotic drugs was that though a passenger in the automobile defendant did not have seized narcotics in his possession and was not guilty of offense charged but it was due to a mistake by arresting officers at scene that he was charged with the offense and police sergeant was only government witness who testified that he saw the defendant drop package to ground and his credibility on that point was crucial, the defendant was entitled to cross-examination for purpose of establishing prior inconsistent statements by witness and should have been permitted opportunity to make proffer, and it was prejudicial error to deny the defendant such cross-examination. L. Holmes v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 277 A. 2d 93).

Custodial interrogation

Questions addressed to three defendants by arresting officers seeking an explanation for defendants' being in condemned house were noncoercive and not "custodial interrogation" within rule of Miranda v. State of Arizona. S. Keith, R. L. Payne and T. J. Walker v. United States (D.C. App. 1967, 232 A. 2d 92).

Defense of addiction

Since the quantity of narcotics found in defendant's possession is not suggestive of nontrafficking possession, conviction for possession of heroin is not improper on theory that defendant is an addict and not a trafficker in narcotics. F. W. Green v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 275 A. 2d 555).

Duty to arrest

Evidence—Admissibility

Where the defendant and his companion were in area in which narcotics traffic was substantial and were engaged in transaction in which number of small flat tinfoil packets were passed, and arresting officer, throughout his experience on narcotics squad for period of 18 months during which he was involved in over 200 arrests, had seen similar packets and had always found narcotics in them, the arrest was based on probable cause, and the tinfoil packets, seized in search pursuant to such arrest and later found to contain heroin, were admissible in prosecution for possession of heroin. W. G. Muun v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 283 A. 2d 28).

In a prosecution for possession of narcotic drugs under this section, no substance should be received in evidence unless it is first properly identified as being narcotics for reason that it is not probative of charge absent the identification and could result in misleading the jury. L. Holmes v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 277 A. 2d 93).

Though regulation required police officers after impounding automobile that had been stolen, abandoned or left unattended to inventory contents, remove any valuables for safekeeping and put automobile in place of safety, and though compliance with the regulation necessarily involves some search and seizure, marijuana found under seat of vehicle outside station while driver, whose license was under suspension, was inside being booked on traffic charge is not admissible in prosecution for possession of the marijuana. R. G. Mayfield v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 276 A. 2d 123).

Police officer's reasonable suspicions, resulting from radio call advising that occupants of white automobile at intersection bearing specific license plate number were using narcotics and carrying gun and corroborated by matching details of white automobile at the intersection bearing the same license plate number, matured into probable cause to arrest when he saw vial that he believed to contain narcotics on floor of the automobile, and the narcotics found in ensuing search of the automobile are admissible. F. W. Green v. United States (D.C. App. 1971; 275 A. 2d 555).

Officers, who had entered premises under warrant authorizing a search for narcotics and who observed the defendant seated on side of a bed with one hand tightly closed, had probable cause to suppose that at least some of the narcotics were being secreted in her closed hand and were likely to be destroyed and seizure of narcotics from defendant's hand and from box beneath bed upon which she was seated was within scope of authority conferred by the search warrant and was not violative of defendant's Fourth Amendment rights, and narcotics thus seized were properly received into evidence. E. Nicks v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 273 A. 2d 256).

Where defendant, while driving automobile, was recognized by police officer who knew that the defendant was a narcotics violator and that he did not possess a valid driver's license, and where officer waved defendant to curb and asked to see his license, whereupon defendant admitted that he was unlicensed, the officer's arrest of defendant is not a sham, and heroin seized during search incident to arrest is not subject to suppression. F. Lyles v. United States (D.C. App. 1970, 271 A. 2d 793).

In this case, since the police officer received reliable information in early morning hours that a large supply of heroin was to be transported in a few hours from a certain to an uncertain location for processing, and no magistrate was available so that officers were warranted in effecting entry without search warrant, and upon forcing entry found the apartment empty, the significant possibility of removal of contraband was an exceptional circumstance justifying search for the narcotics, and thus narcotics seized were properly admitted in prosecution for violation of this section. C. E. Hailes v. United States (D.C. App. 1970, 267 A. 2d 363).

Even if the arrest of defendant without warrant was invalid, capsules which the police officers recovered from trash pile in corner of fire-gutted pool hall after defendant and another person had been permitted by officers to leave the room were not seized in violation of defendant's Fourth Amendment rights and were admissible in prosecution for unlawful possession of narcotics. United States v. E. L. Hayes (D.C. App. 1970, 271 A. 2d 701).

Where defendants' arrest for narcotics violations was legal, narcotics paraphernalia seized at time of the arrest was properly admitted in defendants' joint trial for narcotics violations. S. Keith, R. L. Payne and T. J. Walker v. United States (D.C. App. 1967, 232 A. 2d 92).

— Sufficiency

Evidence in prosecution for being present in illegal establishment is sufficient to prove beyond reasonable doubt the nonexistence of license to dispense narcotics even though Government offered no testimony as to nonexistence of license. A. Geddie v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 284 A. 2d 668).

Where as a matter of reasonable probability there was no possibility for misidentification and adulteration of certain narcotic evidence, missing link in government's chain of possession of the narcotics evidence does not warrant reversal of convictions of unlawful possession of narcotic drug, narcotic vagrancy and presence in illegal establishment. B. Spade v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 277 A. 2d 654).

Absence of any proof that defendants had in their possession more than trace of heroin or that such trace could be used or dispensed as narcotic required reversal of convictions for narcotic vagrancy, maintaining common nuisance, and possession of narcotics. L. Marshall and K. Watkins v. United States (D.C. App. 1967, 229 A. 2d 449).

Where there is only trace of substance, a chemical constituent not quantitatively determined because of minuteness, and there is no additional proof of its usability as narcotic, there can be no conviction under statute making it illegal for person to maintain place resorted to by drug addicts for purpose of using narcotic drugs or used for illegal keeping or sale of same. Id.

Where there is only a trace of substance, a chemical constituent not quantitatively determined because of minuteness, and there is no additional proof of its usability as a narcotic, there can be no conviction for unlawful possession of a narcotic. R. M. Edlin v. United States (D.C. App. 1967, 227 A. 2d 395).

Evidence that microscopic chemical analysis of narcotics paraphernalia disclosed traces of heroin was insufficient, in absence of any additional proof as to usability of traces as a narcotic, to show illegal possession of a narcotic drug. Id.

— Suppression

Heroin found in the defendant's pocket during search incident to an arrest for grand larceny should not have been suppressed on theory that the search which brought heroin to light infringed Fourth Amendment rights. United States v. C. E. Bynum (D.C. App. 1971, 283 A. 2d 649).

In this case, the court held that the trial judge did not err in denying motion to suppress heroin properly seized from defendant, one judge being of the opinion that the defendant was properly "seized" in rapidly moving on-street investigation and discarding of narcotics was not product of illegal police action, and second judge being of the opinion that the officer had probable cause to arrest defendant for disorderly conduct and seizure of heroin was therefore lawful. W. Von Sleichter v. United States (D.C. App. 1970, 267 A. 2d 336).

Fair hearing

Since the trial court granted motion to suppress narcotics seized in course of on-the-street encounter before all the evidence had been presented, and testimony of police officer who approached passenger side of automobile where defendant was sitting was not taken, and during cross-examination of officer who did testify court interrupted with comments and leading questions, the government was deprived of fair hearing. United States v. J. F. Crickenberger (D.C. App. 1971, 275 A. 2d 232).

Guilty plea

Absent any showing that the defendant was induced to plead guilty solely because of advice given by counsel that an appeal would lie to review the denial of motion to suppress evidence, there was no manifest injustice, and it thus was not error to deny motion to withdraw the plea. M. A. Shuler v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 278 A. 2d 116).

Inferences

Fact that the probable holder of any license to dispense drugs testified that no drugs were dispensed or used on premises with his permission together with other facts of case permitted the jury to infer that no license existed despite fact that Government offered no testimony as to nonexistence of license. A. Geddie v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 284 A. 2d 668).

Instructions

Since the defendant did not request instruction on her theory that she had only borrowed coat in which heroin was found, failure to so instruct was not reversible error in prosecution for possession of heroin. B. Spade v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 277 A. 2d 654).

Instructions were adequate to present to jury the issue of whether there was knowing possession by defendant of heroin that was found in jacket she was wearing and that she claimed was borrowed. Id.

Intent

In this case, the court held that defendant's admission of his intent to use hypodermic and needle for criminal purpose was sufficiently corroborated and statement was sufficiently trustworthy for admission on proof of intent in prosecution for possession of implements of a crime, since although possession of a wet needle, needle holder and syringe but not the cooker, might not be sufficient to establish corpus delicti, it did constitute substantial independent evidence which would tend to establish trustworthiness of admission by defendant, a nonmedical person, to arresting officer. L. F. McKoy v. United States (D.C. App. 1970, 263 A. 2d 649).

Narcotics paraphernalia

Defendant could be convicted of possession of narcotics paraphernalia under section 22-3601 rendering unlawful a possession of instruments of a crime, even though no criminal statute prohibited use or consumption of narcotics, as this section makes it unlawful for any person to manufacture, possess, or have under his control, sell, prescribe, administer, disburse, or compound any narcotic drug. A. L. Wheeler v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 276 A. 2d 722).

Redirect examination

In prosecution for violations of federal narcotics laws, where on cross-examination of government's expert chemist, the defense elicited the fact that heroin is actually a morphine derivative, and that morphine can be legally imported into the United States, permitting witness on redirect to testify that in his opinion the narcotics involved were produced outside the United States was not improper on grounds that question was beyond qualifications of witness, since defense counsel's initial voyage into area of drug's source permitted full exploration by the government. R. E. Green v. United States (1967, 383 F. 2d 199, 127 U.S. App. D.C. 272).

Search and seizure

Where officers who had no complaint or report of crime in area, had never seen defendant before and did not observe him engaged in unlawful conduct detained defendant, who was on street at early hour in morning, for period of time and then asked him to accompany them to apartment building where he had previously been but did not tell defendant that he was free to ignore their request, the search of leather pouch that hung from defendant's belt and into which defendant had reached and seizure of narcotics found therein were invalid and the narcotics recovered should have been suppressed. E. O. Robinson v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 278 A. 2d 458).

Even if detention for failure to display operator's permit constituted arrest and such arrest was a subterfuge to allow police officers to search automobile and its occupants, seizure of narcotics was not invalid since narcotics were observed in plain view by officer when defendant occupant unsuccessfully attempted to conceal narcotics. H. L. Wise v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 277 A. 2d 476).

Record on appeal from conviction of possession of narcotics did not support contention that the arrest, assertedly made when occupants of automobile were detained when defendant failed to produce operator's permit; was merely pretext for gathering evidence. Id.

That police officers who searched automobile outside police station while driver, whose license was under suspension, was being booked on traffic charge had seen driver slip envelope under automobile seat, but any inference that attempt to conceal narcotics was thereby suggested was negated by their expressed willingness to let passenger take vehicle if he had possessed requisite permit, officers' observation of such act on part of driver did not furnish probable cause for such search, which disclosed marijuana under the front seat. R. G. Mayfield v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 276 A. 2d 123).

In this case, the court held that since there was probable cause for arrest without a warrant prior to search of defendant, who was suspected of robbing liquor store, seizure of heroin disclosed by search was valid. R. Harrison v. United States (D.C. App. 1970, 267 A. 2d 368).

Search warrant

Where affidavit stated that a police informant had purchased on several occasions from the defendant on defendant's premises a substance that later proved to be hashish, magistrate could reasonably infer that alleged transfers were not made in pursuance of proper order forms, and affidavit supporting government's application for search warrant is not insufficient for failure to allege that informant-purchaser lacked written order forms required of a transferee of marijuana. A. R. Rutledge v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 283 A. 2d 213).

Seizure of "means and instrumentality"

Narcotics paraphernalia is not the fruit of a crime, a weapon, or property the mere possession of which constitutes a crime; it is, however, the "means and instrumentality" by which narcotics may be illegally used, so that it is within exception permitting lawful seizure of certain articles even though not described in search warrant. R. M. Edelin v. United States (D.C. App. 1967, 227 A. 2d 395).

Hypodermic needle, syringe, bent spoon usable as a narcotics "cooker" and tissue paper, all wrapped in a stocking and found under pillow on bed, were an apparent narcotics user's "kit" and were the "means and instrumentality" by which narcotics might be illegally used, so that seizure of such paraphernalia under warrant authorizing seizure of check writing machine and undetermined number of blank checks was valid under exception permitting instrumentalities and means by which a crime is committed to be seized even though not described in search warrant, and such evidence was not subject to suppression in narcotics prosecution. Id.

Sentence

If a defendant who had been permitted to proceed in forma pauperis is indigent, so much of judgment of conviction for possession of heroin as provided for imprisonment in default of payment of $1,000 fine should be vacated. J. A. Simms v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 276 A. 2d 434).

Stipulations

Refusal of the trial court to allow defense to question admissibility, on ground of an illegal search and seizure, of heroin found on the defendant on theory that the stipulation between prosecution and defense that material removed from defendant was heroin and that chain of custody need not be proved, removed necessity of introducing substance into evidence and in turn precluded opportunity for objection to its admission, constitutes reversible error. F. Purvis v. United States (D.C. App. 1970, 270 A. 2d 501).

Warning of constitutional rights

The case was remanded to determine whether defendant who was convicted of possession of implements of crime had been warned of his constitutional rights by arresting officers before he made incriminating statements. W. J. Johnson v. United States (D.C. App. 1969, 255 A. 2d 494).

(a) A search warrant may be issued by any judge of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia or by a United States commissioner for the District of Columbia when any narcotic drugs are manufactured, possessed, controlled, sold, prescribed, administered, dispensed, or compounded, in violation of the provisions of this chapter, and any such narcotic drugs and any other property designed for use in connection with such unlawful manufacturing, possession, controlling, selling, prescribing, administering, dispensing, or compounding, may be seized thereunder, and shall be subject to such disposition as the court may make thereof and such narcotic drugs may be taken on the warrant from any house or other place in which they are concealed.

(b) A search warrant cannot be issued but upon probable cause supported by affidavit particularly describing the property and the place to be searched.

(c) The judge or commissioner must, before issuing the warrant, examine on oath the complainant and any witnesses he may produce, and require their affidavits or take their depositions in writing and cause them to be subscribed by the parties making them.

(d) The affidavits or depositions must set forth the facts tending to establish the grounds of the application or probable cause for believing that they exist.

(e) If the judge or commissioner is thereupon satisfied of the existence of the grounds of the application or that there is probable cause to believe their existence, he must issue a search warrant, signed by him, to the major and superintendent of police of the District of Columbia or any member of the Metropolitan police department, stating the particular grounds or probable cause for its issue and the names of the persons whose affidavits have been taken in support thereof, and commanding him forthwith to search the place named for the property specified and to bring it before the judge or commissioner.

(f) A search warrant may in all cases be served by any of the officers mentioned in its direction, but by no other person, except in aid of the officer on his requiring it, he being present and acting in its execution.

(g) The officer may break open any outer or inner door or window of a house, or any part of a house, or anything therein, to execute the warrant, if, after notice of his authority and purpose, he is refused admittance.

(h) The judge or commissioner shall insert a direction in the warrant that it may be served at any time in the day or night.

(i) A search warrant must be executed and returned to the judge or commissioner who issued it within ten days after its date; after the expiration of this time the warrant, unless executed, is void.

(j) When the officer takes property under the warrant, he must give a copy of the warrant together with a receipt for the property taken (specifying it in detail) to the person from whom it was taken by him, or in whose possession it was found; or in the absence of any person, he must leave it in the place where he found the property.

(k) The officer must forthwith return the warrant to the judge or commissioner and deliver to him a written inventory of the property taken, made publicly or in the presence of the person from whose possession it was taken, and of the applicant for the warrant, if they are present, verified by the affidavit of the officer at the foot of the inventory and taken before the judge or commissioner at the time, to the following in effect: "I, ———, the officer by whom this warrant was executed, do swear that the above inventory contains a true and detailed account of all the property taken by me on the warrant."

(l) The judge or commissioner must thereupon, if required, deliver a copy of the inventory to the person from whose possession the property was taken and to the applicant for the warrant.

(m) The judge or commissioner must annex the affidavits, search warrant, return, inventory, and evidence, and at once file the same, together with a copy of the record of his proceedings, with the clerk of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia.

(n) Whoever shall knowingly and willfully obstruct, resist, or oppose any such officer or person in serving or attempting to serve or execute any such search warrant, or shall assault, beat, or wound any such officer or person, knowing him to be an officer or person so authorized, shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than two years. ## NOTES TO DECISIONS

Delay in execution

In this case, the court held that defendant failed to show that eight-day delay in executing search warrant after it was issued had prejudiced him. J. E. Curtis v. United States (D.C. App. 1970, 263 A. 2d 653).

Even an unreasonable time lag in execution of search warrant must prejudice defendant to render search invalid. Id.

Under this section which provides that the warrant command the search "forthwith" and that the warrant must be executed within 10 days after its date, delay within 10-day limitation does not, standing alone, vitiate warrant. W. J. Johnson v. United States (D.C. App. 1969, 255 A. 2d 494).

Since prejudice was not claimed by reason of failure to execute search warrant until six days after its issuance, the delay did not vitiate the warrant and did not require suppression of evidence obtained pursuant to the warrant. Id.

Description of premises

In an appeal from an order of District of Columbia Court of General Sessions granting motion to suppress evidence, the court held that a warrant ordering search of "Entire Premises, 2nd Floor Front" at specified address described the place to be searched with sufficient particularity to be valid, and thus motion to suppress evidence seized should have been denied, though second floor of the premises was divided into two apartments, each fronting on street, where affidavit, referring to specific apartment number, was attached to the warrant and sufficiently referred to therein to enable officer executing warrant to look at affidavit and determine place intended. United States v. S. H. Moore et ano. (D.C. App. 1970, 263 A. 2d 652).

Execution of search warrant

This section providing that "the judge or commissioner shall insert a direction in the warrant that it may be served at any time in the day or night.", qualifies sections 23-521 to 23-523 permitting a nighttime execution of the search warrant if, and only if, there is an express authorization therefor pursuant to statute; the latter sections are applicable to nonnarcotic cases only. United States v. H. Green (1971, 331 F. Supp. 44).

Search warrant and its execution during the nighttime hours is proper in narcotics case where there is a showing of probable cause both as to its existence for its service at such time, and where it is accompanied by a supporting affidavit as well as by an insertion within the warrant as to when it could be served. Id.

Where none of the grounds set forth in § 23-522 for search warrant authorizing execution at night were included in either application or warrant, search made pursuant to warrant well after ending of daylight hours is invalid and evidence seized is subject to suppression, though warrant was issued in connection with alleged violations of federal narcotics laws. United States v. L. Gooding (1971, 328 F. Supp. 1005).

Requirement of this section that search warrant command search "forthwith" is to insure that probable cause existing when warrant issued also exists when it is executed. J. E. Curtis v. United States (D.C. App. 1970, 263 A. 2d 653).

Subject of search

Under the circumstances of this case, it was not unreasonable for officers to seize pistol which, as convicted felon, defendant was forbidden to possess, incidental to authorized search of his apartment for narcotics, in absence of showing that presence of pistol on premises was attributable to eight-day delay in execution of search warrant J. E. Curtis v. United States (D.C. App. 1970, 263 A. 2d 653).

§ 33-416. Common nuisances.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 23-546.

Elements of offense

In order to convict a defendant of keeping a place to which drug addicts resort for the purpose of using narcotic drugs, it is unnecessary to prove that drugs were or had been kept on the premises; however, such proof is essential to sustain a conviction of maintaining a place used for the illegal keeping or selling of narcotic drugs; and there must in addition be proof that the narcotic drugs kept or sold on the premises were of a usable or salable quantity. L. E. Gantt v. United States (D.C. App. 1970, 267 A. 2d 350).

Evidence—Sufficiency

In this case the court agreed that at the time the motion for judgment of acquittal was made there existed sufficient evidence, including fact that narcotic paraphernalia was present in apartment and that rent receipts indicated defendant lived in the apartment, to present to a jury the question of whether defendant kept or maintained a place resorted to by drug addicts for the purpose of using drugs; and since, though it was doubtful whether a jury question existed on alternative charge that the defendant maintained a place used for the illegal keeping or selling of drugs, there was sufficient evidence to support a verdict of guilt of maintaining a common nuisance, and the trial court properly denied the acquittal motion. L. E. Gantt v. United States (D.C. App. 1970, 267 A. 2d 350).

Prejudicial error

In a trial involving the owner of a rooming house for permitting marijuana to be smoked on his premises, it was not prejudicial error to a quash subpoena ad testificandum for a material defense witness who was awaiting trial on charges relating to the very transactions to which he would be requested to testify in owner's trial where trial court was familiar with evidence to which witness was to testify and witness' attorney had informed court that witness would invoke privilege against self-incrimination if he were called to testify. D. G. Harris v. United States (D.C. App. 1969, 255 A. 2d 489).

Reversible error

In view of the evidence in this case, including witness' testimony that he had lived with defendant for about three months prior to his arrest and had used heroin in the apartment over five times, the trial court did not err in accepting a general verdict of guilt after instructing the jurors that they could find the defendant guilty of violating either or both alternative provisions of this section making it a common nuisance to maintain a place resorted to by narcotic drug addicts for the purpose of using narcotic drugs or to maintain a place used for the illegal keeping or selling of drugs. L. E. Gantt v. United States (D.C. App. 1970, 267 A. 2d 350).

Sentence

Alternative sentence of 30 days in jail and fine of $500 or 90 days in jail is not invalid on the ground of denial of equal justice in assessing sentence without permitting fine to be collected through installment plan or suspending execution of sentence for fine on condition that defendant do specified daytime work to satisfy fine since the record does not show that the trial judge was aware of defendant's alleged indigency and the defendant made no postsentence motion to vacate or modify judgment of fine or imprisonment in lieu of paying fine. D. G. Harris v. United States (1971, 440 F. 2d 240, 142 U.S. App. D.C. 212).

§ 33-416a. Vagrancy—Narcotic drug user—Penalties—Conditions imposed.

(a) The purpose of this section is to protect the public health, welfare, and safety of the people of the District of Columbia by providing safeguards for the people against harmful contact with narcotic drug users who are vagrants within the meaning of this section and to establish, in addition to sections 24-601 to 24-611, further procedures and means for the care and rehabilitation of such narcotic drug users.

(f) Upon affirmative determination that the person arrested is a narcotic drug user, or if the person has been convicted of a narcotic offense in the District of Columbia or elsewhere, and if such person is also a vagrant as hereinbefore defined, he shall be charged with the offense of vagrancy within the meaning of this section and arraigned in the Superior Court of the District of Columbia where the prosecution shall be conducted in the name of the United States by the United States attorney.

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER

See § 401 of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, eff. Nov. 3, 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1. See also §§ 301 and 503 of the Plan.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Acquittal on appeal

Court of Appeals, on reversing convictions for narcotic vagrancy, maintaining common nuisance, and possession of narcotics, for failure of evidence to show that defendants had in their possession more than trace of heroin, would not remand for new trial, where there was no showing that government had additional proof that actual amounts involved were more than mere traces that were actually usable or saleable as narcotics. L. Marshall and K. Watkins v. United States (D.C. App. 1967, 229 A. 2d 449).

Concurrent sentences

Where defendant received identical concurrent sentences in prosecution for illegal possession of narcotics and narcotics vagrancy, failure to charge scienter in narcotics vagrancy information did not require vacation of judgment on such charge, absent collateral consequences warranting vacation. J. D. Williams v. United States (D.C. App. 1970, 263 A. 2d 659).

Where defendants received concurrent sentences in prosecution for possession of narcotics, possession of implements of crime, unlawful entry and narcotics vagrancy and evidence was sufficient to support conviction of possession of narcotics and possession of implements of crime, District of Columbia Court of Appeals would not pass upon sufficiency of evidence to support other convictions. S. Keith, R. L. Payne and T. J. Walker v. United States (D.C. App. 1967, 232 A. 2d 92).

Constitutionality

Burden put upon prior narcotics offenders and narcotics users by this section, as those most likely to engage in illicit narcotics traffic, of absenting themselves from places where the narcotics are kept or used is not impermissible deprivation of freedom of movement. United States v. M. C. McClough et al. (D.C. App. 1970, 263 A. 2d 48).

This section which defines as a vagrant any unemployed narcotic user or who has been convicted as a narcotic offender without lawful and visible means of support who is found in public place and fails to give good account of himself did not enable citizens of ordinary intellect to distinguish wrong from right and was unconstitutional. H. M. Ricks and J. N. Williams v. United States (1968, 414 F. 2d 1111, 134 U.S. App. D.C. 215).

The Court is not at liberty to ignore shortcomings of statutory language, or rationalize its validity, simply on basis of methods associated with its administration. Id.

This section which was vague and indefinite could not be rendered constitutional by the unpublicized scope limitations which its enforcement plan espouses. Id.

Since under the Narcotics Vagrancy and General Vagrancy Statutes anyone using street for a lawful business in a lawful manner may do so without restriction, statutes are not an unreasonable restriction on freedom of movement in violation of due process clause of Fifth Amendment. H. M. Ricks and J. N. Williams v. United States; H. M. Ricks v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1967, 228 A. 2d 316; rev'd 414 F. 2d 1111, 134 U.S. App. D.C. 215).

Convictions for violation of Narcotics Vagrancy and General Vagrancy Statutes were not invalid on ground that defendants were being punished solely for their status as vagrants. Id.

Convictions of defendants for violation of Narcotics Vagrancy and General Vagrancy Statutes on proof showing defendants' associations with known narcotics users and prostitutes did not violate Eighth Amendment's prohibition against cruel and unusual punishment despite claim that there was an absence of any overt criminal act. Id.

Construction

Without requirement of knowledge by defendant that he is in place wherein narcotics are kept, found, used, or dispensed, this section would violate due process; but this section is construed to require knowledge on part of defendant, and, so construed, is constitutionally valid; overruling in part Harris v. United States, D.C. Mun. App., 162 A. 2d 503. United States v. M. C. McClough et al. (D.C. App. 1970, 263 A. 2d 48).

This section was designed in large part to punish participants in narcotics traffic, and as such does not fit into class of offenses in which absolute criminal liability is imposed. Id.

When an individual is unable to give a good account to police when wandering at late and unusual hours and is associated with criminals or narcotics addicts and is not lawfully employed, these factors, together with others enumerated in statutes, constitute probable cause for arrest for vagrancy. H. M. Ricks and J. N. Williams v. United States; H. M. Ricks v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1967, 228 A. 2d 316; rev'd 414 F. 2d 1111, 134 U.S. App. D.C. 215).

Vagrancy statutes were not invalid on ground that they were "catch-alls" used when other crimes could not be proven or that they allegedly required a lesser quantum of proof to convict. Id.

Word "loitering" as used in Narcotics Vagrancy and General Vagrancy Statutes was not unconstitutionally vague, particularly where additional conditions were necessary to constitute offense. Id.

Reference to "failure to give a good account" as used in Narcotics Vagrancy and General Vagrancy Statutes restricts rather than enlarges application of statutes and allows suspected vagrant to dissipate probable cause by satisfactorily explaining his conduct, and the arresting officer is not the only one who must evaluate account given by person questioned. Id.

Narcotics Vagrancy and General Vagrancy Statutes delineate with specificity what vagrancy is, and the definitions are neither numerous nor susceptible to widely divergent interpretations. Id.

Custodial interrogation

Questions addressed to three defendants by arresting officers seeking an explanation for defendants' being in condemned house were noncoercive and not "custodial interrogation" within rule of Miranda v. State of Arizona. S. Keith, R. L. Payne and T. J. Walker v. United States (D.C. App. 1967, 232 A. 2d 92).

Duty to arrest

Elements of offense

Presence of narcotics is not essential element of common nuisance offense when addicts are shown to frequent premises for purpose of using narcotics, but there can be no conviction for maintaining place used for illegal keeping or sale of narcotics without also showing that such drugs were or had been kept on premises. L. Marshall and K. Watkins v. United States (D.C. App. 1967, 229 A. 2d 449).

Where defendants' arrest for narcotics violations was legal, narcotics paraphernalia seized at time of the arrest was properly admitted in defendants' joint trial for narcotics violations. S. Keith, R. L. Payne and T. J. Walker v. United States (D.C. App. 1967, 232 A. 2d 92).

— Sufficiency

Where as a matter of reasonable probability there was no possibility for misidentification and adulteration of certain narcotic evidence, missing link in government's chain of possession of the narcotics evidence does not warrant reversal of convictions of unlawful possession of narcotic drug, narcotic vagrancy and presence in illegal establishment. B. Spade v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 277 A. 2d 654).

Absence of any proof that defendants had in their possession more than trace of heroin or that such trace could be used or dispensed as narcotic required reversal of convictions for narcotic vagrancy, maintaining common nuisance, and possession of narcotics. L. Marshall and K. Watkins v. United States (D.C. App. 1967, 229 A. 2d 449).

Where there is only trace of substance, a chemical constituent not quantitatively determined because of minuteness, and there is no additional proof of its usability as narcotics, there can be no conviction under statute making it illegal for person to maintain place resorted to by drug addicts for purpose of using narcotic drugs or used for illegal keeping or sale of same. Id.

Evidence was insufficient to support conviction for violation of Narcotics Vagrancy Statute. N. Baker v. United States (D.C. App. 1967, 228 A. 2d 323).

Government's burden of proof

To prove violation of statute making it illegal for any person to keep or maintain any place resorted to by drug addicts for purpose of using narcotic drugs or used for illegal keeping or sale of same, government must show either that addicts resort to such premises for use of narcotics or that premises are maintained or used for illegal sale, use or possession of narcotics. L. Marshall and K. Watkins v. United States (D.C. App. 1967, 229 A. 2d 449).

In absence of proof of contemporaneous use, conviction for narcotic vagrancy necessitates additional showing of presence of quantity of narcotics sufficient to be used or dispensed, not mere immeasurable trace. Id.

Information—Sufficiency

Information charging defendant with narcotics vagrancy is insufficient for failure to allege knowledge of presence of illicit narcotics in basement in which defendant was found. F. L. Brooks v. United States (D.C. App. 1970, 263 A. 2d 45).

Joinder

In this case, the court held the offenses of possession of narcotics and of narcotics vagrancy, largely based on same transaction, were of "similar character," such that joinder of the charges was permissible. J. D. Williams v. United States (D.C. App. 1970, 263 A. 2d 659).

Knowledge

Proof of knowledge of presence of narcotics, required in prosecutions under this section, will usually take form of inference to be drawn from defendant's proximity to or connection with narcotics, and not merely from presence in one part of large building in which narcotics are found. United States v. M. C. McClough et al. (D.C. App. 1970, 263 A. 2d 48).

Charges of narcotics vagrancy violations under this section would be dismissed without prejudice, where information failed to allege knowledge on part of defendants of presence of illicit narcotics in residence in which narcotic drugs were found. Id.

Prior convictions

One can be found guilty of violating either Narcotics Vagrancy Statute or the General Vagrancy Statute without having been previously convicted. H. M. Ricks and J. N. Williams v. United States; H. M. Ricks v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1967, 228 A. 2d 316; rev'd 414 F. 2d 1111, 134 U.S. App. D.C. 215).

Both the Narcotics Vagrancy Statute and General Vagrancy Statute employ separate paragraphs which dis-junctively set up criteria amounting to vagrancy and both require factors, other than prior convictions, which conjunctively amount to violation, so that prior convictions are not essential to all subsections of the statutes. Id.

Prior convictions of accused are admissible in prosecution for violation of vagrancy statutes. Id.

Narcotics Vagrancy and General Vagrancy Statutes do not improperly require presentation and proof of prior convictions, and do not deny due process and fair trial. Id.

Probable cause for arrest

Arrest for vagrancy without warrant was justified under evidence, including testimony of experienced police officers that they had observed defendant in company of known prostitutes and narcotics violators on four occasions during two nights, defendant's warrantless arrest for vagrancy was not without probable cause. J. L. Worthy v. United States (1968, 409 F. 2d 1105, 133 U.S. App. D.C. 188).

Purpose of statute

A course of conduct rather than an overt act is prohibited by the Narcotics Vagrancy and General Vagrancy Statutes. H. M. Ricks and J. N. Williams v. United States; H. M. Ricks v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1967, 228 A. 2d 316; rev'd 414 F. 2d 1111, 134 U.S. App. D.C. 215).

Purpose of Narcotics Vagrancy and General Vagrancy Statutes is to prevent crimes which may likely flow from the vagrant's mode of life. Id.

Search

Although it is incident to an arrest for vagrancy the search was not for that reason required to be limited to a frisk. J. L. Worthy v. United States (1968, 409 F. 2d 1105, 133 U.S. App. D.C. 188).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Sentence

In prosecution for possession of heroin, action of the trial court in demanding, before imposing sentence, that defendant reveal in open court the name of his drug supplier is inappropriate, but is not basis for disturbing sentence of six months' imprisonment, despite contention that trial court imposed sentence of imprisonment rather than probation solely to penalize defendant for failure to name his supplier, since the defendant had acknowledged his guilt and had three prior convictions, including narcotics felony, and sentence imposed was but one-half of what could have been imposed. V. M. Wilson v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 278 A. 2d 461).

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 23-546, 33-704, 33-710.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Amendment of information

Granting government's motion to amend information, after presentation of all evidence and after government had rested its case, to read "make or utter" rather than "make and utter" a forged prescription for purpose of obtaining dangerous drug did not change nature of offense or charge additional violation and constituted proper exercise of judicial discretion. G. D. Bobrow v. United States (D.C. App. 1967, 225 A. 2d 311).

Assistance of counsel

Where the essential element of the government's proof was that two defendants, either jointly or severally, were in position to exercise dominion over two-room basement apartment in which narcotic paraphernalia and dangerous drug were found, but counsel representing both defendants jointly made no effort to develop on direct examination testimony, elicited by government on cross-examination, that one defendant's residence in apartment had been of temporary nature and in closing argument failed to comment on that testimony, that defendant was prejudiced by joint representation and was denied the effective assistance of counsel. P. D. McIver v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 280 A. 2d 527).

Where defense counsel, jointly representing defendant and codefendant, elicited testimony that defendant was a resident in two-room apartment in which narcotic paraphernalia and dangerous drug were found and defense counsel opened door to testimony that defendant had been seen to use heroin at apartment thereby involving defendant with narcotics in very substantial way, since obviously someone must have had such control at apartment as to give rise to presumption of constructive possession of articles seized, the defendant was prejudiced by joint representation and was denied effective assistance of counsel. Id.

Basis for search warrant

Quantitatively, the information in support of a search warrant in narcotics case must be that from which a reasonable man could conclude that there probably are illicit paraphernalia on the premises to be searched. Logically this is less evidence than that required to convict. United States v. J. D. Kuch (1969, 301 F. Supp. 965).

Evidence—Admissibility

Police officers who observed, from ten feet away, the defendant giving something out of a vial to codefendant in exchange for an amount of cash in "high narcotic area" neighborhood had probable cause to arrest defendants, and desoxyn tablets seized in search incident to such arrest were properly admitted into evidence in prosecution for possession of desoxyn tablets in violation of this section. A. J. Peterkin v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 281 A. 2d 567).

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA COUNCIL

Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred the regulatory and other functions of the Board of Commissioners, under this section to the District of Columbia Council, subject to the right of the Commissioner as provided by section 406 of the Plan. For provisions establishing the District of Columbia Council, see section 201 of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1.

§ 33-708. Penalties.

(a) Any person violating any provision of this chapter, or of any regulation made by the Commissioners under the authority of this chapter shall upon conviction be punished, for the first offense, by a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $1,000, or by imprisonment for not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment; and for any subsequent offense by a fine of not less than $500 nor more than $5,000, or by imprisonment for not exceeding ten years, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

(b) The conviction of any person for a violation of this chapter, or of any regulation made under the authority of this chapter, involving any dangerous drug shall constitute ground for suspension or revocation or denial of renewal of the professional license of such person. Proceedings for such suspension or revocation or denial of renewal shall be had in accordance with the statutes relating to the issuance, revocation, suspension, and denial of renewal of such licenses and in accordance with statutes relating to judicial review of administrative action in connection with the revocation, suspension, or denial of renewal of such licenses.

(c) As used in this section the term "professional license" means a license issued under the following provisions of title 2: subchapter I of chapter 1, chapter 3, subchapter I of chapter 4, and chapters 6, 7, and 8. (July 24, 1956, 70 Stat. 616, ch. 676, title II, § 209.)

§ 33-709. Search warrants.

(a) A search warrant may be issued upon probable cause, supported by affidavit particularly describing the property to be seized and place to be searched, by any judge of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia or by the United States Commissioner for the District of Columbia, to any officer of the Metropolitan Police Department when any dangerous drugs are manufactured, possessed, prescribed, and delivered in violation of the provisions of this chapter, and any such dangerous drugs and any other property designed for use in connection with such unlawful manufacturing, possession, prescribing, or delivery, may be seized thereunder and shall be subject to such disposition as the court may make thereof, and such dangerous drugs may be taken on the warrant from any house or other place in which they are concealed.

(b) Any search warrant issued in accordance with the provisions of subsection (a) of this section may be served at any time in the day or night and must be executed and returned to the issuing authority within ten days after its date. (July 24, 1956, 70 Stat. 617, ch. 676, title II, § 210; July 8, 1963, 77 Stat. 77, Pub. L. 88-60, § 1; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91-358, title I, § 155(a), 84 Stat. 570.)

Section, act Dec. 21, 1920, 41 Stat. 1081, ch. 2, § 1, limited the liability of hotel proprietors and innkeepers for injury or loss to guests' property when a safe or vault was furnished and notice given. For current provisions, see § 34-106.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

“Guest” defined

Hotel patron who had stated to hotel desk clerk in the morning that she was checking out but would leave her belongings in the room until 3:00 P.M. until check-out time and was told that this was permissible and who discovered at about 2:30 P.M. that her fur coat was missing from the room was a “guest” of the hotel at the time of the loss, and the common-law doctrine of infra hospitium was applicable. Hotel Corporation of America v. The Travelers Indemnity Company (D.C. App. 1967, 229 A. 2d 158).

§ 34-102. Repealed. Dec. 8, 1970, Pub. L. 91-537, § 4(b), 84 Stat. 1397.

Section, act Dec. 21, 1920, 41 Stat. 1082, ch. 2, § 2, limited the liability of hotel proprietors and innkeepers for baggage stolen from rooms when certain notice was posted on inside or door. For current provisions, see § 34-106.

§§ 34-103 to 34-105. Repealed. Dec. 8, 1970, Pub. L. 91-537, § 4(a), 84 Stat. 1397.

§ 34-106. Hotels, motels, and innkeepers furnishing depository or checkroom and giving notice to guests—Limitation on liability for loss or damage to property—Exceptions.

(a) If a hotel, motel, or similar establishment in the District of Columbia which provides lodging to transient guests (1) provides a suitable depository (other than a checkroom) for the safekeeping of personal property (other than a motor vehicle), and (2) displays conspicuously in the guest and public rooms of that establishment a printed copy of this section (or summary thereof), that establishment shall not be liable for the loss or destruction of, or damage to, any personal property of a guest or patron not deposited for safekeeping, except that this sentence shall not apply with respect to the liability of that establishment for loss or destruction of, or damage to, any personal property retained by a guest in his room if the property is such property as is usual, common, or prudent for a guest to retain in his room. #### EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

§ 35-414. False statements in application for insurance.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Material misrepresentation

A misstatement in an application for an insurance policy, to be material to the hazard assumed, must be shown in some way to have affected it or contributed to the loss, and in a substantial manner. L. Haubner a/k/a etc. v. Aetna Life Insurance Co. (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A. 2d 414).

The court held that it is clear that the facts suppressed by the life insurance applicant concerning her consultations with and examinations by physicians prior to time she applied for policy and her previous history of cancer affected in a substantial manner the hazard assumed by insurer and would certainly have influenced insurer's decision to insure her, and such false statements by insured were material to issuance of the policy. Id.

Insured's failure to reveal information to the life insurer that she was consulting with physicians at time of policy application and that she had previous history of cancer constituted sufficient cause to justify insurer's refusal to pay proceeds of policy. Id.

Waiver of misrepresentation

Even if life insurer's doctor knew or should have known that tumor causing removal of breast in 1953 was malignant and that recurrence of malignancy in the future was a definite possibility, this did not operate as a waiver by the insurer of a defense based on false statements allegedly contained in an application for life insurance policy, where applicant concealed information, concerning present consultations, that was clearly material to issuance of life insurance policy. L. Haubner a/k/a etc. v. Aetna Life Insurance Co. (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A. 2d 414).

E. Johnson et al. v. American General Insurance Company et al.* (1969, 296 F. Supp. 802).

§ 35-530. Officers and directors not to be pecuniarily interested in transactions—Appraisal—Loans on policies.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Claim for "ultra vires" act as part of derivative action

An alleged cause of action charging that the president and director of a corporation is personally liable for participating in "ultra vires" act to the detriment of the corporation and for being pecuniarily interested in corporate transactions in violation of statute should be maintainable as part of a derivative action. G. E. Johnson et al. v. American General Insurance Company et al. (1969, 296 F. Supp. 802).

Construction

District of Columbia statute providing that a director or officer of an insurance company doing business in the district shall not receive any money or valuable thing for negotiating any loan from the company or be pecuniarily interested in any such loan is regulatory and is intended to secure fiduciary relationship from being utilized in a manner which might give rise to conflict of interest and is not intended to punish one who violates the statute, hence the rule of strict construction of criminal statute is to be relaxed. A. F. Jordan v. Acacia Mutual Life Insurance Co., et ano. (1969, 409 F. 2d 1141, 133 U.S. App. D.C. 224; rev'g 283 F. Supp. 766).

Inasmuch as statute prohibiting director or officer of life insurer from obtaining loan from insurer provided that any person violating statute should be guilty of misdemeanor, statute must be treated as a penal statute Acacia Mutual Life Insurance Co., et ano. v. A. F. Jordan Sup't etc. (1968, 283 F. Supp. 766; rev'd and remanded 409 F. 2d 1141).

Portion of section of District of Columbia Code to effect that no director or officer of any life insurer doing business in district shall receive any money or valuable thing for negotiating, procuring, recommending or aiding in any loan from such insurer was intended to bar director or officer from receiving any compensation, such as broker's commission, for procuring a loan to be made and to prevent director or officer from borrowing any money from insurer while he was director or officer. Id.

Eligibility of borrower to become director or officer

Under District of Columbia statute providing that a director or officer of any insurance company doing business in the district shall not receive any money or valuable thing for negotiating any loan from the company or be pecuniarily interested in any such loan, a person who is interested as principal in a loan from the insurance company is barred from becoming a director even though his interest in the loan arose prior to his becoming a director. A. F. Jordan v. Acacia Mutual Life Insurance Co., et ano. (1969, 409 F. 2d 1141, 133 U.S. App. D.C. 224; rev'g 283 F. Supp. 766).

Person who had borrowed money from District of Columbia insurance company was eligible to become member of board of directors or officer of company while loan was outstanding. Acacia Mutual Life Insurance Co., et ano. v. A. F. Jordan Sup't etc. (1968, 283 F. Supp. 766; rev'd and remanded 409 F. 2d 1141).

Section of District of Columbia Code banning director or officer of any insurer from being pecuniarily interested, either as principal, coprincipal, agent or beneficiary in any purchase by, or sale to, insurer or any loan from insurer relates to transaction of lending money and does not apply to status of loan and is not effective during entire period when loan is in existence. Id.

No person, firm, or corporation, or association shall allow or pay any commission, rebate, or compensation whatever, directly or indirectly, to, for, or in behalf of any person, firm, or corporation doing business in the District of Columbia not licensed as herein provided. Any violation of this section shall be a misdemeanor and, on conviction in the Superior Court of the District of Columbia, be subject to the penalties provided in section 35-201 for the misdemeanors therein described: Provided, That licenses to firms, corporations, or associations shall be held to extend only to the bona fide copartners, not exceeding two in one firm, and to the secretary and one assistant secretary of each corporation or association so licensed, any one of whom may be held and dealt with on behalf of such firm, corporation, or association for any violation of the provisions hereof. * * * * *

(b) Attorney for services of process.—Every foreign or alien company now or hereafter authorized to transact business in the District shall file with the superintendent a duly executed instrument appointing and constituting him and his successors true and lawful attorney for such company, upon whom all lawful process in any action or legal proceeding against it in the District may be served, and therein shall agree that any lawful process against it, which may be served upon its said attorney as herein provided, shall be of the same force and validity as if served upon the company, and that the authority thereof shall continue in force irrevocably so long as any liability of the company in the District shall remain outstanding. Such process shall be served by delivering to and leaving the same with the superintendent or his deputy, and service thereof upon such attorney shall be deemed service upon the company. The superintendent shall forthwith forward such process by prepaid registered mail or by certified mail to the company, or, in the case of an alien company, to the United States manager or last-appointed United States general agent of the company. The registry receipt evidencing the deposit by the superintendent, or his deputy, of such process, in the United States mails in the manner herein prescribed, shall be prima facie evidence of the completion of such service. Failure of any such company to file such an instrument, or failure on the part of any such company to authorize such filing, shall not invalidate any service made by serving the superintendent. By accepting a certificate of authority to transact business in the District, every such company shall be held to have appointed the superintendent its true and lawful attorney. Any such company transacting business in the District without designating an attorney for service of process as herein provided shall, upon information filed by the corporation counsel of the District in the Superior Court of the District of Columbia, be fined upon conviction not less than $10 nor more than $500 for each day during which the company shall have operated in violation of this section. #### SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 35-1317.

§ 35-1334. Agents and brokers—Policies to be executed by licensed and authorized agents—All agreements contained in policy—Rebates prohibited—List of agents to be filed—Payment of premium to broker—Soliciting agent may not sign policy—Life, title, and ocean marine agents excepted.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Construction

This section providing that "Any policywriting agent or salaried company employee authorized by any company to solicit * * * policies or applications therefor shall * * * be held to be the agent of the company which issued or effected the policy solicited or so applied for, anything in the application or policy to the contrary notwithstanding" does not exclude the possibility of a dual agency relationship; accordingly, since in instant case insurance agency acted both as insurer's agent and as insureds' broker, payment of insurance premium refunds to the agency by the insurer constituted payment to the insureds. Jonathan Woodner Co. et al. v. Aetna Insurance Company (1971, 442 F. 2d 754, 143 U.S. App. D.C. 32).

§ 35-1336. Agents and brokers, license—Form of application—Request by company or agent, form and contents—Bond of brokers—Written examination—Requirements for license—Waiver of examination—Issuance to individuals or firms—License for own business prohibited.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 35-1339, 35-1345.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Building and loan associations

This chapter specifically authorizes building and loan associations to be licensed and to act as insurance agents and brokers. L. S. Goodman et al. v. Perpetual Building Association et al. (1970, 320 F. Supp. 20).

Building and loan association would not be "primarily" obtaining license for purpose of obtaining commissions on policies on which it is paying premiums or on which premiums are paid by person who receives any benefit direct or indirect from commission, since any benefits to individual members of association, who paid insurance premiums on hazard insurance used to protect association's security, was so remote as to be inconsequential and since the Superintendent of Insurance had, in its license application form, interpreted primary to be 25 percent. Id.

Construction

Interpretation of statute by agency charged with administering it is entitled to great weight. L. S. Goodman et al. v. Perpetual Building Association et al. (1970, 320 F. Supp. 20).

District of Columbia statutes governing organization and powers of building and loan association, object of Home Loan Bank Board, objects of building and loan association and licensing of agents and brokers for hazard insurance do not preclude building and loan association from obtaining license for and conducting business of, insurance agent or broker with respect to insurance on property securing loans, as incident to its primary business. Id.

Change in language of this section from, "no person, firm, or corporation shall act * * *", to "licenses may be issued in the name of individuals, or in the name of firms, partnerships, or corporations including * * * building and loan associations * * *" was merely in clarification of previous ambiguous language and did not constitute change in law to include building and loan associations. Id.

This section authorizes the Superintendent of Insurance to issue a license in name of building and loan association, notwithstanding proviso that no person shall be licensed when it appears that license is sought primarily for purpose of obtaining commissions on which he is to pay premium because of indirect benefit to members of association by virtue of increase of association's income. Id.

This section, providing that no person shall be licensed when it appears that license is sought primarily for purpose of obtaining commission on which he is to pay premiums, does not preclude issuing license in all instances when the license is sought to obtain commissions on policies on which premiums are paid or to be paid by person who receives direct or indirect benefit, but only when such license is primarily sought for restrictive purpose. Id.

Purpose

Purpose of District of Columbia statutes governing licensing of fire and casualty agents and providing that no person shall be licensed when it appears that license is primarily sought for purpose of obtaining commissions on policies on which he is to pay premiums or premiums are to be paid by person who receives direct or indirect benefit from commissions is to outlaw rebates, not to exclude building and loan associations from obtaining licenses and collecting commissions on insurance covering property securing association's loans. L. S. Goodman et al. v. Perpetual Building Association et al. (1970, 320 F. Supp. 20).

The term "company" as used in this section shall include any association, society, company, corporation, joint-stock company, individual, partnership, trustee, or receiver engaged in the business of assuming risks of insurance, surety, or indemnity, and any Lloyd's organization, assessment, or cooperative fire company, or any reciprocal or interinsurance exchange, and any company, association, or society, whether organized for profit or not, conducting a business, including any of the principles or features of insurance, surety, or indemnity. Any person who violates any provision of this section upon conviction shall be fined not less than $100 nor more than $1,000 for each offense, or be imprisoned for not more than twelve months, or both, and any such person shall be personally liable to any resident of the District having claim against any such unauthorized company under any policy which said person has solicited or negotiated, or has aided in soliciting or negotiating: Provided, That the provisions of this section shall not apply to any person who negotiates with an unauthorized company for policies covering his own property or interests, nor shall the provisions of this section apply to the officers, agents, or representatives of any company which is in process of organization under the laws of the District, and which is authorized temporarily to solicit or secure memberships or applications for policies for the purpose of completing such organization. NOTES TO DECISIONS

Authority of Superintendent of Insurance

District of Columbia Superintendent of Insurance has statutory authority to issue order including "crime lines" within definition of basic property insurance under this chapter even though the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development has not incorporated those lines into the definition of essential property insurance under the national insurance development programs, but the authority is qualified by substantive constitutional requirements of due process. District of Columbia Insurance Placement Facility v. W. E. Washington, Commissioner, et al. (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A.2d 45.)

§ 35-1703. Industry placement facility.

(a) Within thirty days after August 1, 1968 all insurers licensed to write and engaged in writing in the District of Columbia, on a direct basis, basic property insurance or any component thereof in multiperil policies, shall establish an Industry Placement Facility. The Facility shall formulate and administer a program, subject to disapproval by the Commissioner in whole or in part, to seek the equitable apportionment amount such insurers of basic property insurance which may be afforded applicants in the District of Columbia whose property is insurable in accordance with reasonable underwriting standards and who individually or through their insurance agent or broker request the aid of the Facility to procure such insurance. The Facility shall seek to place insurance with one or more participating companies up to the full insurable value of the risk, if requested, except to the extent that deductibles, percentage participation clauses, and other underwriting devices are employed to meet special problems of insurability.

(b) The Facility may, subject to the approval of the Commissioner, provide as part of its program for the equitable distribution of commercial risks and dwelling risks among insurers.

(c) Each insurer licensed to write and engaged in writing in the District of Columbia, on a direct basis, basic property insurance or any component thereof in multiperil policies shall participate in the Industry Placement Facility program in accordance with the established rules of the program as a condition of its authority to transact such kinds of insurance in the District of Columbia, except that, in lieu of revoking or suspending the certificate of authority of any company for any failure to comply with any of the established rules of the program, the Commissioner may subject such company to a penalty of not more than $200 for each such failure to so comply when in his judgment he finds that the public interest would be best served by the continued operation of the company in the District of Columbia. (Aug. 1, 1968, Pub. L. 90-448, § 1204, title XII, 82 Stat. 568.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Due process

Order of District of Columbia Superintendent of Insurance including "crime lines" within definition of basic property insurance under this chapter denied due process since it was issued without giving Insurance Placement Facility, which was established to implement federal program of establishing and effectuating plans to assure fair access to insurance requirements, notice or opportunity for hearing. District of Columbia Insurance Placement Facility v. W. E. Washington, Commissioner, et ano. (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A. 2d 45.)

§ 35-1704. Fair access to insurance requirements.

(a) The Industry Placement Facility shall on its own motion, or within thirty days after a request by the Commissioner, submit to the Commissioner such proposed rules and regulations applicable to insurers, agents, and brokers deemed necessary to assure all property owners fair access to basic property insurance through the normal insurance markets, including rules and regulations concerning—

(1) the manner and scope of inspections of risk by an inspection bureau;

(2) the preparation and filing of inspection reports and reports on actions taken in connection with inspected risks, and summaries thereof;

(3) the operation of the Facility, including rules and regulations concerning—

(A) the basic property insurance coverages to be provided through the Facility;

(B) the reasonable effort to obtain insurance in the normal commercial market required of an applicant before recourse to the Facility; and

(C) the appeals procedure within the Facility for any applicant for insurance regarding any ruling, action, or decision by or on behalf of the Facility.

(b) The Commissioner may adopt such of the rules and regulations submitted pursuant to subsection (a) of this section as he approves. If the Commissioner disapproves any proposed rule or regulation submitted, he shall state the reasons for so doing, and he shall require the Facility to submit a revision thereof within such time as he may designate, but no less than ten days. During such designated time, the Commissioner and the Facility shall consult regarding any such disapproved rule or regulation. If the Facility fails to submit a proposed rule or regulation, or revision thereof, within the designated time, or if a revised rule or regulation is unacceptable to the Commissioner, the Commissioner may make such rules and regulations covering the proposed general subject matter as he shall deem necessary to carry out the purposes of this chapter. Any rule or regulation adopted or made under this section shall be consistent with the requirements of part A of title XII of the National Housing Act. (Aug. 1, 1968, Pub. L. 90-448, § 1205, title XII, 82 Stat. 569.)

REFERENCE IN TEXT

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 35-1702.

Authority of District Council

District of Columbia City Council does not have authority under either its police power or the Insurance Code to pass insurance regulations designed to prohibit geographic discrimination and arbitrary cancellation of policies within the District. Firemen's Insurance Company of Washington v. W. E. Washington et al. (1971, 333 F. Supp. 951).

Where Congress provided for the equitable distribution of responsibility for insuring qualified property within the District of Columbia for which insurance could not be obtained through the normal market by passing this chapter, the City Council of the District could not thereafter regulate the same type of high risk coverage by passing regulation designed to prohibit geographic discrimination. Id.

Authority of Superintendent of Insurance

District of Columbia Superintendent of Insurance has statutory authority to issue order including "crime lines" within definition of basic property insurance under this chapter even though the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development has not incorporated those lines into the definition of essential property insurance under the national insurance development program, but the authority is qualified by substantive constitutional requirements of due process. District of Columbia Insurance Placement Facility v. W. E. Washington, Commissioner, et ano. (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A. 2d 45).

Construction

The provision in § 35-1704(b) that the Superintendent of Insurance may not adopt procedures conflicting with minimum administrative procedures for the operation of the fair plans is not to be construed as preventing Superintendent from proceeding toward an expansion of insurance coverage as provided in § 35-1702(3). District of Columbia Insurance Placement Facility v. W. E. Washington, Commissioner, et ano. (D.C. App. 1970, 260 A. 2d 45).

Due process

Order of District of Columbia Superintendent of Insurance including "crime lines" within definition of basic property insurance under this chapter denied due process since it was issued without giving Insurance Placement

Facility, which was established to implement federal program of establishing and effectuating plans to assure fair access to insurance requirements, notice or opportunity for hearing. District of Columbia Insurance Placement Facility v. W. E. Washington, Commissioner, et ano. (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A.2d 45).

§ 35-1705. Joint Underwriting Association.

(a) The Commissioner is authorized to establish by order a joint underwriting association if he finds, after notice and hearing, that such association is necessary to carry out the purposes of this chapter. Such joint underwriting association shall consist of all insurers licensed to write and engaged in writing in the District of Columbia, on a direct basis, such basic property insurance as may be designated by the Commissioner or any component thereof in multiperil policies.

(b) Every such insurer shall be and remain a member of the association and shall comply with all requirements of membership as a condition of its authority to transact such kinds of insurance in the District of Columbia, except that in lieu of revoking or suspending the certificate of authority of any company for any failure to comply with any of the requirements of membership, the Commissioner may subject such company to a penalty of not more than $200 for each such failure to so comply when in his judgment he finds that the public interest would be best served by the continued operation of the company in the District of Columbia.

(c) (1) Within sixty days following the effective date of the order of the Commissioner under this section the association shall submit to him a proposed plan of operation, consistent with the provisions of this chapter, which shall provide for economical, fair, and nondiscriminatory administration of the association and for the prompt and efficient provision of reinsurance, without regard to environmental hazards, for such basic property insurance as may be designated by the Commissioner. The plan of operation shall include provisions for—

(A) preliminary assessment of all members for initial expenses necessary to commence operations;

(B) establishment of necessary facilities;

(C) management and operation of the association;

(D) assessment of members to defray losses and expenses;

(E) commission arrangements;

(F) reasonable underwriting standards;

(G) assumption and cessation of reinsurance; and

(H) such other matters as the Commissioner may designate.

(2) The plan of operation shall not take effect until approved by the Commissioner. If the Commissioner disapproves the proposed plan of operation (or any part thereof), he shall state the reasons for so doing, and the association shall within thirty days thereafter submit for his review an appropriately revised plan of operation. During such time, the Commissioner and the association shall consult regarding the disapproved plan or part thereof. If the association fails to submit a revised plan of operation, or if the revised plan so submitted is unacceptable to the Commissioner, the Commissioner shall promulgate a plan of operation.

(3) The association may, on its own initiative, amend such plan, subject to approval by the Commissioner, and shall amend such plan at the direction of the Commissioner if he finds such action is necessary to carry out the purposes of this chapter.

(d) All members of the association shall participate in its writings, expenses, profits, and losses, or in such categories thereof as may be separately established by the association, subject to approval by the Commissioner, in the proportion that the premiums written by each such member during the preceding calendar year bear to the aggregate premiums written in the District of Columbia by all members of the association, or in accordance with such other formula as the association may devise with the approval of the Commissioner. Such participation by each insurer in the association shall be determined annually on the basis of such premiums written during the preceding calendar year as disclosed in the annual statements and other reports filed by the insurer with the Commissioner.

§ 35-1706. Examination by Commissioner.

The operation of any inspection bureau, the Industry Placement Facility, and the joint underwriting association shall at all times be subject to the supervision and regulation of the Commissioner. The Commissioner shall have the power of visitation of and examination into such operations and free access to all the books, records, files, papers, and documents that relate to such operations, may summon and qualify witnesses under oath, and may examine directors, officers, agents, employees or, any other person having knowledge of such operations. (Aug. 1, 1968, Pub. L. 90-448, § 1207, title XII, 82 Stat. 571.)

§ 35-1707. Waiver of liability.

There shall be no liability on the part of, and no cause of action of any nature shall arise against, insurers, any inspection bureau, the Industry Placement Facility, the joint underwriting association, the agents or employees of such bureau, Facility, or association, or any officer or employee of the District of Columbia, for any statements made in good faith by them concerning the insurability of property (A) in any reports or other communications, (B) at the time of the hearings conducted in connection therewith, or (C) in the findings with respect thereto required by the provisions of this chapter. The reports and communications of any inspection bureau, the Industry Placement Facility, and the joint underwriting association with respect to individual properties shall not be open to inspection by, or otherwise available to, the public. (Aug. 1, 1968, Pub. L. 90-448, § 1208, title XII, 82 Stat. 571.)

§ 35-1708. Annual reports by Joint Underwriting Association.

The joint underwriting association shall file with the Commissioner, annually on or before the 1st day of March, a statement which shall contain information with respect to its transactions, condition, operations, and affairs during the preceding year. Such statement shall contain such matters and information as are prescribed by the Commissioner and shall be in such form as is approved by him. The Commissioner may at any time require the association to furnish him with additional information with respect to its transactions, condition, or any matter connected therewith which he considers to be material and which will assist him in evaluating the scope, operation, and experience of the association. (Aug. 1, 1968, Pub. L. 90-448, § 1209, title XII, 82 Stat. 571.)

§ 35-1709. Appeals.

(a) Any applicant for insurance and any affected insurer may appeal to the Commissioner within ninety days after any final ruling, action, or decision by or on behalf of any inspection bureau, the Industry Placement Facility, or the joint underwriting association, following exhaustion of remedies available within such bureau, Facility, or association.

(b) All final orders or decisions of the Commissioner made under this chapter shall be subject to review by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals under the District of Columbia Administrative Procedure Act (D.C. Code, secs. 1-1501 to 1-1510). (Aug. 1, 1968, Pub. L. 90-448, § 1210, title XII, 82 Stat. 571; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91-358, title I, § 163(d), 84 Stat. 583.)

§ 35-1710. Reimbursement for reinsurance provided under National Insurance Development Program.

(a) In order to carry out the purposes of this chapter and to make available to insurers who participate hereunder the reinsurance afforded under part B of title XII of the National Housing Act against losses to property resulting from riots or civil disorders, the Commissioner is authorized to assess each insurance company authorized to do business in the District of Columbia an amount, in the proportion that the premiums earned by each such company in the District of Columbia, on lines reinsured in the District of Columbia by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, during the preceding calendar year bear to the aggregate premiums earned on those lines in the District of Columbia by all insurance companies, sufficient to provide a fund to reimburse the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development in the manner set forth in section 1223(a)(1) of such part B. Such fund may be added to or such fund may be created by moneys appropriated therefor by the Congress.

(b) Insurers shall add to the premium rate an amount, to be approved by the Commissioner, sufficient to recover, within not more than three years, any amounts assessed under subsection (a) of this section during the preceding calendar year. Such amount shall be a separate charge to the insured in addition to the premium to be paid and shall be reflected as such in the policy of insurance. No commission shall be paid thereon to any agent or broker producing or selling the policy of insurance wherein such amount is added. (Aug. 1, 1968, Pub. L. 90-448, § 1211, title XII, 82 Stat. 572.)

Any minor who shall engage in any of the trades or occupations mentioned in section 36-217, in violation of any of the provisions of sections 36-217 to 36-224, shall for the first offense be warned by the director of the department of school attendance and work permits and the parent, guardian, or custodian of such minor shall be notified. For any subsequent violation, while under the care of said parent, guardian, or custodian, and with his or her knowledge, or consent, said minor may, in the discretion of the court, be deemed to be lacking in proper parental care and guardianship, and may on petition filed for that purpose, and in the discretion of the court, be committed to the Board of Public Welfare of the District of Columbia until twenty-one years of age or for a shorter period as the court may see fit, the said Board of Public Welfare being hereby expressly authorized and required to receive minors so committed. The court may, instead of immediate commitment, suspend the imposition or execution of judgment of commitment, or may, after partial hearing and instead of proceeding to judgment, suspend further proceedings without judgment, with the consent of the parent, guardian, or custodian of said minor, and in either event may assign a probation officer of the Family Division of the Superior Court to exercise probationary supervision over said minor, said probationary supervision to continue in force and the said minor to remain under the jurisdiction and control of the court as a ward of the court until said minor attains the age of seventeen years, or unless sooner discharged by order of the court or committed to said Board of Public Welfare, the court hereby being given power to withdraw said case from said probationary supervision at any time during said probation period, and after a hearing may commit said minor at once to the said board if, in the opinion of the court, the best interests and welfare of said minor shall so require. Upon the recommendation of the principal or chief executive officer of the school which said minor is attending or upon the complaint of any school attendance officer, or any officer authorized to enforce this chapter, the badge of any minor who violates any provision of this chapter, or who becomes delinquent, or who fails to comply with all the legal requirements concerning school attendance, may be revoked by the director of the department of school attendance and work permits for such period as the said officer may require; and upon revocation said officer shall so notify the parent, guardian, or custodian having such minor in charge, and it shall thereupon become the duty of said parent, guardian, or custodian to surrender or require said minor to surrender said badge to the said officer. After notice to such minor and his parent, guardian, or custodian of revocation of such badge, he shall be deemed to be in the same status as a minor without a badge. The refusal of any such minor to surrender his badge upon such revocation shall be deemed a violation of this chapter. (May 29, 1928, 45 Stat. 1004, ch. 908, § 22; July 29, 1970, Pub. ## TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER

See § 401 of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, eff. Nov. 3, 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1. See also §§ 301 and 503 of the Plan.

§ 36-406. Reconsideration and revision of wage orders—Ad hoc committees—Committee reports of findings and recommendations—Failure to report.

(a) At any time after a wage rate within a wage order has been in effect for one year the Commissioners may on their own motion reconsider such wage rate set in such wage order. If, after investigation, the Commissioners are of the opinion that any substantial number of workers in the occupation covered by such wage order are receiving wages insufficient to provide adequate maintenance and to protect health they may convene an ad hoc advisory committee for the purpose of considering and inquiring into and reporting to the Commissioners on the subject investigated by the Commissioners and submitted by them to such committee.

(b) The committee shall be composed of not more than three persons representing the employers in such occupation, of an equal number representing employees in such occupation, and of not more than three persons representing the public. The chairman of the agency designated by the Commissioner to administer this subchapter shall be an ex officio member of the Committee. Such agency shall name and appoint all the members of the committee and designate its chairman. Two-thirds of the members of the committee shall constitute a quorum, and any decision, recommendation, or report of the committee on the subject submitted to it shall require an affirmative vote of not less than a majority of all its members.

(c) The Commissioners shall present to the committee such information as they might have relating to the subject they submitted to the committee, and may cause to be brought before the committee any witnesses whose testimony the Commissioners consider material.

(d) Within sixty days after the convening of the committee by the Commissioners, the committee shall make and transmit to the Commissioners a report containing its findings and recommendations on the subject submitted to it by the Commissioners.

(e) The committee report shall include a recommendation for minimum wages for the employees in the occupation under consideration, but the minimum wage rates recommended shall not be less than those prescribed in subsection (a) (1) of section 36-403. In making such recommendation the committee shall take into consideration (1) the amount of wages sufficient to provide adequate maintenance and to protect health, (2) the fair and reasonable value of the work performed, and (3) the wages paid in the Washington metropolitan region by fair employers for work of like or comparable character. The committee report shall also include recommendations for reasonable allowances for board, lodging, or other facilities or services, customarily furnished by the employer to the employees, or reasonable allowances for gratuities customarily received by employees in any occupation in which gratuities have customarily and usually constituted and have been recognized as a part of the remuneration for hiring purposes. The committee report may also recommend suitable minimum wages for learners and apprentices in the occupation under consideration, where it appears proper or necessary, and may recommend the maximum length of time any such employee may be kept at such wages as a learner or apprentice. The minimum wages recommended for learners and apprentices may be less than the minimum wages recommended for other employees in such occupation. The committee may make a separate inquiry into and report on any branch of any occupation and may recommend different minimum wages for such branch of employment in the same occupation.

(f) If such committee fails to submit a report to the Commissioners within the period specified in subsection (d) of this section, the Commissioners may (1) discharge such committee from further consideration of the subject submitted to it and convene a new committee for the purpose of considering such subject, or (2) consider the subject without the recommendations of an ad hoc advisory committee and prepare and publish a revised wage order for the occupation in accordance with the procedure specified in section 36-407 and after taking into consideration the matters referred to in the second sentence of subsection (e). (Sept. 19, 1918, 40 Stat. 962, ch. 174, title I, § 6; Oct. 15, 1966, 80 Stat. 965, Pub. L. 89-684, § 1; Jan. 5, 1971, Pub. L. 91-650, title VII, § 703(c), 84 Stat. 1938.)

AMENDMENT

1971—Section 703(c) of Act Jan. 5, 1971, Pub. L. 91-650, amended section as follows:

(1) The first sentence of subsection (a) of such section is amended (A) by striking out "wage order" the first time it appears and inserting in lieu thereof "wage rate within a wage order", and (B) by striking out "the wage rates" and inserting in lieu thereof "such wage rate".

(2) The first sentence of subsection (b) of such section is amended (A) by inserting "and" immediately after "occupation," the second time it occurs, and (B) by striking out ", and one or more representatives of the agency designated by the Commissioners to administer this subchapter." and inserting in lieu thereof a period and the following: "The chairman of the agency designated by the Commissioner to administer this subchapter shall be an ex officio member of the committee."

(3) Clause (3) of the second sentence of subsection (e) of such section is amended by striking out "District of Columbia" and inserting in lieu thereof "Washington metropolitan region".

(4) Subsection (f) of such section is amended by inserting immediately before the period at the end thereof the following: "and after taking into consideration the matters referred to in the second sentence of subsection (e)".

This section is referred to in sections 36-402, 36-407.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Construction

The District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board is entitled to use median wage level rather than entry-level income paid to those entering particular labor market as reference point in establishing minimum wage. L. Allentuck, t/a etc. and Larimer's, Inc. v. District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 307).

It is the wage order and not the wage rate that must be in effect for one year before Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board may reconsider existing wage rate. L. Allentuck, t/a etc. and Larimer's, Inc. v. District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board (D.C. App. 1969, 261 A. 2d 826).

Discretion

The establishment of lower minimum wage rate for handicapped, apprentice and minor employees is within the discretion of District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board. L. Allentuck, t/a etc. and Larimer's, Inc. v. District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 307).

Evidence—Sufficiency

The findings of the District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board that wage rate adopted was required to provide adequate maintenance to protect health, and that rate was commensurate with fair and reasonable value of work performed and with that paid in District of Columbia by fair employers for work of like or comparable character were supported by substantial evidence. L. Allentuck, t/a etc. and Larimer's, Inc. v. District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 307).

Jurisdiction

The Court held that the Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board was not without jurisdiction to reconsider wage rate of existing wage order by reason of fact that such rate had been in effect less than one year. L. Allentuck, t/a etc. and Larimer's, Inc. v. District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board (D.C. App. 1969, 261 A. 2d 826).

Sufficiency of findings of fact

The court held that all interested parties are entitled to know and District of Columbia Court of Appeals, on review, must know basis and reasons for action of Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board in issuing wage order. L. Allentuck, t/a etc. and Larimer's, Inc. v. District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board (D.C. App. 1969, 261 A. 2d 826).

In this case the findings of fact consisting of only finding relating to general minimum weekly wage of $81.28 as sufficient to provide adequate maintenance and to protect health and finding that minimum wage in retail trade occupation should not be less than $2.00 an hour based on prescribed 40-hour work week were insufficient to support wage order issued by Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board. Id.

§ 36-407. Issuance of revised wage orders—Notice and hearing—Notice and effective date of orders—Contents of orders—Restrictions.

(a) Upon receipt of the report from the ad hoc advisory committee, or upon the discharge of such committee, in accordance with section 36-406(f), the Commissioners may prepare a proposed revised wage order for the occupation, giving due consideration to any recommendations contained in the report of such committee. In such order the Commissioners shall provide, among other things, such allowances as are recommended in the report. The Commissioners shall publish a notice once a week, for four successive weeks, in a newspaper of general circulation printed in the District of Columbia, stating that they will, on a date and at a place named in the notice, hold a public hearing at which all interested persons will be given a reasonable opportunity to be heard. Such notice shall contain a summary of the major provisions of the proposed revised wage order.

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Authority of Board

The current wage order containing sections covering definitions, minimum wage and overtime compensation, employees compensated by commissions, workers under age of 18, handicapped workers, apprentices, adult learners, minimum daily wages, split shifts, uniforms, travel expenses, deductions, allowances for meals and lodging, basis of payment, time of payment, required records and issuance of wage statements were not regulations and Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board did not exceed authority in issuing such order. L. Allentuck, t/a etc. and Larimer's, Inc. v. District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board (D.C. App. 1969, 261 A. 2d 826).

Construction

This District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board need not supply the same evidence or review its experience with previous wage orders to re-establish the various abuses and means of circumvention previously proscribed each time it issues a new minimum wage order. L. Allentuck, t/a etc. and Larimer's, Inc. v. District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 307).

The specific expression, in sections 36-408 (b) and (c) of matter for regulations to be made by Commissioners cannot be taken as an indication by Congress that such matters cannot also be subject of a wage order. L. Allen- tuck, t/a etc. and Larimer's, Inc. v. District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board (D.C. App. 1969, 261 A. 2d 826).

"Order" and "regulations" defined

An "Order" under section 36-407 is used to establish basic minimum level of income for an occupation and classification with additional provisions to insure its compliance, whereas "regulations" are used to make certain that there is coordination between all other government agencies or to secure inter-occupational uniformity. L. Allentuck, t/a etc. and Larimer's, Inc. v. District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board (D.C. App. 1969, 261 A. 2d 826).

Review

Since the employers did not challenge terms and conditions of minimum wage order before the Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board, employers will not be heard to complain on judicial review of the order. L. Allentuck, t/a etc. and Larimer's, Inc. v. District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 307).

Validity of wage order

To be valid, the terms and conditions of minimum wage order need only be supported by determination of necessity. L. Allentuck t/a etc. and Larimer's, Inc. v. District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 307).

§ 36-408. Regulations of Commissions—Contents—Notice and hearing—Effective date.

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA COUNCIL

Section 402(281) of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred the regulatory and other functions of the Board of Commissioners, under this section relating to making and revising regulations, including definitions of terms, to the District of Columbia Council, subject to the right of the Commissioner as provided by section 406 of the Plan. For provisions establishing the District of Columbia Council, see section 201 of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 36-402, 36-403, 36-413.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Authority of Board

The current wage order containing sections covering definitions, minimum wage and overtime compensation, employees compensated by commissions, workers under age of 18, handicapped workers, apprentices, adult learners, minimum daily wages, split shifts, uniforms, travel expenses, deductions allowances for meals and lodging, basis of payment, time of payment, required records and issuance of wage statements were not regulations and Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board did not exceed authority in issuing such order. L. Allentuck, t/a etc. and Larimer's Inc. v. District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board (D.C. App. 1969, 261 A. 2d 826).

Construction

The specific expression in sections 36-408 (b) and (c) of matter for regulations to be made by Commissioners cannot be taken as an indication by Congress that such matters cannot also be subject of a wage order. L. Allentuck, t/a etc. and Larimer's Inc. v. District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board (D.C. App. 1969, 261 A. 2d 826).

§ 36-409. Judicial review of orders—Procedure—Scope of review—Additional evidence—Modification of or setting aside findings or orders—Stay pending determination of proceedings.

(a) Any person aggrieved by an order of the Commissioners issued under this subchapter may obtain a review of such order in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals by filing in such court, within sixty days after the issuance of such order, a written petition praying that the order of the Commissioners be modified or set aside in whole or in part. The review shall be governed by the District of Columbia Administrative Procedure Act (D.C. Code, secs. 1-1501 to 1-1510).

(b) The commencement of proceedings under subsection (a) shall not, unless specifically ordered by the court, operate as a stay of the Commissioners' order. The court shall not grant any stay of the order unless the person complaining or such order shall file in court an undertaking with a surety or sureties, satisfactory to the court, for the payment to the employees affected by the order, in the event such order is affirmed, of the amount by which the compensation such employees are entitled to receive under the order exceeds the compensation they actually receive while such stay is in effect. (Sept. 19, 1918, 40 Stat. 962, ch. 174, title I, § 9; Oct. 15, 1966, 80 Stat. 967, Pub. L. 89-684, § 1; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91-358, § 163(f), title I, 84 Stat. 583.

AMENDMENTS

1970—Section 163(f) of Act July 29, 1970, Public Law 91-358 amended subsection (a) by striking out the second sentence and all that follows thereafter and inserting in lieu thereof "The review shall be governed by the District of Columbia Administrative Procedure Act (D.C. Code, secs. 1-1501 to 1-1510)."

For provisions of stricken matter see 1967 edition of the Code.

1966—Act Oct. 15, 1966, substituted entirely different provisions. See 1966 amendment note preceding § 36-401. Former provisions of this section (§ 10 of 1918 act) related to conferences on inadequate wages. For former provisions of § 9 of the 1918 act, see 1966 amendment note under § 36-408.

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER

See § 401 of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, eff. Nov. 3, 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1. See also §§ 301 and 503 of the Plan.

CROSS REFERENCE

Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board created under former provisions of § 36-402, abolishment and transfer of functions to Commissioners, re-establishment and delegation thereto of certain functions so transferred, see 1952 Reorg. Plan No. 5, set out in app. I to title 1 of this Code, Commissioners' Reorg. Ord. No. 36, June 16, 1953, as amended, set out in app. II to title 1. See also, § 2 of Act Oct. 15, 1966, Pub. L. 89-684, set out in note under § 36-401.

Evidence—Sufficiency

The findings of the District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board that wage rate adopted was required to provide adequate maintenance to protect health, and that rate was commensurate with fair and reasonable value of work performed and with that paid in District of Columbia by fair employers for work of like or comparable character were supported by substantial evidence. L. Allentuck, t/a etc. and Larimer's, Inc. v. District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 307).

Review

On review of order of District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board, the District of Columbia Court of Appeals will not substitute its judgment for that of the Board. L. Allentuck, t/a etc., and Larimer's Inc. v. District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 307).

Sufficiency of findings of fact

The court held that all interested parties are entitled to know and District of Columbia Court of Appeals, on review, must know basis and reasons for action of Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board in issuing wage order. L. Allentuck, t/a etc. and Larimer's Inc. v. District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board (D.C. App. 1969, 261 A. 2d 826).

In this case the findings of fact consisting of only a finding relating to general minimum weekly wage of $81.28 as sufficient to provide adequate maintenance and to protect health and finding that minimum wage in retail trade occupation should not be less than $2.00 an hour based on prescribed 40-hour work week were insufficient to support wage order issued by Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board. Id.

§ 36-410. Authority of Commissioners to take testimony and issue subpoenas—Punishment for contempt.

The Commissioners shall have power to administer oaths and require by subpoena the attendance and testimony of witnesses, the production of all books, registers, and other evidence relative to any matters under investigation, at any public hearing or at any meeting of any committee or for the use of the Commissioners in securing compliance with this subchapter. In case of disobedience to a subpoena the Commissioners may invoke the aid of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia in requiring the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of documentary evidence. In case of contumacy or refusal to obey a subpoena the court may issue an order requiring appearance before the Commissioners, the production of documentary evidence, and the giving of evidence, and any failure to obey such order of the court may be punished by such court as a contempt thereof. (Sept. 19, 1918, 40 Stat. 962, ch. 174, title I, § 10; Oct. 15, 1966, 80 Stat. 968, Pub. L. 89-864, § 1; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91-358, title I, § 155(a), 84 Stat. 570.)

Jurisdiction of court

District of Columbia Court of General Sessions, with a jurisdictional ceiling of $10,000 on actions for damages, did not have jurisdiction of action by District of Columbia against employer to recover $42,129.40 in wage claims assigned to it by employees assertedly aggrieved by failure of their employers to pay them compensation to which they were entitled under the District of Columbia Minimum Wage Act, notwithstanding claim that multiple claims should not be aggregated in determining jurisdictional amount where plaintiff is acting as assignee of claimants merely for purpose of collection, since the claims itemized were based on investigation of appropriate municipal agency and upon records retained by such agency, so that District government was much more than a nominal plaintiff. District of Columbia v. Diener's Linoleum and Tile Co., Inc. et ano. (D.C. App. 1971, 278 A. 2d 684).

District of Columbia Court of General Sessions, with a jurisdictional ceiling of $10,000 on actions for damages, did not have jurisdiction of action by District of Columbia government against employer to recover $12,-299.68 in wage claims assigned to it by employees assertedly aggrieved by failure of employers to pay them compensation to which they were entitled under the District of Columbia Minimum Wage Act, but since the total and unpaid minimum and overtime wages was only $6,149.84, a figure well below jurisdictional maximum, case would be remanded to allow determination of question whether inclusion of liquidated damages in complaint was justified and, if unjustified, to allow District government to cure jurisdictional defect on motion to amend complaint by striking liquidated damages item. Id.

SUBCHAPTER II.—INDUSTRIAL SAFETY

§ 36-432. Definitions.

When used in this subchapter, the following words shall have the following meanings, unless the context clearly requires otherwise:

(a) "Employer" includes every person, firm, corporation, partnership, stock association, agent, manager, representative, or foreman, or other persons having control or custody of any place of employment or of any employee. It shall not include the District of Columbia or any instrumentality thereof, or the United States or any instrumentality thereof.

(b) "Board" means the Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board.

(c) "Safe" and "safety" as applied to an employment, a device, or a place of employment, including facilities of sanitation and hygiene, mean such freedom from danger to life or health of employees as circumstances reasonably permit, and shall not be given restrictive interpretation so as to exclude any mitigation or prevention of a specific danger.

(d) "Place of employment" means any place where employment is carried on: Provided, however, That such term shall not include the premises of any Federal or District of Columbia establishment, except to include any and all work of whatever nature being performed by an independent contractor for the United States Government or any instrumentality thereof or the District of Columbia or any instrumentality thereof.

(Sept. 19, 1918, ch. 174, title II, § 2, as added Oct. 14, 1941, 55 Stat. 738, ch. 438, § 3; Jan. 5, 1971, Pub. L. 91-650, title V, § 501(1), 84 Stat. 1936.)

(B) by striking out in paragraph (d) "industrial".

The Board, in addition to its duties defined in subchapter I of this chapter shall administer the provisions of this subchapter and shall have power to make such inspections and investigations as it may deem necessary; collect and compile statistical information; require employers to keep their places of employment reasonably safe; require employers to keep such records as it may deem advisable and to furnish the Board with complete, detailed reports relative to all accidents; determine and fix reasonable standards of safety in employment, places of employment, in the use of devices and safeguards, and in the use of practices, means, methods, operations, and processes of employment; promulgate general rules and regulations based upon such standards and fix the minimum safety requirements which shall be complied with by employers within the purview of this subchapter. To promote the safety of persons employed in existing buildings or other existing structures, such rules, regulations, and standards may require without limitation, changes in the permanent or temporary features of such buildings or other structures. (Sept. 19, 1918, ch. 174, title II, § 3, as added Oct. 14, 1941, 55 Stat. 738, ch. 438, § 3; Jan. 5, 1971, Pub. L. 91-650, title V, § 501(2), 84 Stat. 1936.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Scienter

Since Congress used no words bearing on specific intent in penalty provision of this section governing industrial safety of wage earners, the government was not required to prove that excavation corporation, charged with violating District of Columbia construction safety regulations requiring self-propelled equipment to be equipped with reverse signal alarm and requiring overhead protection to be provided for operator when equipment is used when falling or flying objects are a hazard, knew of such violations. Hutchison Brothers Excavation Co., Inc. v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1971, 278 A. 2d 318).

Chapter 5.—WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION

§ 36-501. Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act made applicable to District of Columbia.

The provisions of chapter 18 of title 33, U.S. Code, including all amendments that may hereafter be made thereto, shall apply in respect to the injury or death of an employee of an employer carrying on any employment in the District of Columbia, irrespective of the place where the injury or death occurs; except that in applying such provisions the term “employer” shall be held to mean every person carrying on any employment in the District of Columbia, and the term “employee” shall be held to mean every employee of any such person. (May 17, 1928, 45 Stat. 600, ch. 612, § 1.)

CODIFICATION

This section is set out in this supplement to correct a typographical error in the 1967 edition of the code.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 36-438, 46-303.

Aggravation of illness

Aggravation of a pre-existing condition may constitute compensable accidental injury under Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act. M. R. Wheatley v. H. Adler, Deputy Commissioner, etc., et al. (1968, 407 F. 2d 307, 132 U.S. App. D.C. 177).

Award

Claimant who had lost use of right hand for all but lightest work, and who was permanently totally disabled, is not limited, under Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Act, to the scheduled award for loss of hand. American Mutual Insurance Company of Boston et ano. v. W. B. Jones (1970, 426 F. 2d 1263, 138 U.S. App. D.C. 239).

Basis for rejection of claim

The rejection of a workmen's compensation claim for the death of an employee occurring during the course of employment cannot be supported as matter of law unless record contains substantial evidence showing that the death did not arise out of employment. M. R. Wheatley v. H. Adler, Deputy Commissioner, etc., et al. (1968, 407 F. 2d 307, 132 U.S. App. D.C. 177).

Commissioner's finding of fact

The findings of a deputy commissioner in proceedings under the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Act must be accepted as true unless they are not supported by substantial evidence on the record considered as a whole and may be set aside only if not in accordance with law. A. E. Van Devander and W. L. Massey v. Heller Electric Co., Inc., et al. (1968, 405 F. 2d 1108, 132 U.S. App. D.C. 40).

Construction

The term “injury”, in section of Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act requiring a claim for compensation to be filed within one year after injury, encompasses physical harm of a kind that is unknown to the employee at time of accident but which is later revealed such as an occupational disease or a latent wound. G. E. Stancil v. W. L. Massey, Deputy Commissioner etc., et al. (1970, 436 F. 2d 274, 141 U.S. App. D.C. 120).

In order to bring a claimant within ambit of Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Act affording compensation for accidental injury or death arising out of and in course of employment there is a requirement that there be a continuity of cause, combined with continuity in time and space. A. E. Van Devander and W. L. Massey v. Heller Electric Co., Inc., et al. (1968, 405 F. 2d 1108, 132 U.S. App. D.C. 40).

Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act are required to be construed liberally in favor of employees and their dependents and it is in their favor that doubts, including the factual, are to be resolved. M. R. Wheatley v. H. Adler, Deputy Commissioner, etc., et al. (1968, 407 F. 2d 307, 132 U.S. App. D.C. 177).

Administrative findings in workmen's compensation case will not be sustained merely because they are substantiated by some isolated evidence and court's review must take account of settled rule that Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act is to be construed with view to its beneficent purposes. Id.

Contribution

Where two alleged employers of claimant, insurer of first alleged employer, and claimant were parties in compensation proceeding, and Bureau of Employees' Compensation determined that employers were jointly and severally liable, and insurer of first paid total amount of compensation and brought action against second for contribution, determination of Bureau that employers were joint employers is res judicata in subsequent action for contribution. Merchants Mutual Insurance Company v. M. E. Richardson (D.C. App. 1971, 273 F. 2d 652).

Since neither first alleged employer of claimant nor insured of first alleged employer intervened in action by second alleged employer to vacate portion of compensation order of Bureau adverse to second, the order is pertinent to motion presented in court to compel contribution by alleged second employer, not as res judicata, but to show that joint obligation established by administrative award is no longer vulnerable to judicial overturn. Id.

Where Bureau rendered an order directing two alleged employers jointly and severally to pay compensation award to claimant, but insurer of first alleged employer paid entire award, insurer is entitled to contribution of one-half from second alleged employer. Id.

Contribution to a tort-feasor

Defendant, who is sued, for negligence, by subcontractor's employee who had received workmen's compensation, has no claim against subcontractor for credit against possible verdict adverse to such moving defendant, on ground that employee's injuries were caused in whole or in part by subcontractor-employer's negligence. G. Turner et al. v. Excavation Construction, Inc., et al. (1971, 324 F. Supp. 704).

Private employers in District of Columbia whose employees are within protection of the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act may not be compelled to contribute to a tort-feasor held liable to the employee. J. S. Murray v. United States (1968, 405 F. 2d 1361, 132 U.S. App. D.C. 91).

Course of employment

Accidents and death occurring while an employee is on his way to or from toilet facilities or while he is engaged in relieving himself, generally arise within course of employment for workmen's compensation purposes, subject to possible question of reasonableness of means or place chosen. M. R. Wheatley v. H. Adler, Deputy Commissioner etc., et al. (1968, 407 F. 2d 307, 132 U.S. App. D.C. 177).

Evidence—Sufficiency

Evidence, consisting of doctor's statement that claimant could "probably" perform "suitable employment," does not support finding of Deputy Commissioner of Department of Labor that claimant, who was of limited intelligence, and who, due to fractures of right arm, lost use of right hand for all but lightest work, is not permanently totally disabled under Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Act. American Mutual Insurance Company of Boston et ano. v. W. B. Jones (1970, 426 F. 2d 1263, 138 U.S. App. D.C. 269).

There was sufficient evidence to support the findings of deputy commissioner, in proceedings under Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Act, that injuries suffered by claimant when he fell asleep from fatigue while driving home after work were attributable to claimant's lack of sleep due to unusually long hours of work installing heavy electrical equipment and that such injuries arose out of and in the course of his employment. A. E. Van Devander and W. L. Massey v. Heller Electric Co., Inc., et al. (1968, 405 F. 2d 1108, 132 U.S. App. D.C. 40).

Exposure to hazards

It does not matter, for purposes of workmen's compensation award, that decedent employee was exposed to no more than ordinary hazards of working and living at the time he sustained fatal heart attack or that same kind of injury might have occurred wherever he might have been. M. R. Wheatley v. H. Adler, Deputy Commissioner etc., et al. (1968, 407 F. 2d 307, 132 U.S. App. D.C. 177).

Extent of stress required

Unusual stress is not required for an award for injury sustained by an employee during the course of his employment and award should be granted so long as death or injury results from activity in course of his employment. M. R. Wheatley v. H. Adler, Deputy Commissioner etc., et al. (1968, 407 F. 2d 307, 132 U.S. App. D.C. 177).

Partial disability

The degree of disability, under Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Act, cannot be measured by physical condition alone, but the claimant's age, his industrial history, and the availability of that type of work which he can do must be considered. American Mutual Insurance Company of Boston et ano. v. W. B. Jones (1970, 426 F. 2d 1263, 137 U.S. App. D.C. 269).

Parties

Under rule providing that every action shall be prosecuted in name of the real party in interest, employer's compensation insurance carrier, that paid workmen's compensation benefits to injured employee without an award, is not a "real party in interest" in employee's suit against third-party tort-feasor and need not be joined. F. C. Joyner v. F & B Enterprises, Inc. (1971, 448 F. 2d 1185, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

Payment of retirement and compensation benefits

Retirement benefits under pension system were payable over and above compensation awarded under Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, where Act made invalid any agreement requiring employee to contribute to a fund for providing compensation or to waive his right to compensation, and pension plan provided that allowances were in addition to workmen's compensation benefits. W. Massey and W. G. White v. D.C. Transit System, Inc. (1967, 388 F. 2d 584, 128 U.S. App. D.C. 328).

Presumption

The fact that injury or death occurs in course of employment strengthens presumption that it arises out of employment, with doubts resolved in claimant's favor. M. R. Wheatley v. H. Adler, Deputy Commissioner, etc., et al. (1968, 407 F. 2d 307, 132 U.S. App. D.C. 177).

Previous disability

Mental deficiency of the claimant, whose intelligence quotient on Wechsler-Bellvue scale was measured at 69, whose disability due to that deficiency was not shown to have been "manifest," and who as result of the mental deficiency and loss of use of right hand was permanently totally disabled, was not "previous disability" within Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Act provision to effect that if employee receives injury, which of itself is only cause of permanent partial disability but which, combined with previous disability, does in fact cause permanent total disability, employer is required to provide compensation only for disability caused by subsequent injury. American Mutual Insurance Company of Boston et ano. v. W. B. Jones (1970, 426 F. 2d 1263, 138 U.S. App. D.C. 269).

It is immaterial, under Act provision to effect that if employee receives injury, which of itself would only cause permanent partial disability but which, combined with previous disability, does in fact cause permanent total disability, employer is required to provide compensation only for disability caused by subsequent injury, whether disability is result of previous work-connected injury, injury not connected with employment, congenital defect, or perhaps even disability resulting from social and economic causes. Id.

Purpose of Act provision to effect that if employee receives injury, which of itself would only cause permanent partial disability but which, combined with previous disability, does in fact cause permanent total disability, employer is required to provide compensation only for disability caused by subsequent injury is to remove that aspect of discrimination against disabled that would otherwise be encouraged by the Act. Id.

Rebuttal of presumption

Testimony of employer's doctors, neither of whom had ever seen the decedent, neither of whom had any personal knowledge of his work, and who, in response to a hypothetical set of facts that told them only that the decedent was performing a usual laboring job when he collapsed, opined that there was a reasonable medical probability that death was not work-related, did not constitute substantial evidence to dispel presumption that claim by widow of the decedent, who, shortly before he died of a cerebral vascular accident, had picked up masonry blocks weighing approximately 25 pounds in each hand and carried them a distance of about 25 feet, came within provisions of the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act. W. M. Mitchell etc. v. E. D. Woodworth, Deputy Commissioner, etc., et al. (1971, 449 F. 2d 1097, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

The evidence did not dispel the statutory presumption that an employee, who was shown by autopsy report to have been suffering from marked arteriosclerotic heart disease, whose death resulted from myocardial insufficiency and who collapsed after urinating outside employer's building in cold weather, came within provisions of Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act. M. R. Wheatley v. H. Adler, Deputy Commissioner, etc., et al. (1968, 407 F. 2d 307, 132 U.S. App. D.C. 177).

Record on appeal

Record in this case did not adequately present question whether consent judgment awarding petitioner damages against third person evidenced a "compromise" subject to provision of Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act governing compensation for injuries where third persons are liable, or an award of damages

"determined * * * by the independent evaluation of a trial judge," not subject to Act, and writ of certiorari, granted petitioner following affirmance of summary judgment in favor of employer and insurance carrier in review proceeding, would be dismissed as improvidently granted. A. McClanahan v. Morauer & Hartzell, Inc. (1971, 92 S. Ct. 170, 404, U.S. 16).

Rights of carrier

Where compensation benefits are paid without an award, and the employee commences a third-party action, the employer's workman's compensation carrier's only remaining substantive right is to be compensated out of employer's recovery. F. C. Joyner v. F & B Enterprises, Inc. (1971, 448 F. 2d 1185, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

Third party compromise

Under provision of Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act governing compensation for injuries where third persons are liable, an employer is not obligated to pay compensation to an employee who, without employer's written approval, settles a claim against a third person for an amount less than the compensation to which employee is entitled under the Act. A. McClanahan v. Morauer & Hartzell, Inc. (1971, 92 S. Ct. 170, 404 U.S. 16).

Consent judgment, which the claimant obtained against third-party tort-feasor, which was not result of judge's independent finding of value of claim after full presentation of evidence, but was at most informal exploratory attempt to determine possibilities for private settlement, the suggested figure of which claimant was free to reject, could not be considered a judicial determination, but rather was a "compromise" within section of Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act providing that if a compromise is made with a third person by claimant in an amount less than compensation to which claimant would be entitled, the employer would be liable for compensation only if compromise was made with his written approval, and thus in view of fact that no written consent to compromise was secured from employer, claimant's subsequent claim for additional compensation is barred. Morauer & Hartzell, Inc., et al. v. E. D. Woodworth, Deputy Commissioner etc. (1970, 439 F. 2d 550, 142 U.S. App. D.C. 40; cert. granted 91 S. Ct. 2196, 402 U.S. 1008; cert. dismissed 92 S. Ct. 170, 404 U.S. 16).

Time for filing claim

In enacting the section of the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act requiring a claim for compensation to be filed within one year after the injury, Congress did not wish to penalize an employee who reasonably does not know that he has suffered harm that will, or may well, reduce his earning capacity. G. E. Stancil v. W. L. Massey, Deputy Commissioner etc. et al. (1970, 436 F. 2d 274, 141 U.S. App. D.C. 120).

Where in January 1959 employee sustained back injury, shortly after accident employee was examined by a physician designated and paid by employer's workmen's compensation carrier and his condition was diagnosed as a mild back strain, employee was treated for his condition until May 1959 at which time he was discharged and informed that he had no further disability, employee thereafter suffered recurring back pains and was admitted to a hospital in 1962 for new treatment, and surgery performed in December of that year revealed that he was suffering from herniated or ruptured discs caused by 1959 accident, his claim for compensation under Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, filed on June 20, 1963, was timely filed. Id.

Total disability

Even relatively minor injury must lead to finding of total disability under Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Act if that injury prevents the employee from engaging in only type of gainful employment for which he is qualified. American Mutual Insurance Company of Boston et al. v. W. B. Jones (1970, 426 F. 2d 1263, 138 U.S. App. D.C. 269).

Visible injury

An accidental injury may occur, within workmen's compensation law notwithstanding the injured employee has been engaged in his usual and ordinary activity and injury need not be external but it is enough if something unexpectedly goes wrong within the human frame. M. R. Wheatley v. H. Adler, Deputy Commissioner etc., et al. (1968, 407 F. 2d 307, 132 U.S. App. D.C. 177).

TITLE 38.—LIENS

Chapter 1.—MECHANICS, MATERIALMEN, AND CONTRACTORS

§ 38-101. Mechanic's lien.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Agreement not to claim lien

Where plasterer subcontractor finished the job and wrote letters to the building owner and to supplier of materials stating the balance due on subcontract and a willingness to refrain from filing a mechanic's lien against the property if owner and material supplier would acknowledge that they would protect subcontractor, and owner and supplier signed requested acknowledgements, there was a meeting of the minds, consideration for such agreement, and breach of agreement imposes on owner and supplier liability for loss flowing from subcontractor's forbearance. Kidwell & Kidwell, Inc. v. W. T. Galliher & Bro., Inc. et ano. (D.C. App. 1971, 282 A. 2d 575).

§ 38-103. Subcontractor.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Agreement not to claim lien

Where plasterer subcontractor finished the job and wrote letters to the building owner and to supplier of materials stating the balance due on subcontract and a willingness to refrain from filing a mechanic's lien against the property if the owner and material supplier would acknowledge that they would protect subcontractor, and owner and supplier signed requested acknowledgements, there was a meeting of the minds, consideration for such agreement, and breach of agreement imposes on owner and supplier liability for loss flowing from subcontractor's forbearance *Kidwell & Kidwell, Inc. v. #### § 38-104. Conditions.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 38-103.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Owners liability to subcontractor

Where 23% of each progress report certified by architect was chargeable against down payment and note to be delivered and to begin to be due when warehouse construction work was completed and lender paid remaining 77% of amounts shown on the first ten of eleven certified progress requisitions and where owners terminated the contract, the down payment and note at least negated further obligations of owners in those amounts, and owners thus owed general contractor nothing when subcontractors filed mechanics' liens, after termination of contract, pursuant to District of Columbia statute providing in effect that if owner owes general contractor nothing subcontractors can collect nothing by mechanics' liens. Washington Concrete Sales Corporation, Inc., and R. L. Walutes etc. v. A. E. Morrisette et al. (1966, 377 F. 2d 137, 126 U.S. App. D.C. 252).

Evidence supported finding that owners, sued by subcontractors for enforcement of mechanics' liens filed under District of Columbia statute providing in effect that if owner owes general contractor nothing subcontractors can collect nothing, had completed building at cost higher than original contract price after terminating the contract. Id.

L. Walutes etc. v. A. E. Morrisette et al.* (1966, 377 F. 2d 137, 126 U.S. App. D.C. 252).

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 38-103.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Mechanics lien

The relation back preference of mechanic's lien does not affect the priority of a recorded purchase-money deed of trust, a priority that exceeds even that of a previous judgment. Guardian Federal Savings & Loan Association v. H. P. Suskind (D.C. App. 1970, 265 A. 2d 295).

Priority to surplus on foreclosure

In this case, the court held that the holder of purchase-money deed of trust (containing provision that it should be subordinate to any construction loan and all advances made under construction loan) is entitled, on foreclosure of first deed of trust held by construction lender, to priority with respect to surplus remaining after satisfaction of construction lender's debt and payment of foreclosure expenses, notwithstanding construction lender's claim to surplus to satisfy mechanic's lien it had paid against property. Guardian Federal Savings & Loan Association v. H. P. Suskind (D.C. App. 1970, 265 A. 2d 295).

If the amount due and for which a lien is given by section 38-124 is not paid after the end of a month after the same is due, and the property bound by said lien does not exceed the sum of fifty dollars, then the party entitled to such lien, after demand of payment upon the debtor, if he be within the District, may proceed to sell the property so subject to lien at public auction, after giving notice once a week for three successive weeks in some daily newspaper published in the District, and the proceeds of such sale shall be applied, first, to the expenses of such sales and the discharge of such lien, and the remainder, if any, shall be paid over to the owner of the property. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1388, ch. 854, § 1263; redesignated § 1261 and amended Dec. 8, 1970, Pub. L. 91-537, § 4(a), 84 Stat. 1397.)

AMENDMENT

1970—Section 4(a) of act Dec. 8, 1970, Pub. L. 91-537, redesignated section 1263 of the act of Mar. 3, 1901, as section “1261”; and struck out of the section redesignated as section 1261 the words “by any of the last three sections” and inserted in lieu thereof “by section 1260 [§ 38-124]”.

§ 38-126. Enforcement by bill in equity.

If the value of the property so subject to lien shall exceed the sum of fifty dollars, the proceeding to enforce such lien shall be by bill or petition in equity, and the decree, which shall be rendered according to the due course of proceedings in equity, besides subjecting the thing upon which the lien was attached to sale for the satisfaction of the plaintiff's demand, shall adjudge that the plaintiff recover his demand against the defendant from whom such claim is due, and may have execution therefor as at law. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1388, ch. 854, § 1264; redesignated § 1262 Dec. 8, 1970, Pub. L. 91-537, § 4(a)(1), 84 Stat. 1397.)

AMENDMENT

1970—Section 4(a)(1) of act Dec. 8, 1970, Pub. L. 91-537, redesignated section 1264 of the act of Mar. 3, 1901, as section “1262”.

Sections, act Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1388, ch. 854, §§ 1263 and 1264 (as applicable to § 1262), provided for enforcement of the lien of garage keepers and liverymen by sale and by bill in equity. The amendment made by sec-

The National Defense Act of June 3, 1916, was in turn repealed by act Aug. 10, 1956, 70A Stat. 641, ch. 1041, § 53 (this act enacted into law many of its provisions) and it is now covered by titles 10 and 32 of the U.S. Code. See tables in the U.S. Code.

§§ 39-109, 39-110. Repealed. Aug. 10, 1956, 70A Stat. 641, ch. 1041, § 53.

§ 39-111. Disbanding companies below minimum strength.

CODIFICATION

In first sentence, words "with the consent of the President," were inserted after "the commanding general may" on authority of a proviso in § 68 of act June 3, 1916, cited as one of the sources of this section, which read: "Provided, That no organization of the National Guard, members of which shall be entitled to and shall have received compensation under the provisions of this act, shall be disbanded without the consent of the President, nor, without such consent, shall the commissioned or enlisted strength of any such organization be reduced below the minimum that shall be prescribed therefor by the President." Section 68 was repealed in its entirety by act Aug. 10, 1956, 70A Stat. 641, ch. 1041, § 53, and, including the quoted proviso, is now covered by 32 U.S.C. § 104. See, particularly, subsec. (f) thereof.

Section 14 of act Mar. 1, 1889, 25 Stat. 774, ch. 328, fixed the minimum number of enlisted men in any company at forty. That section was repealed by act Feb. 18, 1909, 35 Stat. 630, ch. 146. It was considered that § 11 of act Mar. 1, 1889, 25 Stat. 774, as amended by act Feb. 18, 1909, 35 Stat. 629, which related to composition of the National Guard, was intended to supersede repealed § 14, but § 11 was later superseded by § 60 of act June 3, 1916, 39 Stat. 197, ch. 134 (National Defense Act). The latter, however, which was formerly classified to § 39-107 and to 32 U.S.C. former § 5, has been repealed and is now covered by 32 U.S.C. § 104. See note under former § 39-107.

Chapter 2.—COMMISSIONED OFFICERS

§ 39-201. Commanding general—Appointment and removal—Rank.

(a) There shall be appointed and commissioned by the President of the United States a commanding general of the militia of the District of Columbia with the rank of brigadier-general, or major general, who shall hold office until his successor is appointed and qualified, but may be removed at any time by the President.

(b) Except as provided in subsection (c), any person serving as the commanding general of the militia of the District of Columbia shall be considered to be an employee of the Department of Defense, and of the United States, within the meaning of section 2105 of title 5, United States Code.

(c) Any officer of the Armed Forces of the United States who, while serving on active duty, is detailed to serve as commanding general of the militia of the District of Columbia shall, while so detailed, be entitled to receive only the pay and allowances to which he is entitled as an officer of the Armed Forces. (Mar. 1, 1889, 25 Stat. 773, ch. 328, § 7; Sept. 2, 1957, 71 Stat. 596, Pub. L. 85-270, § 1; June 30, 1970, Pub. L. 91-297, title V, § 501(a), 84 Stat. 366.)

CODIFICATION

Act Feb. 18, 1909, 35 Stat. 629, ch. 146, amended act Mar. 1, 1889, 25 Stat. 772, ch. 328. Some of the sections of the 1889 act were repealed, some amended, and others were entirely new sections added by the act of 1909. In the history lines of this chapter, the section number of the 1889 act refers to the section of the original act as it appears in 25 Stat. 772 et seq. The section number in the 1909 act in the history line refers to the section of the 1889 act as amended by later act and shows the new number and wording of the section as it is found in 35 Stat. 629 et seq.

AMENDMENTS

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

Section 501(c) of Pub. L. 91-297 provided: "The amendment made by this section [to sec. 39-201] shall take effect on the first day of the first pay period beginning on or after the date of enactment of this title [June 30, 1970]."

§ 39-202. Staff officers—Appointment and removal—Noncommissioned staff.

CODIFICATION

As enacted by the act of Mar. 1, 1889, this section, after "President" at end of first sentence, contained the additional words: ", and hold office until their successors are appointed and qualified, but may be removed at any time by the President"; and, after "adjutant-general," near beginning of second sentence, contained the words: "with the rank of lieutenant colonel." These words were omitted from this section because apparently affected by a proviso in § 66 of act June 3, 1916, cited as one of the sources hereof, which read: "Provided, That the adjutants general of the Territories and of the District of Columbia shall be appointed by the President with such rank and qualifications as he may prescribe, and each adjutant general for a Territory shall be a citizen of the Territory for which he is appointed.", and which was classified to 32 U.S.C. former § 12. § 66 of act June 3, 1916 was repealed in its entirety by act Aug. 10, 1956, 70A Stat. 641, ch. 1041, § 53, and is now covered by 32 U.S.C. § 314. See, particularly, subsec. (b) thereof.

§ 39-203. Qualifications of staff officers—Tenure—Vacancies.

CODIFICATION

The paragraph of act July 11, 1919, 41 Stat. 127, ch. 8, classified to this section, contained an introductory clause as follows: "That to comply with the provisions of section 110, of the act entitled 'An Act for making further and more effectual provision for the national defense, and for other purposes,' approved June 3, 1916 [39 Stat. 209, ch. 134], it is hereby provided that staff officers" [etc.]. § 110 of act June 3, 1916, was repealed by act Aug. 10, 1956, 70A Stat. 641, ch. 1041, § 53, and is now covered by 32 U.S.C. §§ 303, 322, 323, 710; see, also, 31 U.S.C. § 698a, and 37 U.S.C. §§ 201, 203, 204, 206, 402, 414-417, 301, 309, 1002.

§ 39-205. Omitted.

CODIFICATION

Section, as enacted by act June 6, 1900, 31 Stat. 671, ch. 811, which was also classified to 10 U.S.C. former § 998, provided that the "President of the United States may detail as adjutant-general of the District of Columbia Militia any retired officer of the Army who may be nominated to the President by the brigadier-general commanding the District of Columbia Militia, said retired officer while so detailed to have the active service pay and allowances of his rank in the Regular Army." Although it was amended by act Sept. 2, 1957, 71 Stat. 596, Pub. L. 85-270, § 2, to substitute "commanding general of" for "brigadier-general commanding", it previously had been repealed by act Aug. 10, 1956, 70A Stat. 641, ch. 1041, § 53, having since been covered by 32 U.S.C. § 314(c), which also uses the term "commanding general", rather than the prior term "brigadier-general". As it is considered that the amendment of this repealed section by act Sept. 2, 1957, was an oversight, and that in any event this section is now covered by 32 U.S.C. § 314(c), this section is omitted from this Code.

This section is referred to in section 25-127, 40-303.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Arrest

Actions of police officers in stopping automobile driven by defendant, who had prior narcotics offender record, to check whether he had valid driver's permit was authorized as routine police traffic investigation, and did not constitute an arrest. J. D. Williams v. United States (D.C. App. 1970, 263 A. 2d 659).

Jurisdiction

Jurisdiction of the Court of General Sessions extended to prosecution for carrying a dangerous weapon, possessing a prohibited weapon and driving a motor vehicle without an operator's license, notwithstanding contention that the trial court had jurisdiction only over offenses punishable by fine or imprisonment and that the offenses charged carried penalties of a fine, imprisonment, or both. W. P. Martin v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 283 A. 2d 448).

"Operating" defined

A person found sitting behind the steering wheel of an automobile at the point of collision with another vehicle is "operating" such vehicle within this section requiring every person who operates a motor vehicle to have an operator's permit in his possession. H. I. Taylor v. United States (D.C. App. 1969, 259 A. 2d 835).

Arresting officer who arrived at the scene of accident and observed defendant sitting behind steering wheel of an automobile which had collided with rear-end of a tractor-trailer, and where defendant was unable to produce an operator's permit, arrest of defendant was justified and pistol discovered on defendant's person in routine weapons check was admissible as incident to a lawful arrest. Id.

Restricted license

Driver whose operator's license was subject to restriction that he wear glasses and who operated automobile without glasses was guilty of operating automobile contrary to restricted license notwithstanding his own medical examination showing such glasses were no longer necessary. B. Reis v. District of Columbia (D.C., App. 1967, 230 A. 2d 487).

§ 40-302. Revocation or suspension of operators' permits—Procedure—New permit after revocation—Nonresidents—Penalty.

(a) Except where for any violation of this chapter revocation of the operator's permit is mandatory, the Commissioners or their designated agent may with or without a prior hearing revoke or suspend an operator's permit for any cause which they or their agent may deem sufficient: Provided, That in each case where a permit is revoked or suspended the reasons therefor shall be set out in the order of revocation or suspension: Provided further, That such order shall take effect five days after its issuance unless the holder of the permit shall have filed within such period, written application with the Commissioners of the District of Columbia for a review of their order or the order of their agent, and, if upon such review, the Commissioners shall sustain such order, the same shall become effective immediately: Provided further, That application to said Commissioners for a review shall not operate as a stay of such order of the commissioners or their agent when the order has been issued revoking or suspending a permit on account of mental or physical incapacity, for driving under the influence of liquor or narcotic drugs; for manslaughter when an automobile is involved, or for operating a motor vehicle equipped with a smoke screen.

An individual whose permit is denied, suspended, or revoked by the commissioners or their agent may, if application for a review by the commissioners of an order for revocation or suspension is not filed, or if an application for review by them is filed, after the commissioners' decision on the review, petition the District of Columbia Court of Appeals for a review of the order or decision in the manner provided by the District of Columbia Administrative Procedure Act (D.C. Code, secs. 1-1501 to 1-1510).

(As amended July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91-358, title I, § 163(g) (1), 84 Stat. 583.)

AMENDMENT

1970—Section 163(g) (1) of Act July 29, 1970, Public Law 91-358 amended subsection (a) by striking out "sections 11-742, 17-303, 17-304, 17-305(b), 17-306 and 17-307 of the District of Columbia Code" and inserting in lieu thereof "the District of Columbia Administrative Procedure Act (D.C. Code, secs. 1-1501 to 1-1510)".

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 25-127, 40-205, 40-603, 40-612.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Administrative action

Mere fact that proof tended to reveal at a suspension hearing before permit control officer of District of Columbia Department of Motor Vehicles that 17-year-old driver, whose license was suspended, was driving while under influence of alcohol did not thereby convert the proceedings, administrative in character, into a judicial proceeding of the kind Congress assigned exclusively to juvenile court. K. P. Murphy, a minor etc. v. W. D. Heath, Director, etc. (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A. 2d 421).

The court held that the exclusive jurisdiction in judicial proceedings conferred by Juvenile Court Act on the juvenile court is not a jurisdictional bar to the Id. administrative action of suspending motor vehicle operator's permit of 17-year-old driver.

Construction

Statute which permits the revocation or suspension of an operator's permit for any cause deemed sufficient was properly interpreted as permitting such revocation or suspension only for violations of usual and reasonable traffic regulations and, so construed, did not unconstitutionally delegate legislative authority. W. R. Franklin v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1968, 248 A. 2d 677).

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA COUNCIL

Section 402(294) of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred the regulatory and other functions of the Board of Commissioners, under this section with respect to making rules and regulations, to the District of Columbia Council, subject to the right of the Commissioner as provided by section 406 of the Plan. For provisions establishing the District of Columbia Council, see section 201 of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1.

§ 40-420. Review by Commissioners.

Any order or act of any agent of the Commissioners under the provisions of this chapter shall be subject to review by the Commissioners. Application for review of any such order or act shall be in writing and shall set out in detail the reasons for such review. Such application shall be filed with the Commissioners within five days after the issuance of the order or occurrence of the act in question. If upon review the Commissioners shall sustain such order or act, the same shall become effective immediately.

Any person whose license or motor-vehicle registration shall be denied, suspended, or revoked by the Commissioners under the provisions of this chapter may, within thirty days after such denial, revocation, or suspension has been reviewed by the Commissioners and sustained by them, file in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals an application for the allowance of an appeal from the order or decision of the Commissioners. Appeal shall be as provided in the District of Columbia Administrative Procedure Act (D.C. Code, secs. 1-1501 to 1-1510).

For the purposes of this section, the phrase "review by the Commissioners" shall mean a review by the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia or a review by any board of review established by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to review the order or act of any agent of the Commissioners pursuant to the provisions of this chapter. No member of such board of review established by the Commissioners shall review any of his own orders or acts. (May 25, 1954, 68 Stat. 122, ch. 222, § 4; Aug. 28, 1958, 72 Stat. 954, Pub. L. 85-792, § 3; July 8, 1963, 77 Stat. 78, Pub. L. 88-60, § 6; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91-358, § 163(h), title I, 84 Stat. 583.)

For provisions of stricken matter see 1967 edition of the code.

1958—Act Aug. 28, 1958, struck the second sentence providing for filing of application of review with commissioners within five days after issuance of order or occurrence complained of, and added the new matter set out as the second and third sentences of the section.

said Board of Commissioners may be delegated by said Board of Commissioners in accordance with section 3 of such plan."

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 40-493.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Construction

In authorizing substituted service on nonresident motorists, in derogation of the common law, Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility Act affects substantial rights and must therefore be strictly construed and strictly complied with. R. J. Heinrich v. R. S. Huke (D.C. App. 1968, 244 A. 2d 915).

Delay in delivery of summons and complaint to Marshal

Failure of plaintiff to deliver summonses and copies of complaint to the United States Marshal until 18 days after period of limitations had run was not excusable because of fact that two of corporate defendants were not residents of the District of Columbia and could not be sued and would not be served until plaintiff first filed traffic act bond required by D.C. Code. Criterion Insurance Company, etc. v. W. L. Lyles, et al. (D.C. App. 1968, 244 A. 2d 913).

Delay in mailing summons and complaint

Although copies of summons and complaint were served upon Director of Motor Vehicles in action arising out of motor vehicle collision in District of Columbia with nonresident motorist, mailing summons and complaint to nonresident motorist seven months after statute of limitations had run constituted failure to comply with statutory requirement that notice of such service and copy of process be sent "forthwith" by registered mail. R. J. Heinrich v. R. S. Huke (D.C. App. 1968, 244 A. 2d 915).

Filing of return receipt

Filing of return receipt is not an integral part of the District of Columbia Motor Safety Responsibility Act which authorizes substituted service on nonresident motorist since jurisdiction attaches when service is made on the Director of Motor Vehicles and the nonresident receives copies of the process and notice of service. M. L. Harper v. E. W. Catherton, Jr. (D.C. App. 1969, 255 A. 2d 492).

Place of service of notice

Although defendant was a resident of Maryland at the time service was purported to have been made under the District of Columbia Motor Safety Responsibility Act that fact did not render notice to the defendant in Virginia at his place of work ineffective, as the statute requires that notice of such service be sent to defendant, not to him at his residence. M. L. Harper v. E. W. Catherton, Jr. (D.C. App. 1969, 255 A. 2d 492).

Notice is essential to the court's jurisdiction. Id.

Proof of service of notice

Since there was no conclusive proof one way or the other that nonresident motorist actually received notice of service, purported to have been made under the District of Columbia Motor Safety Responsibility Act, it was not error to vacate default judgement previously entered against motorist. M. L. Harper v. E. W. Catherton, Jr. (D.C. App. 1969, 255 A. 2d 492).

§ 40-424. Operator deemed to be agent of owner.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 40-493.

Action against owner of vehicle

The fact that D.C. Employees Non-Liability Act barred an action by a passenger-schoolteacher against a driver-schoolteacher did not preclude an action by passenger-schoolteacher against the owner of the vehicle. F. P. Davis et ano. v. P. O. Harrod et ano. (1969, 407 F. 2d 1280, 132 U.S. App. D.C. 345).

Common law presumption

As to an area which is not covered by District of Columbia Financial Responsibility Law, plaintiff was entitled to common-law presumption. F. O. Gaither v. C. R. Myers et ano. (1968, 404 F. 2d 216, 131 U.S. App. D.C. 216, see also 232 A. 2d 577).

Consent

The "consent" which is contemplated by a statute creating a presumption that motor vehicle was being operated with the consent of the owner is an informed consent, based on knowledge, not clouded by mistake or misrepresentation, or produced by error of fact. J. A. McClellan v. Allstate Insurance Company etc., et al. (D.C. App. 1968, 247 A. 2d 58).

A presumption that a motor vehicle involved in an accident was being operated with the consent of owner is a rebuttable one and continues only until overcome by uncontradicted proof sufficient to destroy the inference. Id.

Evidence overcoming presumption

Statutory presumption that owner has consented to operator's use of his vehicle is rebuttable by uncontradicted and manifestly credible testimony to contrary, and though such uncontradicted proof entitles the owner to a directed verdict as matter of law in an action against him as result of operation of his vehicle, trier of fact must assume the usual role of resolving any conflict presented if evidence is not so convincing or positive. T. W. Alsbrooks v. Washington Deliveries, Inc. (D.C. App. 1971, 281 A. 2d 220).

In action for personal injuries and property damage arising out of motor vehicle collision, statutory presumption that owner had consented to the operator's use of truck involved in accident was not in this case fully overcome as matter of law, precluding direction of verdict for owner. Id.

Statutory presumption that proof of ownership of motor vehicle shall be prima facie evidence that motor vehicle was being operated with consent of owner may be overcome by uncontradicted denial by the owner, and in such a case a directed verdict for owner is proper. C. R. Meyers et ano. v. F. O. Gaither (D.C. App. 1967, 232 A. 2d 577; remanded 404 F. 2d 216).

Evidence that automobile of defendant was involved in accident in Maryland about 11:30 p.m., that it was not until about 3:30 a.m., after repeated telephone calls, that police succeeded in contacting owner, and testimony of owner that he had been at his home all evening made question for jury whether automobile was being operated by owner or with owner's consent. Id.

Extra territorial effect

The District of Columbia Financial Responsibility Law was inapplicable where at the time of injury the automobile was being operated in Maryland. F. O. Gaither v. C. R. Myers et ano. (1968, 404 F. 2d 216, 131 U.S. App. D.C. 216, see also 232 A. 2d 577).

Application of evidentiary clause of District of Columbia statute that proof of ownership of automobile shall be prima facie evidence that automobile was operated with consent of owner to trial of cause of action arising from operation of automobile in Maryland did not give statute extra-territorial effect. C. R. Meyers et ano. v. F. O. Gaither (D.C. App. 1967, 232 A. 2d 577; remanded 404 F. 2d 216).

Issue of permission to use automobile

Evidence on the issue of whether defendant automobile owner consented to use of her automobile by defendant driver, who was an employee of corporation of which owner was a major stockholder, and who had used owner's automobile on other occasions, and with whom owner left her keys and note about certain errands, was for the jury in action for damages sustained by plaintiffs in collision with that automobile. M. Williams v. M. Baines and F. Baines (D.C. App. 1969, 257 A. 2d 762).

"Owners" and "ownership"

Where registered owner of automobile who was automobile operator's mother had no right to prevent operator's use of automobile but rather took title to automobile merely to accommodate operator, with whom financing bank declined to deal directly because of his minority, and payments on automobile were made by operator out of his own earnings, operator rather than registered owner is the "owner" of the automobile within the Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility Act and the registered owner is not liable for operator's negligence. E. F. Spindle et ano. v. P. Reid (D.C. App. 1971, 277 A. 2d 117).

Registration of legal title to an automobile in one's name is not conclusive as to ownership within the Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility Act. Id.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Constitutionality

The plaintiff's claim of unconstitutionality of this section, requiring suspension of drivers' licenses and automobile registrations for persons who are involved in automobile accident causing more than $100 damages and are either uninsured, unable to post security, or unable to obtain release from other parties involved, was so insubstantial as not to require the convening of a three-judge federal court. J. F. Cheek et al. v. W. E. Washington, et al. (1970, 311 F. Supp. 965).

Congress has reposed issuance and retraction of driver's licenses within the discretion of the Commissioners and it may surround this grant with reasonable requisites and contingencies. Id.

Judicial review

Where plaintiff was notified that his driver's permit and registration were subject to suspension under this section, plaintiff appealed action to board of appeals and review of Department of Motor Vehicles which upheld order of suspension, plaintiff's avenue of further relief was by petition for review in District of Columbia Court of Appeals and not in District Court. J. F. Cheek v. W. E. Washington et al. (1971, 333 F. Supp. 481).

§ 40-438. Release from liability.

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER

§ 40-603. Commissioners authorized to make regulations—Department of Vehicles and Traffic—Director—Congressional tags—Titling—Joint board—Arterial and boulevard highways—Commissioners may prescribe penalties—Publication of regulations—Signs on highways—Prosecutions—Excise tax imposed for issuance of motor vehicle title certificates—Impoundment of motor vehicle for outstanding traffic violation notices.

(a) The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are authorized and empowered to make, modify, repeal, and enforce usual and reasonable traffic rules and regulations relating to vehicles, and rules and regulations concerning the control of traffic, the registration of motor vehicles, and the issuance, suspension, and revocation of operators' permits and the suspension and revocation of operating privileges, including rules and regulations assessing reasonable fees to reimburse the District for the cost of restoring suspended or revoked operators' permits and privileges, such fees not to exceed the amount of $10 per restoration and to exercise any power or perform any duty imposed on the director of traffic, which office is hereby abolished; and in the administration of the above powers and authority the commissioners may exercise the same through such officers or agents of the District as the commissioners may designate: Provided, That no member of the Metropolitan Police Department may be empowered to perform any function under this chapter other than in the enforcement thereof.

(c) The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are authorized and empowered to make, modify, and enforce reasonable regulations in respect to brakes, horns, lights, mufflers, and other equipment, the inspection of the same; the registering, reregistering, titling, retitling, transferring of titles, and revocation of the certificate of title to motor vehicles and trailers: Provided, That congressional tags shall be issued by the commissioners under consecutive numbers, one to each Senator and Representative in Congress, to the elective officers and disbursing clerks of the Senate and the House of Representatives, Comptroller of the Senate, the chief clerk of the Senate, the Parliamentarian of the Senate, the Parliamentarian of the House of Representatives, the attending physician of the Capitol, and the assistant secretaries (one for the majority and one for the minority of the Senate), for their official use, which, when used by them individually while on official business, shall authorize them to park their automobiles in any available curb space in the District of Columbia, except within fire plug, fire house, loading station, and loading platform limitations, and such congressional tags shall not be assigned to or used by others: Provided further, That such congressional tags shall be valid only for the Congress in which such tags are so issued, and it shall be unlawful to display such congressional tags for a period longer than thirty days after the opening of the next Congress.

Any person violating this section shall be fined not more than $300 or imprisoned not more than ninety days, or both.

(d) The commissioners shall cause to be levied, collected, and paid such fees for titling and retitling as they deem necessary, not to exceed the sum of $5 for each such titling or retitling, and they shall not, after the 1st day of January, 1932, register or renew the registration of any motor vehicle or trailer unless and until the owner thereof shall make application in the form prescribed by the commissioners and be granted an official certificate of title for such vehicle. No registration or other fee shall be charged to vehicles owned by the federal or District government or any duly accredited representative of a foreign government. The owner of a motor vehicle or trailer registered in the District of Columbia shall not, after the 1st day of January, 1932, operate or permit or cause to be operated any such vehicle upon any public highway in the District without first obtaining a certificate of title therefor, nor shall any individual knowingly permit any certificate of title to be obtained in his name for any vehicle not in fact owned by him, and any individual violating any provision of this subsection or any regulations promulgated thereunder shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than one year, or both. If the properly designated agent of the commissioners shall determine that an applicant for a certificate of title is not entitled thereto, such certificate of title may be refused, and in that event unless such determination is reversed upon written application to the commissioners by the individual affected, such individual shall be entitled to proceed further as provided under section 40-302(a): Provided, That reasonable time for hearing be given the applicant in the first instance.

(i) All prosecutions for violations of this chapter, excepting section 40-610, and this act or regulations made and promulgated under authority of this chapter shall be in the Superior Court of the District of Columbia upon information filed by the corporation counsel of the District of Columbia or any of his assistants.

(j) In addition to the fees and charges levied under other provisions of this chapter, there is hereby levied and imposed an excise tax for the issuance of every original certificate of title for a motor vehicle or trailer in the District, and for the issuance of every subsequent certificate of title for a motor vehicle or trailer in the District in the case of sale or resale thereof, at the rate of 4 per centum of the fair market value of such motor vehicle or trailer at the time such certificate is issued, as determined by the Assessor of the District of Columbia or his duly authorized representatives. As used in this section, the term "original certificate of title" shall mean the first certificate of title issued by the District of Columbia for any particular motor vehicle or trailer. No certificate of title so issued shall be delivered or furnished to the person entitled thereto until the tax has been paid in full. The Assessor of the District of Columbia may require every applicant for a certificate of title to supply such information as he deems necessary as to the time of purchase, the purchase price, and other information relative to the determination of the fair market value of any motor vehicle or trailer for which a certificate of title is required and issued. The issuance of certificates of title for the following motor vehicles and trailers shall be exempt from the tax imposed by this subsection:

(1) Motor vehicles and trailers owned by the United States or the District of Columbia.

(2) Motor vehicles and trailers purchased or acquired by nonresidents prior to coming into the District of Columbia and establishing or maintaining residences in the District.

(3) Motor vehicles and trailers purchased or acquired by nonresidents prior to coming into the District of Columbia and establishing or maintaining a business or businesses in the District. Except as hereinafter provided, it is not intended to exempt from the tax the issuance of certificates of title for motor vehicles and trailers owned by nonresidents who are engaged in business in the District at the time of their purchase or acquisition of such vehicles and trailers and who use such vehicles and trailers in the conduct of their District business or businesses.

(4) Motor vehicles and trailers owned by a utility or public service company for use in furnishing a commodity or service: Provided, That the receipts from furnishing such commodity or service are subject to a gross-receipts or mileage tax in force in the District of Columbia at the time of a certificate of title for any such vehicle or trailer is issued.

(5) New motor vehicles acquired from dealers as replacements for defective vehicles purchased new not more than sixty days prior to the date of such replacement, except that if the fair market value of any replacement vehicle is greater than that of the vehicle which it replaces, than the tax imposed by this section shall be paid on such difference in value. If the fair market value of any replacement vehicle is less than that of the vehicle which it replaces, then the Commissioners or their designated agent are authorized to refund to the owner of the replacement vehicle an amount equal to the difference between the excise tax paid on the defective vehicle and the excise tax paid on the replacement vehicle.

(k)(1) Any unattended motor vehicle found parked at any time upon any public highway of the District of Columbia against which there are two or more outstanding or otherwise unsettled traffic violation notices or against which there have been issued two or more warrants, may, by or under the direction of an officer or member of the Metropolitan Police force or the United States Park Police force, either by towing or otherwise, be removed or conveyed to and impounded in any place designated by the Commissioner, or immobilized in such manner as to prevent its operation, except that no such vehicle shall be immobilized by any means other than by the use of a device or other mechanism which will cause no damage to such vehicle unless it is moved while such device or mechanism is in place.

(2) It shall be the duty of the officer or member of the police force removing or immobilizing such motor vehicle, or under whose directions such vehicle is removed or immobilized, to inform as soon as practicable the owner of an impounded or immobilized vehicle of the nature and circumstances of the prior unsettled traffic violation notices or warrants, for which or on account of which, such vehicle was impounded or immobilized. In any case involving immobilization of a vehicle pursuant to this subsection, such member or officer shall cause to be placed on such vehicle, in a conspicuous manner, notice sufficient to warn any individual to the effect that such vehicle has been immobilized and that any attempt to move such vehicle might result in damage to such vehicle.

(3) The owner of such impounded or immobilized motor vehicle, or other duly authorized person, shall be permitted to repossess or to secure the release of the vehicle upon the depositing of the collateral required for his appearance in the Superior Court of the District of Columbia to answer for each violation for which there is an outstanding or otherwise unsettled traffic violation notice or warrant. (As amended Dec. 4, 1967, Pub. L. 90-172, § 1, 81 Stat. 532; Oct. 31, 1969, Pub. L. 91-106, titles II, IV, §§ 201, 404, 83 Stat. 172, 174; Dec. 12, 1969, Pub. Excessive penalties in indigent cases

Where maximum penalty for jaywalking was fine of $300 or imprisonment of 10 days or both and indigent defendant received a sentence of a fine of $150 or 60 days' imprisonment, imprisonment was 50 days in excess of maximum which could have been imposed. C. F. Sawyer v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1968, 238 A. 2d 314).

Where defendant is indigent, sentence of imprisonment in default of payment of fine which exceeds maximum term of imprisonment which could be imposed under substantive statute as original sentence is an invalid exercise of court's discretion. Id.

§ 40-605. Speeding and reckless driving.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 25-127, 40-612.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Collateral estoppel

Since the defendant who had been acquitted on charges of reckless driving, speeding, and driving motor vehicle after his permit had been suspended failed to present defense of collateral estoppel to trial court hearing prosecution for unauthorized use of motor vehicle, the reviewing court would not consider claim. R. Mahoney v. United States (1969, 420 F. 2d 253, 137 U.S. App. D.C. 3).

§ 40-606. Negligent homicide.

Any person who, by the operation of any vehicle at an immoderate rate of speed or in a careless, reckless, or negligent manner, but not wilfully or wantonly, shall cause the death of another, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than one year or by a fine of not more than $1,000 or both. (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 802(a), as added June 17, 1935, 49 Stat. 385, ch. 266, and amended June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; Apr. 1, 1942, 56 Stat. 190, ch. 207, § 1; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127; July 8, 1963, 77 Stat. 77, Pub. AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11-101.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 40-607, 40-608, 40-609a.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Causal connection

In a prosecution for negligent homicide, causal connection between injuries received in an automobile accident by decedent and his death must be proven beyond a reasonable doubt. S. J. Stevens v. United States (D.C. App. 1969, 249 A. 2d 514).

Evidence that decedent who died of a coronary occlusion five weeks after the automobile accident and was debilitated by the injuries sustained in the accident and that it was possible that state of debility precipitated the heart attack was insufficient to establish causal connection between injuries sustained in the accident and death and did not support a conviction for negligent homicide. Id.

Criticism of defense counsel

Unjustified criticizing of defense counsel for being unfair to government witness, taking over examination of four defense witnesses, consuming with two of them considerable time on extraneous matters placing them in bad light, and rebuking defense counsel for unfair questions or tactics and stopping him in course of examination and making belittling or sardonic remarks required new trial on charge of negligent homicide. A. C. Williams v. United States (D.C. App. 1967, 228 A. 2d 846).

Dismissal with prejudice

Absent any notation on record or oral statement by judge in prior prosecution for negligent homicide that he was dismissing case with prejudice, trial court's conclusion in dismissing second case against defendant for negligent homicide that the prior dismissal has been on speedy trial grounds and was intended to be dismissed with prejudice was not warranted. United States v. W. J. Young (D.C. App. 1968, 237 A. 2d 542).

Elements of proof required by government

In a prosecution for negligent homicide, government must prove three elements: (1) death of human being, (2) by instrumentality of motor vehicle, (3) operated at an immoderate rate of speed or in a careless, reckless, or negligent manner, but not wilfully or wantonly. S. J. Stevens v. United States (D.C. App. 1969, 249 A. 2d 514).

Speedy trial

Where government took approximately two months to reinstate charge against defendant for negligent homicide after first charge had been dismissed and case did not come for trial, due to delays wholly attributable to government, for seven and one-half months after date of accident and defendant, a taxicab driver, has his license revoked until disposition of charge against him, defendant has been prejudiced by the delay and had been denied speedy trial. United States v. W. J. Young (D.C. App. 1968, 237 A. 2d 542).

This section is referred to in sections 25-127, 40-609a, 40-612.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Evidence—Sufficiency

Evidence was ample to support the jury's finding that defendant was operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. R. B. Kelly v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1967, 233 A. 2d 503).

Urine specimen—Admissibility as evidence

Questioning by an officer of a defendant, who was charged with driving while under influence of intoxicating liquor and who was upset and sobbing and who was told that he did not have to take urine test but that if he did not it would be his word against the policeman's, but who was not physically abused, was not conduct which was so outrageous as to require exclusion of results of urine test. J. E. Davis v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1968, 247 A. 2d 417).

Evidence was sufficient to support trial court's finding that defendant charged with driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor voluntarily gave urine specimen admitted at trial though officer had used considerable powers of persuasion to obtain the specimen. Id.

§ 40-609a. Operating of vehicles while under the influence of intoxicating liquor and in violation of other laws—Prima facie evidence of intoxication—Relevant evidence of use of intoxicating liquor—Results of tests available to tested person—Blood test—Only physician at request of police may withdraw blood—Tested person may have private physician make added test—Test not compulsory.

Bus tours on Capitol Mall

A certificate of convenience and necessity is not required of a concessionaire under contract with Secretary of Interior to conduct bus tours of Capitol Mall from Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission. Universal Interpretive Shuttle Corporation v. Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission et al. (1968, 89 S. Ct. 354, 393 U.S. 186; rev'g 390 F. 2d 474).

SECTIONS REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

PART VI

DISSOLUTION AND WINDING UP

§ 41-330. Causes of dissolution.

Accountability of limited partners

Since general partner, who had foregone his salary and turned over immediate day-to-day responsibility to others in regard to management of partnership property, still considered himself a general partner and recognized that the written partnership agreement by its terms was a bona fide limited partnership, such partner cannot hold his limited partners, who had allegedly taken over day-to-day general operations of business, to account as general partners. M. L. Weil v. Diversified Properties et al. (1970, 319 F. Supp. 778).

Partnership agreement

Terms of a partnership agreement must be quite specific in order for one partner's filing suit for dissolution to effect a dissolution of the partnership. B. M. Cooper v. L. A. Isaacs (1971, 448 F. 2d 1202, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

Filing suit seeking dissolution of partnership because of irreconcilable differences between the partners regarding matters of policy did not constitute a wrongful dissolution on theory that provisions of partnership agreement regarding termination by sales of interests, mutual consent, retirement, death or incompetency of partner provided only grounds for termination, and appointment of receiver pendente lite was neither invalid nor an abuse of discretion. Id.

Presumptions

In deciding whether partner's filing suit for dissolution of partnership because of alleged irreconcilable differences constituted a wrongful dissolution so as to entitle other partner to relief under the Partnership Act and render improper the appointment of a receiver pendente lite, reviewing court could not assume that the complaint would prove to be groundless. B. M. Cooper v. L. A. Isaacs (1971, 448 F. 2d 1202, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

Remedy of general partner

Remedy of a general partner who faces interference from his limited partners is to dissolve the partnership under this section; so long as the partnership continues, the general partner is in a relationship of trust with his colleagues and may not invoke provisions of Uniform Partnership Act, including provision to have limited partners declared general partners, to enlarge the liability of his limited partners. M. L. Weil v. Diversified Properties et al. (1970, 319 F. Supp. 778).

Time of dissolution

If complaint in suit for dissolution of partnership because of alleged irreconcilable differences between the partners is groundless, thus entitling other partner to relief under the Partnership Act, the date the complaint was filed will be deemed the time of dissolution. B. M. Cooper v. L. A. Isaacs (1971, 448 F. 2d 1202, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

§ 41-331. Dissolution by decree of court.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 41-330.

Time of dissolution

Where partner suing for dissolution and liquidation of partnership business alleged facts that would entitle him to a dissolution under the Partnership Act, the filing of complaint did not effect a dissolution, wrongful or otherwise, under the Act; dissolution would occur only when decreed by the court or brought about by other actions. B. M. Cooper v. L. A. Isaacs (1971, 448 F. 2d 1202, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Partnership agreement

Filing suit seeking dissolution of partnership because of irreconcilable differences between the partners regarding matters of policy did not constitute a wrongful dissolution on theory that provisions of partnership agreement regarding termination by sales of interests, mutual consent, retirement, death or incompetency of partner provided only grounds for termination, and appointment of receiver pendente lite was neither invalid nor an abuse of discretion. *B. NOTES TO DECISIONS

Control of business

Where, at time sole general partner gave up his salary and turned over immediate day-to-day responsibility for management of partnership property to others, partnership was in financial straits and limited partners conferred among themselves and with managers of day-to-day operations in attempt to salvage enterprise and continue operations, actions of the limited partners did not constitute participation in normal day-to-day business within meaning of partnership agreement that general partner would manage day-to-day affairs; thus, limited partners had not taken part in control of business within meaning of this section making limited partners who take part in control liable as general partners. *M. ### NOTES TO DECISIONS

Unrecorded conditional sales contract

An unrecorded conditional sales contract is valid against all except third persons acquiring title [purchasers for value] without notice, and it has long been settled that prior mortgagees, in whose stead trustees stand, are not, nor do they occupy position of third parties, since they are in no sense purchasers who have given value for property acquired subsequent to their mortgage. The Hobart Mfg. Co. v. A. Vozeolas and J. Hillman (D.C. App. 1969, 255 A. 2d 502).

In a case where a conditional seller of a bakery mixer took in trade a mixer which had been secured by a chattel deed of trust but did not record the conditional sale, and after the buyer had defaulted in payment to seller of original mixer the trustees contacted an auctioneer to inventory the property and to publicly advertise the auction, and though inventory was taken the discrepancy in serial numbers of mixer was not detected, and new mixer was sold and proceeds remitted to secured parties, the trustees, as parties to conversion of conditional seller's mixer, could be sued for its value, however, since the value of the mixer exceeded the unpaid balance of conditional sales contract, conditional seller was entitled to recover only the amount due under its contract. Id.

§ 42-104. Void instruments—Disposal.

(a) Unless the Recorder of Deeds has notice of an action pending relative thereto, he may remove from the files and destroy:

(1) an instrument filed in his office pursuant to sections 42-101 and 42-103, or pursuant to chapter 7 of title 40, which has become void or lapsed, and which has been void or lapsed for one year or more, together with any affidavit, release, assignment, or continuation or termination statement relating thereto;

(2) a lapsed financing statement, a lapsed continuation statement, a statement of assignment or release relating to either, filed pursuant to Part 4 of Article 9 of Subtitle I of title 28, and any index of any of them, one year or more after lapse of the financing statement and every continuation statement related thereto; and

(3) a termination statement filed pursuant to section 28:9-404, and the index on which it is noted, one year or more after the filing of the termination statement.

(b) Subsection (a) of this section does not apply to a bill of sale, mortgage, deed of trust, conditional sale of, financing statement or security agreement covering, railroad rolling stock. (Mar. 3, 1901, ch. 854, § 546-D, as added June 5, 1952, 66 Stat. 126, ch. 370, § 3, and amended June 18, 1953, 67 Stat. 64, ch. 126, § 1; Dec. 30, 1963, 77 Stat. 772, Pub. L. 88-243, § 11.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Service, defined

"Yellow Pages" advertising, was not a public utility "service" or "facility" within statute providing that every public utility doing business within the District of Columbia is required to furnish service and facilities in all respects just and reasonable, and hence the public service commission lacked jurisdiction to regulate the rates and practices of telephone company with respect to its yellow pages classified telephone directory. The Classified Directory Subscribers Association v. Public Service Commission of the District of Columbia (1967, 383 F. 2d 510, 127 U.S. App. D.C. 315).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Tenants committee

Since substandard units had different utility equipment, rented at different prices, and had varying number of occupants, and there was no recognized formula for distributing gas and electrical charges among the users, it is not appropriate for the court to order tenants to organize committee which would enter into contracts with utility companies for continuation of services, in tenant's proceeding for equitable relief directing that utility services be continued after owner refused to honor utility bills. *A. SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 43-707, 43-710, 43-711.

§ 43-705. Appeal to Court of Appeals from certain orders—Precedence over other civil causes—Proceeding when additional evidence proper—Statement to accompany decision—Commission not liable for costs or damages.

The District of Columbia Court of Appeals shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine any appeal from an order or decision of the Commission. Any public utility or any other person or corporation affected by any final order or decision of the Commission, other than an order fixing or determining the value of the property of a public utility in a proceeding solely for that purpose, may, within sixty days after final action by the Commission upon the petition for reconsideration, file with the clerk of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals a petition of appeal setting forth the reasons for such appeal and the relief sought; at the same time such appellant shall file with the Commission notice in writing of the appeal together with a copy of the petition. Within twenty days of the receipt of such notice of appeal the Commission shall file with the clerk of the said court the record, including a transcript of all proceedings had and testimony taken before the Commission, duly certified, upon which the said order or decision of the Commission was based, together with a statement of its findings of fact and conclusions upon the said record, and a copy of the application for reconsideration and the orders entered thereon: Provided, That the parties, with the consent and approval of the Commission, may stipulate in writing that only certain portions of the record be transcribed and transmitted. Within this period the Commission or any other interested party shall answer, demur, or otherwise move or plead. Thereupon the appeal shall be at issue and ready for hearing. All such proceedings shall have precedence over any civil cause of a different nature pending in said court, and the District of Columbia Court of Appeals shall always be deemed open for the hearing thereof. Any such appeal shall be heard upon the record before the Commission, and no new or additional evidence shall be received by the said court. The said court, or any judge or judges thereof, before whom any such appeal shall be heard, may require and direct the Commission to receive additional evidence upon any subject related to the issues on said appeal concerning which evidence was improperly excluded in the hearing before the Commission or upon which the record may contain no substantial evidence. Upon receipt of such requirement and direction the Commission shall receive such evidence and without unreasonable delay shall transmit to the said court the findings of fact made thereon by the Commission and the conclusions of the Commission upon the said facts.

Upon the conclusion of its hearings of any such appeal the court shall either dismiss the said appeal and affirm the order or decision of the Commission or sustain the appeal and vacate the Commission's order or decision. In either event the court shall accompany its order by a statement of its reasons for its action and in the case of the vacation of an order or decision of the Commission the statement shall relate the particulars in and the extent to which such order or decision was defective.

Said Commission shall not, nor shall any of its members, officers, agents, or employees, be taxed with any costs, nor shall they or any of them be required to give any supersedeas bond or security for costs or damages on any appeal whatsoever. Said Commission, or any of its members, officers, agents, or employees, shall not be liable to suit or action or for any judgment or decree for any damages, loss, or injury claimed by any public utility or person, nor required in any case to make any deposit for costs or pay for any service to the clerks of any court or to the marshal of the United States. ## NOTES TO DECISIONS

Public interest

Finding that gas rates, embodied in contractual arrangements reached between gas company and apartment and office building owner for supplying steam and chilled water for heating and air-conditioning of building to be constructed, were lawful and not against the public interest as supported by substantial evidence and as not arbitrary or capricious. Association of Fair Competitive Practices In Air Conditioning, Inc. v. Public Service Commission of the District of Columbia, et al. (1967, 372 F. 2d 934, 125 U.S. App. D.C. 361).

Scope of inquiry

District of Columbia Public Service Commission was not, out of issues generated in case respecting approval of rate embodied in contractual arrangements between gas company and owner of apartment and office building for the supplying of steam and chilled water for heating and air-conditioning building, required to range beyond the scope of application before it and to make a wide ranging inquiry into general merchandising practices of gas company with respect to air-conditioning equipment. *Association of Fair Competitive Practices In Air Conditioning, Inc. v. All orders and decisions of the Commission shall remain in full effect, except as provided in section 43-704 hereof, unless and until they are suspended, superseded, or rescinded by the Commission or are vacated by lawful order of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals: Provided, That if in any petition made to the said court appealing from an order or decision of the Commission it be alleged that substantial and irreparable property loss would be occasioned to the petitioner by the operation of the said order pending the determination of the said appeal, the court shall set a time and place for hearing upon the said allegation after not less than three days' notice to the Commission (during which period the execution of the order or decision shall be stayed), and the said court may then, upon a clear showing of the irreparable and substantial property loss as alleged, suspend the effective date of the said order. No such suspension shall be for a greater period than sixty days without further order after notice or hearing by the court. In the event of the issuance of an order suspending the operation of any order of the Commission, the court may include therein such provision as it deems advisable for the preservation of records or accounts and the impounding or otherwise securing of moneys necessary to give effect to the order of the Commission in the event the said order is sustained. ## NOTES TO DECISIONS

There is no statutory authority that explicitly compels the District of Columbia to shut off water supply for failure to pay water charges; such authority as is statutorily granted is discretionary only. A. Masszonja et al. v. W. E. Washington, Commissioner, et al. (1971, 321 F. Supp. 965).

Where low income tenants have paid rent to landlord whom they have relied upon to pay water bills and who has then abandoned the building and its past due water bill, and relocation of those tenants is difficult, if not impossible due to the critical housing shortage existing in the District of Columbia, it would be an abuse of discretion for the District of Columbia to shut off the water and thereby force the tenants to pay that for which they may not be liable. Id.

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA COUNCIL

Section 402(326) of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred the regulatory and other functions of the Board of Commissioners, under this section to the District of Columbia Council, subject to the right of the Commissioner as provided by section 406 of the Plan. For provisions establishing the District of Columbia Council, see section 201 of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1.

§ 43-1606. Methods of determination of sanitary sewer service charges.

(a) The sanitary sewer service charges established under the authority of this chapter shall be based on the water consumption of, and water service to, the properties served, and be determined by one of the following methods:

(1) Where water is supplied from the District water supply system at meter rates, the Commissioners shall establish the sanitary sewer service charge as a percentage of the water charge applicable in the District.

(2) Where water is supplied from the District water supply system, which water is not measured by meter, but is supplied at special business and miscellaneous rates, the Commissioners shall establish the sanitary sewer service charge at a percentage of such special business and miscellaneous rates.

(3) For each property using water, all or part of which is from a source or sources other than the District water supply system, the Commissioners shall establish a sanitary sewer service charge separate from and in addition to any sanitary sewer service charge levied under paragraph (1) or (2) of this subsection. Such separate or additional sanitary sewer service charge shall be measured by the quantity of water from the source or sources other than the District water supply system discharged into the District sanitary sewer system from said property. The owner or occupant of each such property shall install and maintain, without cost to the District, a meter or meters to measure the quantity of water received from other than the water supply system of the District, and the sanitary sewer service charge based upon water received from other than the water supply system of the District shall be the same in amount as would be paid by the owner of a metered property receiving the same quantity of water from the water supply system of the District. No meter shall be installed or be used for such purpose without the approval of the Commissioners. In the event the owner or occupant of property fails or refuses to furnish and properly maintain such meter or meters as are prescribed herein in the manner required by the Commissioners, then the supply of water from the District water supply system to the property or premises may be suspended by the Commissioners and the said supply shall not be restored until the metering of such supplementary water source has been accomplished by the owner or occupant to the satisfaction of the Commissioners, and any costs devolving upon the District as a result of the suspension of service from the District water supply system shall be paid to the District prior to the restoration of water service from the District water supply system.

(4) Wherever a property upon which a sanitary sewer service charge is imposed uses water from the water supply system of the District for an industrial or commercial purposes in such manner that the water so used is not discharged into the sanitary sewage works of the District, the quantity of water so used and not discharged into the sanitary sewage works of the District may be excluded in determining the sanitary sewer service charge on such property, if such exclusion is previously requested in writing by the owner or occupant thereof. Upon such request, the quantity of water so used and not discharged into the sanitary sewage works of the District shall be measured by a device or devices approved by the Commissioners, installed and maintained without cost to the District, and the sanitary sewer service charge to be imposed on such property shall be the amount which would have been charged such property if the amount of water so used and not discharged into the sanitary sewage works of the District had not been included in the amount of water used by such property: Provided, That all water from the water supply system of the District used by such property shall be paid for at established rates, whether or not such water is discharged into the sanitary sewage works of the District. Where in the opinion of the Commissioners, it is not practicable to install a measuring device to determine continuously the quantity of water used for such industrial or commercial purposes and not discharged into the sanitary sewage works of the District, the Commissioners shall determine periodically, in such manner and by such methods as the Commissioners may prescribe, the quantity of water from the water supply system of the District discharged into the sanitary sewage works of the District, and the sanitary sewer service charge shall be based on such estimated quantity of water at the percentage authorized by this paragraph. Any dispute as to such estimated amount shall be decided by the Commissioners and such decision shall be final; and in the event the owner or occupant fails to furnish and maintain such measuring devices or to facilitate the periodic determinations by the Commissioners as prescribed herein, then the privilege of excluding some portion of the water used from the District water supply system from the charges for sanitary sewer service shall be forfeited and the charges for sanitary sewer service shall be based on the full amount of the water used from the District water supply system.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (a), the District of Columbia Council is authorized, in its discretion, from time to time to establish one or more sanitary sewer service charges at such amount as the Council, on the basis of a recommendation made by the Commissioner, finds it necessary to meet the expense to the District of furnishing sanitary sewer services, including debt retirement. ## NOTES TO DECISIONS

Applicability to automobile rental agencies

Sections 44-301 et seq., governing liability of insurance companies insuring passenger motor vehicles for hire were designed especially to cover taxicabs and other means of public transportation and were not intended to be a general act covering rental of automobiles without drivers. M. J. Ryan III, Administrator etc., et al. v. E. W. Furey, Administrator etc., et al. (Penn. Sup. Ct., 1970, 262 A. 2d 305).

Sections 44-301 et seq., requiring passenger motor vehicles for hire to be insured and governing liability of insurer do not apply to automobile rental agencies. Id.

Automobile rental corporation

The District of Columbia Taxicab Insurance Act which applies to persons who rent passenger motor vehicles “for hire” had no application to corporation which rented automobiles, did not sell a transportation service as such and which prohibited its lessees from using the vehicles rented to them for transportation of persons or property “for hire”; “for hire” is usually a phrase of art and, in the field of transportation, denotes a common or contract carrier. Nationwide Mutual Insurance Company etc. v. New Amsterdam Casualty Company etc. (1967, 376 F. 2d 607, 4th Circuit).

The administrative interpretation of District of Columbia Taxicab Insurance Act that automobile rental corporations are not within the Act is entitled to weight. Id.

§ 44-302. Insurance companies must be authorized to do business in District—Bonds to be secured—Insurance companies and corporate sureties must be approved by Superintendent—Reserves—Superintendent may make rules and regulations—Superintendent may withdraw certificate of approval after hearing—Conditions for cancellation of insurance policies and bonds.

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA COUNCIL

Section 402(332) of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred the regulatory and other functions of the Board of Commissioners, under this section with respect to making rules and regulations governing the writing of insurance, the making of bonds, and the business of insuring or bonding risks, to the District of Columbia Council, subject to the right of the Commissioner as provided by section 406 of the Plan. ##### Constitutionality

The claim that plaintiff homeowners were deprived of due process of law by District of Columbia statutes authorizing persons holding power of sale under mortgages, deeds of trust and other contracts conveying title to realty to foreclose and sell property by public auction without hearing for homeowner prior to sale was so insubstantial that three-judge court would not be convened in action for injunction restraining enforcement of statutes, since statutes provide that no such foreclosure sale may take place unless holder of note secured by mortgage is given notice 30 days in advance of sale and permit extrajudicial foreclosure only when instrument contains power of sale clause if owner defaults in payments. *J. (b) This section shall not be construed to validate any deed with respect to which there was any misrepresentation, fraudulent act, or illegal provision in connection with its execution or acknowledgment. (R. S., D. C., § 459; Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat.

§ 45-611. Appointment of trustee to sell in event of death of mortgagee or trustee.

In case of the death of a sole mortgagee or trustee, or the last survivor of several, if the debt secured by the mortgage or deed of trust shall not have been paid, the party entitled thereto may file a petition in the court having probate jurisdiction, setting forth under oath the execution of the mortgage or deed of trust, the death of the mortgagee or trustee, and the fact that the debt secured by the said mortgage or deed of trust remains unpaid, and such other fact as may be necessary to entitle the petitioner to the relief prayed, and praying for the appointment of a trustee to execute the trusts of the said mortgage or deed of trust. It shall not be necessary to make the heirs at law or devisees of the deceased mortgagee or trustee parties to such proceeding. The court may thereupon lay a rule upon the debtor or parties whose property is bound by said mortgage or deed of trust, unless they shall voluntarily appear and admit the allegations of the petition, to show cause, under oath, on or before the 10th day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, after the service of such rule, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted. If said party or parties can not be found in said District, service of said rule shall be by publication, according to the practice in equity in said court. If no cause be shown, notwithstanding the service of said rule, against the prayer of said petition, the court may determine in a summary way whether said debt remains unpaid, and if satisfied thereof the said court may, by decree, appoint a new trustee in the place of the deceased mortgagee or trustee, and vest in him all the title at law and in equity, and all the powers that had been conveyed to and vested in the deceased mortgagee or trustee. Nothing contained in this section shall prevent the appointment of a new trustee pursuant to section 45-614(b) and the execution of the trusts of said deed of trust by such new trustee. ### § 45-615. Terms of sale and notice to be given.

(a) If the length of notice and terms of sale are not prescribed by the mortgage or deed of trust, or be not left therein to the judgment or discretion of the mortgagee or trustee, any person interested in such sale may apply to the court, before such sale is advertised, to fix the terms of sale and determine what notice of sale shall be given.

(b) No foreclosure sale under a power of sale provision contained in any deed of trust, mortgage or other security instrument, may take place unless the holder of the note secured by such deed of trust, mortgage, or security instrument, or its agent, gives written notice, by certified mail return receipt requested, of said sale to the owner of the real property encumbered by said deed of trust, mortgage or security instrument at his last known address, with a copy of said notice being sent to the Commissioner of the District of Columbia, or his designated agent, at least 30 days in advance of the date of said sale. Said notice shall be in such format and contain such information as the District of Columbia Council shall by regulation prescribe. The 30-day period shall commence to run on the date of receipt of such notice by the Commissioner. The Commissioner or his agent shall give written acknowledgment to the holder of said note, or its agent, on the day that he receives such notice, that such notice has been received, indicating therein the date of receipt of such notice. The notice required by this subsection (b) in regard to said mortgages and deeds of trust shall be in addition to the notice described by subsection (a) of this section. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1274, ch. 854, § 539; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 532, ch. 1329; Oct. 12, 1968, Pub. L. 90-566, § 1, 82 Stat. 1002.)

AMENDMENT

1968—Act, Oct. 12, 1968, Pub. L. 90-566, amended the title of the section to read, "terms of sale and notice to be given"; inserted (a) at the beginning of the original section and added subsection (b) thereto.

Constitutionality

The claim that plaintiff homeowners were deprived of due process of law by District of Columbia statutes authorizing persons holding power of sale under mortgages, deeds of trust and other contracts conveying title to realty to foreclose and sell property by public auction without hearing for homeowner prior to sale was so insubstantial that three-judge court would not be convened in action for injunction restraining enforcement of statutes, since statutes provide that no such foreclosure sale may take place unless holder of note secured by mortgage is given notice 30 days in advance of sale and permit extrajudicial foreclosure only when instrument contains power of sale clause if owner defaults in payments. J. H. Young et ano. v. P. S. Ridley et al. (1970, 309 F. Supp. 1308).

§ 45-619. Release after death of mortgagee or trustee.

In case of the death of a sole mortgagee or trustee or the last survivor of several, as aforesaid, if the debt secured by the mortgage or deed of trust shall have been paid, and it is desired by the party paying the same to obtain a deed of release, the said party may file a petition in the court having probate jurisdiction, setting forth, under oath, the execution of said mortgage or deed of trust, the death of the mortgagee or trustee, the payment of the debt, and any other fact necessary to entitle the petitioner to the relief prayed, and praying for the appointment of a trustee in the place of the deceased mortgagee or trustee to execute a deed of release of said mortgage or deed of trust. It shall not be necessary to make the heirs or devisees of the deceased mortgagee or trustee a party to such proceeding. The court may thereupon lay a rule upon the creditor secured by said mortgage or deed of trust, unless he shall voluntarily appear and admit the allegations of the petition, to show cause, under oath, on or before the 10th day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, after the service of said rule, why the prayer of the petition should not be granted. If said party can not be found in said District, service of said rule shall be by publication according to the practice in equity in said court. If no cause be shown, notwithstanding the service of said rule, against the prayer of the petition, the court may determine in a summary way whether said debt has been paid, and if satisfied thereof may, by decree, appoint a trustee in the place of the deceased mortgagee or trustee and invest in him the title, in law and in equity, that was in the deceased mortgagee or trustee, for the purpose of executing a deed of release as aforesaid. If matter of defense against the prayer for a release of said mortgage or deed of trust be set up in answer to said rule, the further proceedings shall be according to the practice in equity after answer filed. Nothing contained in this section shall prevent the appointment of a new trustee pursuant to section 45-614(b) and the execution of a deed of release by such new trustee. "(3) Recreation Board

"(4) Public Service Commission

"(5) Zoning Commission

"(6) Zoning Advisory Council

"(7) Board of Zoning Adjustment

"(8) Office of the Recorder of Deeds

"(9) Armory Board"

Authority of Recorder of Deeds

Activities of the Recorder of Deeds are ministerial and he does not have the authority to determine the legality of a document presented to him for filing nor the enforceability of any portion thereof, nor to add or strike words from documents presented to him. D. K. Mayers et al. v. P. S. Ridley et al. (1971, 330 F. Supp. 447).

Racially restrictive covenants

Fair Housing Act of 1968, making unlawful racially discriminatory advertising with respect to sale or rental of dwellings, does not make it unlawful for Recorder of Deeds to accept for filing instruments which contain racially restrictive covenants, nor does it provide authority for order requiring Recorder to mark such instruments or the volumes in which they are recorded to indicate that such covenants are void and unenforceable. D. K. Mayers et al. v. P. S. Ridley et al. (1971, 330 F. Supp. 447).

Proper remedy against the perpetuation of racially restrictive covenants would be suit against real estate brokers or title insurance companies responsible for the perpetuation. Id.

That the Recorder of Deeds of the District of Columbia shall recopy such of the records in his office as may, in his judgment and that of a judge of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia appointed for that purpose, need recopying in order to preserve the originals from destruction. The expense of such recopying may not in any fiscal year exceed $1,000 and such expense shall be certified by a judge of the Superior Court appointed for that purpose and audited by the General Accounting Office. (Feb. 26, 1907, 34 Stat. 994, ch. 1636; June 10, 1921, 42 Stat. 24, ch. 18, § 304; June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127; July 29, 1970, Pub. #### § 45-722. Exemptions—Enumeration of deeds exempt from tax.

Parent and trustees

District of Columbia deed recordation tax exemption which is provided for deeds between parent and child made without consideration also applies to a conveyance of real property made by parents to trustees under a trust they established for benefit of their children. District of Columbia v. J. Orleans, Trustee, et al. (1968, 406 F. 2d 957, 132 U.S. App. D.C. 139).

The fact that children might die prior to termination of trust involving a deed for benefit of the children and property would go to heirs of the child rather than donors' children would not prevent exemption from District of Columbia deed recordation tax in the absence of regulation or administrative policy formulating approach to definition and valuation that would be involved in taxation of contingent interests. Id.

Such summons may be served by any member of the Metropolitan Police Department. If any person having been personally summoned shall neglect or refuse to obey the summons as herein provided then, and in that event, the Commissioners may report that fact to the Superior Court for the District of Columbia, or one of the judges thereof, and said court or any judge thereof hereby is empowered to compel obedience to such summons to the same extent as witnesses may be compelled to obey the subpoenas of that court. ## Sec.

§ 45-805. Estates pur autre vie.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Prior death of beneficiary

Under statute providing that estate for life of third person shall be deemed freehold only during life of grantee or devisee, but after his death shall be deemed chattel real and be part of his personal estate, where testator's nephew was given one-third of income from trust during life of testator's brother and brother was given two-thirds of income during his life, and will provided for termination of trust upon death of brother with distribution to nephew or his children, nephew's death before death of brother did not entitle brother to receive nephew's interest. H. J. Bobys et ano. v. A. Bobys et al. (1968, 284 F. Supp. 321).

Under statute providing that estate for life of third person shall be deemed freehold only during life of devisee but after his death shall be deemed chattel real and be part of his personal estate, where testator's nephew was given one-third of income from trust during life of testator's brother and will provided that, in event of nephew's predeceasing brother, corpus, after deduction of specific legacy, was to be paid to nephew's children, fact that nephew predeceased brother did not entitle nephew's children to acceleration of provision made as to them. Id.

Under statute providing that estate for life of third person shall be deemed freehold only during life of grantee or devisee but after his death shall be deemed chattel real and be part of his personal estate, interest of testator's nephew in one-third of income of trust during life of testator's brother was not extinguished at time of death of nephew who predeceased testator's brother, and such income would be paid to personal representatives of nephew's estate during life of testator's brother. Id.

§ 45-816. Tenancies in common, tenancies by the entireties, and joint tenancies.

Every estate granted or devised to two or more persons in their own right, including estates granted or devised to husband and wife, shall be a tenancy in common, unless expressly declared to be a joint tenancy; but every estate vested in executors or trustees, as such, shall be a joint tenancy, unless otherwise expressed. An estate in joint tenancy or tenancy by the entireties may be created by a conveyance in which one or more of the grantors in the conveyance is also one of the grantees. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1352, ch. 854, § 1031; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 538, ch. 1329; Dec. 7, 1970, Pub. L. 91-530, § 1, 84 Stat. 1390.)

AMENDMENTS

1970—Section 1 of act Dec. 7, 1970, Pub. L. 91-530 amended this section (1) by adding at the end thereof the following: "An estate in joint tenancy or tenancy by the entireties may be created by a conveyance in which one or more of the grantors in the conveyance is also one of the grantees.", and (2) by striking out "and joint tenancies" in the side heading of the section and inserting in lieu thereof the following: ", tenancies by the entireties, and joint tenancies".

1902—Act June 30, 1902, added "unless otherwise expressed."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Estate by entireties

Where decedent and his widow had owned real estate as tenants by the entireties, and the property was sold in order to avert foreclosure and proceeds were deposited in account in names of decedent and his widow as tenants by the entireties, and the decedent had desired no change in type of ownership of proceeds, proceeds were free from claims of decedent's creditors, and fact that decedent and widow had been separated and had filed separate income tax return would not support inference that decedent and widow had mutually undertaken to dissolve tenancy by the entireties in the fund. In re Estate of J. S. Wall (1971, 440 F. 2d 215, 142 U.S. App. D.C. 187).

Evidence—Sufficiency

Evidence, in a suit by the administratrix of the decedent to recover an automobile which was registered in the joint names of decedent and decedent's landlady and which had been purchased by the decedent from a bank account which was in the joint names of decedent and decedent's landlady, that decedent gave his interest in automobile to landlady prior to decedent's death was sufficient for jury. E. L. Prather v. J. B. Hill (D.C. App. 1969, 250 A. 2d 690).

§ 45-820. Estates by sufferance.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Grounds for eviction

In this case, the court held that where landlord gives tenants, who had verbally leased property by the month, statutory 30 days' notice to vacate, the landlord is entitled to judgment of possession, notwithstanding that reason for notice may have been tenants' refusal to enter into written lease containing waiver of right to statutory notice to quit in event of certain breaches. V. Wilson et al. v. J. R. Pinkett, Inc. (D.C. App. 1970, 265 A. 2d 778).

Renewal of lease

In this case, the court held that since the tenant remained in possession and paid increased rent required by option for additional term after initial term had expired, the tenant affirmatively indicated his intent to exercise the option and did not hold over only as a tenant by sufferance. P. J. Harris v. S. T. Gindes (D.C. App. 1970, 265 A. 2d 598).

§ 45-821. Estates from month to month or from quarter to quarter.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Grounds for eviction

In this case, the court held that where landlord gives tenants, who had verbally leased property by the month, statutory 30 days' notice to vacate, the landlord is entitled to judgment of possession, notwithstanding that reason for notice may have been tenants' refusal to enter into written lease containing waiver of right to statutory notice to quit in event of certain breaches. *V. NOTES TO DECISIONS

Status of person in possession of foreclosed property

Where real property is sold under foreclosure of a deed of trust, grantor of deed of trust, or anyone in possession claiming under him, becomes tenant at will of purchaser at foreclosure and is entitled to 30 days' notice to quit. T. G. Thompson v. S. Mazo (D.C. App. 1968, 245 A. 2d 122).

Chapter 9.—LANDLORD AND TENANT

§ 45-902. Notices to quit—Month to month.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Grounds for eviction

It was the intent of Congress, which directed enactment of District of Columbia housing code, that, while landlord might evict for any legal reason or for no reason at all, he was not free to evict tenant in retaliation for tenant's report of housing code violations to the authorities. Y. C. Edwards v. N. Habib (1968, 397 F. 2d 687, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 126; cert. denied 89 S. Ct. 618, 393 U.S. 1016, 21 L. Ed. 2d 560).

Landlord's motivation for termination of tenancy

Tenant's constitutional rights to freedom of speech and to petition for redress of grievances were not violated by landlord's eviction of tenant through court action, notwithstanding fact that landlord may have been motivated to evict in retaliation for tenant's justified complaints to housing authority about condition of premises. Y. C. Edwards v. N. Habib (D.C. App. 1967, 227 A. 2d 388, rev'd and remanded 397 F. 2d 687).

Thirty days' notice to quit given by landlord to month-to-month tenant was sufficient to terminate tenancy under statute, notwithstanding fact that landlord may have been motivated to give notice in retaliation for tenant's justified complaints to housing authority about condition of premises. Id.

Violations of regulations

In this case, the court held that the fact that there had been Housing Code violations, under process of being corrected, in tenant's apartment at time she executed lease does not render lease invalid. C. M. Watson v. S. Kotler (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 141).

In this case the jury found that substantial violations of the housing regulations existed on premises at time lease was signed, and that such violations were sufficient to render premises unsafe and unsanitary, and landlord knew or should have known of such violations, and the court held lease was void and unenforceable, though landlord had not received official notice of existence of violations from city housing inspectors. Diamond Housing Corp. v. L. Robinson (D.C. App. 1969, 257 A. 2d 492).

§ 45-903. Tenancy at will—Notice for termination.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Status of person in possession of foreclosed property

Where real property is sold under foreclosure of a deed of trust, grantor of deed of trust, or anyone in possession claiming under him, becomes tenant at will of purchaser at foreclosure and is entitled to 30 days' notice to quit. T. G. Thompson v. S. Mazo (D.C. App. 1968, 245 A. 2d 122).

§ 45-904. Tenancy by sufferance—When terminated.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Notice generally

In a case where a tenant at sufferance vacated premises on August 27 without giving landlord 30-day notice of his intention to quit, tenant was liable for rent only for 30 days subsequent to vacating. A. Willis v. Retail Adjustment Bureau, Inc., etc. (D.C. App. 1969, 248 A. 2d 823).

A tenant at sufferance who vacated without the giving required 30-day notice is liable for rent for 30 days during which notice would have run. Id.

Retaliatory defense

In this case a tenant, who had been successful in having lease declared void and unenforceable in prior action because property was unsafe and uninhabitable and who was being evicted after expiration of 30 days' notice because landlord wished to withdraw property from rental market, would not be permitted to raise defense that landlord's action for recovery of possession was retaliatory. L. Robinson v. Diamond Housing Corporation (D.C. App. 1970, 267 A. 2d 833).

Sufficiency of record on appeal

In a case where the landlord's assignee did not file a brief in the tenant's appeal from judgment for unpaid rent, there was no statement of proceedings and evidence in the record and trial court did not certify that the tenant's recital of the facts was correct, reviewing court would remand case for trial on tenant's claim that landlord's assignee was estopped to assert a right to rent because of oral waiver by landlord-assignor of 30-day notice of intention to quit. A. Willis v. Retail Adjustment Bureau, Inc., etc. (D.C. App. 1969, 248 A. 2d 823).

Summary judgment

In this case the court held that since the landlord of housing, which had been determined to be unsafe and uninhabitable in violation of housing regulations, served a 30 days' notice upon tenant at sufferance and then brought action to recover possession upon her failure to quit so that he could withdraw property from rental market, it was unreasonable to permit the tenant to remain in unsafe and uninhabitable housing, and in absence of opposing affidavits by the tenant, granting of landlord's motion for summary judgment was proper. L. Robinson v. Diamond Housing Corporation (D.C. App. 1970, 267 A. 2d 833).

Use and occupation

Although a former tenant is entitled to restitution of rent paid under a void lease, the landlord is entitled to the reasonable value of the premises in the condition existing when occupied by the tenant and is entitled to setoff. William J. Davis, Inc., et ano. v. C. Slade (D.C. App. 1970, 271 A. 2d 412).

§ 45-905. Notice not to be recalled.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Grounds for eviction

In this case, the court held that where landlord gives tenants, who had verbally leased property by the month, statutory 30 days' notice to vacate, the landlord is entitled to judgment of possession, notwithstanding that reason for notice may have been tenants' refusal to enter into written lease containing waiver of right to statutory notice to quit in event of certain breaches. V. Wilson et al. v. J. R. Pinkett, Inc. (D.C. App. 1970, 265 A. 2d 778).

§ 45-908. Agreement as to notice.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Grounds for eviction

In this case, the court held that where landlord gives tenants, who had verbally leased property by the month, statutory 30 days' notice to vacate, the landlord is entitled to judgment of possession, notwithstanding that reason for notice may have been tenants' refusal to enter into written lease containing waiver of right to statutory notice to quit in event of certain breaches. V. Wilson et al. v. J. R. Pinkett, Inc. (D.C. App. 1970, 265 A. 2d 778).

§ 45-909. Recovery of real and personal property leased together.

Whenever real and personal property are leased together, as, for example, a house with furniture contained therein, the landlord, either in an action of ejectment or in the summary proceeding for possession, in the Superior Court of the District of Columbia, may have a judgment for recovery of the personalty as well as the realty. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1384, ch. 854, § 1235; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134; July 8, 1963, 77 Stat. 77, Pub. L. 88-60, § 1; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91-358, title I, § 167(1), 84 Stat. 588.)

§ 45-910. Ejectment or summary proceedings.

Whenever a lease for any definite term shall expire, or any tenancy shall be terminated by notice as aforesaid, and the tenant shall fail or refuse to surrender possession of the leased premises, the landlord may bring an action of ejectment to recover possession in the Superior Court of the District of Columbia. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1382, ch. 854, § 1225; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134, June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127; July 8, 1963, 77 Stat. 77, Pub. ## NOTES TO DECISIONS

Deposits in court

Where Court of General Sessions upon taking into account unwholesome conditions in apartment fixed deposit required from tenant by protective order at $50 per month, a reduction from the monthly rental of $72.50, the United States Court of Appeals will use the $50 figure as the amount for its interim protective order pending its decision as to validity of protective order of lower court. J. Blanks v. R. Fowler (1970, 437 F. 2d 677, 141 U.S. App. D.C. 244).

If a tenant defends an action for possession on basis of breach of implied warranty of habitability, the trial court may require the tenant to make future rent payments into the registry of the court as they become due; generally, such escrowed moneys should be apportioned between the landlord and tenant after trial on basis of finding of rent actually due for period at issue. E. Javins v. First National Realty Corporation (1970, 428 F. 2d 1071, 138 U.S. App. D.C. 369; cert. denied 91 S. Ct. 186, 400 U.S. 925).

Estoppel

Once tenants successfully moved in open court through their attorneys to have landlord's suits for possession dismissed as moot, the tenants were thereafter equitably estopped from later asserting a claim to entitlement to possession. W. Atkins et al. v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 283 A. 2d 204).

For estoppel to apply against a party to litigation, that party must have asserted successfully one position in litigation and then switched his position after the other party has relied thereon to his detriment. Id.

Merely because tenants moved for summary judgment in landlord's actions for possession, they were not estopped from having the action subsequently declared moot on ground that tenants had vacated the premises. Id.

Grounds for eviction

It was the intent of Congress, which directed enactment of the District of Columbia housing code, that, while landlord might evict for any legal reason or for no reason at all, he was not free to evict tenant in retaliation for tenant's report of housing code violations to the authorities. Y. C. Edwards v. N. Habib (1968, 397 F. 2d 687, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 126; cert. denied 89 S. Ct. 618, 393 U.S. 1016, 21 L. Ed. 2d 560).

Habitability—Warranty of

Lessee of office suite could not justify refusal to pay rent on theory that the lessor breached its warranty, impliedly contained in lease, that suite would continue to be habitable during tenancy when certain "hippie people," who were attracted to building by other tenants, interfered with lessee's staff's use of building's restrooms and elevators and his client's entry into building where lessee did not allege that such "hippie people" were acting under lessor's direction or with its knowledge and permission. S. Dietz v. Miles Holding Corporation (D.C. App. 1971, 277 A. 2d 108).

The warranty of habitability, measured by the standard set out in the Housing Regulations for the District of Columbia, is implied by operation of law in all leases, whether oral or written and for all types of tenancies, of urban dwelling units covered by those regulations; breach of that warranty gives rise to usual remedies for breach of contract. E. Javins v. First National Realty Corporation (1970, 428 F. 2d 1071, 138 U.S. App. D.C. 369; cert. denied 91 S. Ct. 186, 400 U.S. 925).

Housing regulations

In an appeal by tenants from a judgment in favor of landlord for possession on account on nonpayment of rent, the court holds that the housing regulations referring to health, safety, and welfare pertain to safety from structural defects, unsanitary conditions, fire hazards, and the like, and do not obligate a landlord to furnish housing with adequate protection from criminal activity. P. L. Williams et ano. v. William J. Davis, Inc. (D.C. App. 1971, 275 A. 2d 231).

Mootness

Where counsel for both parties in landlord's possessory actions represented to the trial court when the cases were called for trial that the tenants had vacated the premises sometime during the eight-month period between the filing of complaints and trial date, cases had become moot since no controversy remained between the parties. W. Atkins et al. v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 283 A. 2d 204).

Where the lessee moved out of leased office suite, and no writ of restitution was issued or threat of eviction was made by lessor, action by lessor against such lessee for possession of office suite for failure to pay rent became moot. S. Dietz v. Miles Holding Corporation (D.C. App. 1971, 277 A. 2d 108).

Nonpayment of rent

When part of tenant's rental obligation is suspended because of breach of implied warranty of habitability and part is found owing, no judgment for possession should issue if the tenant agrees to pay for partial rent found due; however, if the tenant refuses to pay such partial amount judgment for possession may then be entered. E. Javins v. First National Realty Corporation (1970, 428 F. 2d 1071, 138 U.S. App. D.C. 369; cert. denied 91 S. Ct. 186, 400 U.S. 925).

Tenant's obligation to pay rent is dependent on the landlord's performance of his obligations, excluding implied warranty to maintain premises in habitable condition. Id.

Pleading

Trial court, in action by lessor against lessees for possession of leased office suites for failure to pay rent, did not abuse its discretion in refusing to permit one lessee to amend his answer to allege that lessor had violated building code by failing to provide two means of egress from building since lessee must have been aware of building structure at time he leased suite and again two years later when he filed his first answer, and lessee did not explain or justify his failure to raise such defense timely. S. Dietz v. Miles Holding Corporation (D.C. App. 1971, 277 A. 2d 108).

Either the landlord, seeking to recover possession for failure to pay rent, or the tenant, seeking to defeat landlord's action on ground of breach of implied warranty of habitability, should be permitted to amend its complaint or answer at any time before trial to allege change in condition; in such event finder of fact should make a separate finding as to condition at time at which the amendment was filed and such new finding should have no effect on original actions but only affect distribution of any escrowed rent paid after filing of amendment. E. Javins v. First National Realty Corporation (1970, 428 F. 2d 1071, 138 U.S. App. D.C. 369; Cert. denied 91 S. Ct. 186, 400 U.S. 925).

Preliminary injunction

In this case where numerous other remedies were available to landlord, grant of preliminary injunction was improper prohibiting tenants, who claimed that buildings were in violation of housing code, from paying rent to third party and which directed rentals deposited to be paid into court for delivery to landlord even though landlord was in financial difficulty, was in default on trust payments, and was without other available funds. R. Dorfmann, et al., etc. v. R. B. Boozer, et al. (1969, 414 F. 2d 1168, 134 U.S. App. D.C. 272).

Protective measures

Lessee of office suite could not, on appeal from judgment for lessor in action for possession, assert that his failure to pay rent was justified on the theory that lessor had breached its duty to protect suite because of alleged burglaries that had taken place, where lessee did not allege or proffer that lessor had reduced protective measures in force at time he entered into possession. S. Dietz v. Miles Holding Corporation (D.C. App. 1971, 277 A. 2d 108).

Protective orders

Where jury had found that landlord's action for possession for nonpayment of rent must fail because of substantial housing code violations but jury still granted possession in landlord's action based on notice to quit, United States Court of Appeals for District of Columbia would grant petition for allowance of appeal from order of District of Columbia Court of Appeals denying stay of protective order entered by Court of General Sessions and would stay eviction pending its decision, but stay would be conditioned on tenant's making monthly payments to registry of Court of General Sessions in amount to be determined by the Court. C. Cooks v. R. A. Fowler (1971, 437 F. 2d 669 141 U.S. App. D.C. 236).

Res judicata

Landlord's possessory action when decided in favor of landlord determines finally as between the parties that there is a tenancy between the parties, that the lease between the parties is valid, and that rent is due and owing by tenant, and thus for all practical purposes a decision for landlord determines by principle of res judicata all other matters at issue between the two parties. W. Atkins et al. v. United States (D.C. App. 1971, 283 A. 2d 204).

§ 45-911. Arrears of rent and double rent.

In either case the landlord may join with his claim for recovery of the possession of the leased premises a claim for all arrears of rent accrued to the termination of the tenancy, and, when the tenant has given the notice, for double rent from the termination of the tenancy to the verdict, or judgment, if the trial be by the court and for damages for waste: Provided, That in such action before the Superior Court of the District of Columbia the amount so claimed shall be within its jurisdiction. If judgment for possession be rendered in favor of the plaintiff, he shall be entitled, at the same time, to a judgment for said arrears of rent, and for said double rent, as the case may be, to the date of the verdict or judgment as aforesaid, and for damages for waste. (Mar. 3, 1901, 31 Stat. 1382, ch. 854, § 1226; June 30, 1902, 32 Stat. 542, ch. 1329; Feb. 17, 1909, 35 Stat. 623, ch. 134; July 8, 1963, 77 Stat. 77, Pub. L. 88-60, § 1; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91-358, title I, § 155(a), 84 Stat. 570.)

§ 45-912. Consolidation of actions.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Construction

Action by assignee of broker to collect unpaid rent from lessee, who had vacated premises and had terminated its relationship with broker, falls within statute making it unlawful for any corporation to act as a real estate broker without first securing a license and prohibiting any corporation engaged in real estate activities from bringing a suit based on such activities unless it has acquired a real estate license, and unlicensed assignee, an independent collection agency working on a collection fee basis, is precluded from bringing action for unpaid rent. R. Harrison v. J. H. Marshall & Associates, Inc. (D.C. App. 1970, 271 A. 2d 404.)

Permitting others to use broker's license

It was proper to revoke a real estate broker's license who agreed to lend use of her license to a company for $50 per month plus $25 for each real estate transaction consummated, and who seldom visited company office and exercised no supervision over salesmen, one of whom testified that broker knew the salesmen were using her broker's license in arranging and negotiating mortgage loans. C. T. Cardoza v. Real Estate Commission etc. (D.C. App. 1969, 248 A. 2d 815).

A real estate broker's ignorance, who had agreed to lend use of license to company, as to the unlawful conduct of a salesman was no excuse since she in effect blindfolded herself and failed to inquire about significant happenings in the office. Id.

Property outside the District

A person employed as a real estate salesman of the officer-broker of mortgage company which was a District of Columbia corporation and who contracted in the District of Columbia with a salesman for the same company to negotiate a loan on Virginia real estate owned by a District of Columbia resident and who paid such person a commission was acting as a District of Columbia broker without a license in violation of statute. *J. Collection agency to which was assigned claim for rent by landlord after landlord-tenant relationship had terminated was merely attempting to collect debt, notwithstanding rent was technically being collected, and agency was not subject to real estate and business brokers' license act prohibiting the filing of a suit for rent by entity acting as real estate broker but not licensed as broker. Kelly Adjustment Co. v. J. Burton (D.C. App. 1971, 278 A. 2d 460).

Failure to file new bond

Evidence supported finding that real estate broker, after cancellation of bond, failed to file new bond within time period specified by real estate commission; accordingly, since broker had been notified that unless new bond was filed within period license would terminate, termination was not illegal. Carl O. Holloman v. Real Estate Commission etc. (D.C. App. 1968, 241 A. 2d 595).

Collection agency to which was assigned claim for rent by landlord after landlord-tenant relationship had terminated was merely attempting to collect debt, notwithstanding rent was technically being collected, and agency was not subject to real estate and business brokers' license act prohibiting the filing of a suit for rent by entity acting as real estate broker but not licensed as broker. Kelly Adjustment Co. v. J. Burton (D.C. App. 1971, 278 A. 2d 460).

Action by assignee of broker to collect unpaid rent from lessee, who had vacated premises and had terminated its relationship with broker, falls within statute making it unlawful for any corporation to act as a real estate broker without first securing a license and prohibiting any corporation engaged in real estate activities from bringing a suit based on such activities unless it has acquired a real estate license, and unlicensed assignee, an independent collection agency working on a collection fee basis, is precluded from bringing action for unpaid rent. R. Harrison v. J. H. Marshall & Associates, Inc. (D.C. App. 1970, 271 A. 2d 404).

§ 45-1408. Suspension or revocation of license—Causes enumerated.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 45-1409.

Construction

This section providing inter alia, that Real Estate Commission has power to suspend license where licensee demonstrates such unworthiness or incompetency to act as a real estate broker as to endanger the interest of the public is not void for vagueness. E. L. Greene v. Real Estate Commission of the Dist. of Col. (D.C. App. 1970, 263 A. 2d 634).

Issues not raised in lower court

Where defendant in real estate broker's action to recover commission did not raise issue in trial court of legality of oral listing of property with broker for sale, the Court of Appeals would not consider the issue. H. P. Miller v. J. Avrom (1967, 384 F. 2d 319, 127 U.S. App. D.C. 367).

Defendant's secondary reliance on statute of frauds in real estate broker's action to recover commission did not encompass issue of legality of oral listing with broker of property for sale and Court of Appeals could not consider the issue on appeal. Id.

Permitting others to use broker's license

It was proper to revoke a real estate broker's license who agreed to lend use of her license to a company for $50 per month plus $25 for each real estate transaction consummated, and who seldom visited company office and exercised no supervision over salesmen, one of whom testified that broker knew the salesmen were using her broker's license in arranging and negotiating mortgage loans. C. T. Cardoza v. Real Estate Commission etc. (D.C. App. 1969, 248 A. 2d 815).

A real estate broker's ignorance, who had agreed to lend use of license to company, as to the unlawful conduct of a salesman was no excuse since she in effect blindfolded herself and failed to inquire about significant happenings in the office. Id.

§ 45-1409. Hearing before suspension—Court review—Appeal.

The Commission shall, before denying an application for license, or before suspending or revoking any license, set the matter down for a public hearing, and at least ten days prior to the date set for the hearing it shall notify the applicant or licensee in writing of any charges made and shall afford said applicant or licensee an opportunity to be heard in person or by counsel in reference thereto. Such written notice may be served by delivery of same personally to the applicant or licensee or by mailing same by registered mail or by certified mail to the last-known business address of such applicant or licensee. If said applicant or licensee be a salesman the Commission shall also notify the broker employing him, or whose employ he is about to enter, by mailing notice by registered mail or by certified mail to the broker's last-known address. The hearing on such charges shall be at such time and place as the Commission shall prescribe. The Commission shall have the power to issue subpoenas or take testimony of any person by deposition in the same manner as prescribed by law in judicial procedure in the Superior Court of the District of Columbia in civil cases. It shall also have the power to require the production of books, records, papers, and documents by subpoena or otherwise. Any party to any hearing before the Commission shall have the right to the attendance of witnesses in his behalf at such hearing upon making request therefor to the Commission and designating the person or persons sought to be subpoenaed. If the Commission shall determine that any applicant is not qualified to receive a license, a license shall not be granted to said applicant, and if the Commission shall determine that any licensee is guilty of a violation of any of the provisions of §§ 45-1401 to 45-1418 this chapter, his or its licenses shall be suspended or revoked.

A final decision or determination of the Commission denying, suspending, or revoking a license may be reviewed in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals in the manner provided by the District of Columbia Administrative Procedure Act (D.C. Code, secs. 1-1501 to 1-1510).

Any party to the proceedings desiring it shall be furnished with a copy of such stenographic notes, upon the payment to the Commission of such reasonable fee as it shall, by general rule or regulation, prescribe. ## NOTES TO DECISIONS

Evidence—Sufficiency

In an appeal by a real estate broker from a decision of the Real Estate Commission in suspending his license for 15 days, the court held the Real Estate Commission could properly conclude upon its findings that broker's careless and callous failure to inform his client of reasons for difficulty in repaying deposit, of which he was a trustee, constituted such incompetence and untrustworthy conduct as to endanger the public interest. E. L. Greene v. Real Estate Commission of the Dist. of Col. (D.C. App. 1970, 263 A. 2d 634).

For such purposes the Administrator may administer oaths and affirmations; may require, by subpoena or otherwise, the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of documents at any designated place; may require persons to permit the inspection and copying of documents, and the inspection of housing accommodations; and may, by regulation or order, require the making and keeping of records and other documents. In the event of contumacy or refusal to obey any such subpoena or requirement under this section, the Administrator may make application to the Superior Court of the District of Columbia for an order requiring obedience thereto. Thereupon the court, with or without notice and hearing, as it in its discretion may decide, shall make such order as is proper and may punish as a contempt any failure to comply with such order.

TITLE 46.—SOCIAL SECURITY

Chapter 3.—UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION

§ 46-301. Definitions.

As used in this chapter, unless the context indicates otherwise—

(a) The term “employer” means every individual and type of organization for whom services are performed in employment;

(b) (1) “Employment” means:

(A) Any service performed prior to January 1, 1972, which was employment as defined in this subsection prior to such date and, subject to the other provisions of this subsection, service performed after December 31, 1971, including service in interstate commerce, by—

(i) any officer of a corporation; or

(ii) any individual who, under the usual common law rules applicable in determining the employer-employee relationship, has the status of an employee; or

(iii) any individual other than an individual who is an employee under subdivision (i) or (ii) who performs services for remuneration for any person—

(I) as an agent-driver or commission-driver engaged in distributing meat products, vegetable products, fruit products, bakery products, beverages (other than milk), or laundry or drycleaning services, for his principal;

(II) as a traveling or city salesman, other than as an agent-driver or commission-driver, engaged upon a full-time basis in the solicitation on behalf of, and the transmission to, his principal (except for side-line sales activities on behalf of some other person) of orders from wholesalers, retailers, contractors, or operators of hotels, restaurants, or other similar establishments for merchandise for resale or supplies for use in their business operations: Provided, That for purposes of subparagraph (A) (iii), the term “employment” shall include services described in (I) and (II) above performed after December 31, 1971, only if:

1. The contract of service contemplates that substantially all of the services are to be performed personally by such individual;

2. The individual does not have a substantial investment in facilities used in connection with the performance of the services (other than in facilities for transportation); and

3. The services are not in the nature of a single transaction that is not part of a continuing relationship with the person for whom the services are performed.

(B) Service performed after December 31, 1971, by an individual in the employ of the District or any of its instrumentalities (or in the employ of the District and one or more States or their instrumentalities) for a hospital or institution of higher education: Provided, That such service is excluded from “employment” as defined in the Federal Unemployment Tax Act (26 U.S.C. 3301-3311) solely by reason of section 3306(c) (7) of that Act (26 U.S.C. 3306(c) (7)) and is not excluded from “employment” under subsection (b) (1) (D);

(C) Service performed after March 30, 1962, by an individual in the employ of an educational organization, and service performed after December 31, 1971, by an individual in the employ of a religious, charitable, or other organization which is excluded from the term “employment” as defined in the Federal Unemployment Tax Act (26 U.S.C. 3301-3311) solely by reason of section 3306(c) (8) of that Act (26 U.S.C. 3306(c) (8)), except as provided in subsection (b) (1) (D);

(D) For the purposes of subparagraphs (B) and (C) the term “employment” does not apply to service performed after December 31, 1971—

(ii) by a duly ordained, commissioned, or licensed minister of a church in the exercise of his ministry or by a member of a religious order in the exercise of duties required by such order; or

(iii) in a facility conducted for the purpose of carrying out a program of rehabilitation for individuals whose earning capacity is impaired by age or physical or mental deficiency or injury providing remunerative work for individuals who because of their impaired physical or mental capacity cannot be readily absorbed in the competitive labor market, by an individual receiving such rehabilitation or remunerative work; or

(v) for a hospital in a State prison or other State correctional institution, by an inmate of the prison or correctional institution.

(E) The term “employment” shall include the service of an individual who is a citizen of the United States, performed outside the United States (except in Canada or the Virgin Islands), after December 31, 1971, in the employ of an American employer (other than service which is deemed “employment” under the provisions of subsection (b) (2) or the parallel provisions of another State’s law), if:

(i) the employer’s principal place of business in the United States is located in the District; or

(ii) the employer has no place of business in the United States, but

(I) the employer is an individual who is a resident of the District; or

(II) the employer is a corporation which is organized under the laws of the District or the laws of the United States; or

(III) the employer is a partnership or a trust and the number of the partners or trustees who are residents of the District is greater than the number who are residents of any one other State; or

(iii) none of the criteria of clauses (i) and (ii) of this subparagraph are met but the employer has elected coverage in the District or, the employer having failed to elect coverage in any State, the individual has filed a claim for benefits, based on such service, under the law of the District.

(iv) an "American employer", for purposes of this subparagraph, means a persons who is—

(I) an individual who is a resident of the United States; or

(II) a partnership if two-thirds or more of the partners are residents of the United States; or

(A) the service is localized in the District; or

(B) the service is not localized in any State but some of the service is performed in the District and (i) the individual's base of operations, or, if there is no base of operations, then the place from which such service is directed or controlled, is in the District; or (ii) the individual's base of operations or place from which such service is directed or controlled is not in any State in which some part of the service is performed but the individual's residence is in the District.

(C) the service is performed anywhere within the United States, the Virgin Islands, or Canada: Provided, That (i) such service is not covered under the unemployment compensation law of any State, the Virgin Islands, or Canada, and (ii) the place from which the service is directed or controlled is in the District.

Service shall be deemed to be localized within a State if—

(i) the service is performed entirely within such State; or

(ii) the service is performed both within and without such State, but the service performed without such State is incidental to the individual's service within the State, for example, is temporary or transitory in nature or consists of isolated transactions.

(3) Services covered by an arrangement pursuant to section 46-316 between the Board and the agency charged with the administration of any other State or Federal unemployment compensation law, pursuant to which all services performed by an individual for an employer are deemed to be performed entirely within the District, shall be deemed to be employment if the Board has approved an election of the employer for whom such services are performed, pursuant to which the entire service of such individual during the period covered by such election is deemed to be employment for an employer.

(4) Notwithstanding any other provisions of this subsection, the term "employment" shall also include all service performed after January 1, 1955, by an officer or member of the crew of an American vessel or American aircraft on or in connection with such vessel or aircraft: Provided, That the operating office from which the operations of such vessel or aircraft are ordinarily and regularly supervised, managed, directed, and controlled, is within the District.

the Internal Revenue Code (26 U.S. Code) for any year, the payments required of any instrumentality of the United States or its employees with respect to such year shall be refunded by the District Unemployment Compensation Board in accordance with the provisions of section 46-304 (i): Provided, however, That any employer required to make retroactive payment of any contributions shall be given thirty days from October 17, 1940, within which to make such retroactive payments without incurring any penalty for the late payment of such contributions and all interest charges shall commence one month from October 17, 1940;

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 46-303, 46-306 to 46-309.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Construction

The District of Columbia Minimum Wage Act [§ 36-401 et seq.] was intended to cover wages and hours of individuals working in transportation field solely within the District of Columbia, but does not apply to bus drivers who were engaged in interstate commerce, spending on the average 37.6 percent of working time in the District. K. C. Williams et al. v. W. M. A. Transit Company (D.C. App. 1970, 268 A. 2d 261.)

The purpose of Congress in enacting 1962 amendment to District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Act, was to deny exemption from the act to scientific, literary or educational entities but to continue exemption to those which had been organized and operated exclusively for religious or charitable purposes. Greater Southeast Community Hospital Foundation Inc., etc. v. District Unemployment Compensation Board (1969, 407 F. 2d 712, 132 U.S. App. D.C. 249).

Due process

Discriminatory classification of employees, created by Congress' legitimate interest in exempting charitable organizations from payment of unemployment taxes, by denying benefits to employees of exempt organizations, is reasonable and does not violate due process. T. F. Von Stauffenberg v. District Unemployment Compensation Board (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A. 2d 110).

Evaluation of exemption application

In a case where the hospital's application for exemption from the District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Act had not been evaluated under criteria ascertainable on the record before the Court of Appeals, the Court of Appeals remanded case to district court to the end that it be returned to the compensation board for a re-evaluation of its determination in light of court's opinion. Greater Southeast Community Hospital Foundation Inc., etc. v. District Unemployment Compensation Board (1969, 407 F. 2d 712, 132 U.S. App. D.C. 249).

§ 46-302. District Unemployment Fund.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 46-301, 46-314.

§ 46-303. Employer contributions.

(a) Each employer who employs one or more individuals in any employment shall for each month, beginning with the month of January 1936 and ending December 31, 1939, pay contributions equal to the following percentages of the total wages payable (regardless of the time of payment) with respect to such employment by him during such month:

(1) With respect to employment during the calendar year 1936, the rate shall be 1 per centum;

(2) With respect to employment during the calendar year 1937, the rate shall be 2 per centum;

(3) With respect to employment during the calendar years 1938 and 1939, the rate shall be 3 per centum.

(b) Each employer shall pay contributions equal to 2.7 per centum of wages paid by him during the calendar year 1940 and thereafter with respect to employment after December 31, 1939.

(c) FUTURE RATES BASED ON BENEFIT EXPERIENCE.—

(1) The Board shall maintain a separate account for each employer, and shall credit his account with all of the contributions paid by him after June 30, 1939, with respect to employment subsequent to May 31, 1939. Each year the Board shall credit to each of such accounts having a positive reserve on the computation date, the interest earned from the Federal Government in the following manner: Each year the ratio of the credit balance in each individual account to the total of all the credit balances in all employer accounts shall be computed as of such computation date, and an amount equal to the interest credited to the District's account in the unemployment trust fund in the Treasury of the United States for the four most recently completed calendar quarters shall be credited prior to the next computation date on the pro rata basis to all employers' accounts having a credit balance on the computation date. Such amount shall be prorated to the individual accounts in the same ratio that the credit balance in each individual account bears to the total of the credit balances in all such accounts. In computing the amount to be credited to the account of an employer as a result of interest earned by funds on deposit in the unemployment trust fund in the Treasury of the United States to the account of the District, any voluntary contribution made by an employer after June 30 of any year shall not be considered a part of the account balance of the employer until the next computation date occurring after such voluntary contribution was made. Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to grant any employer or individual in his service prior claims or rights to the amounts paid by him into the fund either on his own behalf or on behalf of such individuals.

(2) Benefits paid to an individual with respect to any week of unemployment which was based on an initial claim filed after June 30, 1939, and before July 1, 1940, shall be charged against the account of his most recent employer: Provided, That after December 31, 1971, benefits paid to an individual for any week during which he is attending a training or retraining course under the provisions of section 46-310(d) (2) or extended benefits paid to an exhaustee under the provisions of section 46-307(g) shall not be charged against such employer accounts. Benefits paid to an individual on an initial claim for benefits filed after June 30, 1940, shall be charged against the accounts of his base period employers. The amount of benefits so chargeable against each base period employer's account shall bear the same ratio to the total benefits paid to an individual as the base period wages paid to the individual by such employer bear to the total amount of the base period wages paid to the individual by all of his base period employers. The principal base period employer shall be notified of each payment of benefits to a claimant at the time of such payment.

(3) The standard rate of contributions shall be 2.7 per centum, except that after December 31, 1971, each employer newly subject to this chapter shall pay contributions at a rate equal to the average rate on taxable wages of all employers for the preceding calendar year (rounded to the next higher one-tenth of 1 per centum), or 1 per centum, whichever is higher (not exceeding 2.7 per centum) until he has been an employer for a sufficient period to meet the requirement to qualify for a reduced rate as provided in paragraph (4) of this subsection; thereafter, his contribution rate shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of such paragraph (4).

(4) (A) No employer's rate of contribution for any calendar year or part thereof shall be reduced below the standard rate unless and until his account could have been charged with benefits paid throughout the thirty-six-consecutive-calendar-month period ending on the computation date applicable to such year or part thereof. For the calendar years 1963 to 1971, inclusive, any employer who is subject to this chapter by virtue of the amendment of former section 46-301(b) (5) (G) by the Act of March 30, 1962, and who has not been subject to this chapter for a sufficient period to meet this requirement, may qualify for a rate less than the standard rate if his account could have been charged with benefit payments throughout a lesser period but, in no event, less than the twelve consecutive calendar months ending on the computation date (as herein defined) for that calendar year.

(B) If the amount of the fund as of June 30 of any year is less than 4 per centum of the total payrolls subject to contributions under this chapter for the twelve-consecutive-month period ending on the preceding December 1, the contribution rate for each employer (including newly subject employers) shall be increased by the percentage differential between said 4 per centum of such total payrolls and said fund's percentage of such total payrolls, but in no event shall the contribution rate for any employer be more than 2.7 per centum. Said percentage differential for each employer shall be computed to the next higher one-tenth of 1 per centum.

(C) If on December 20 of any year, the amount in the fund becomes less than 2 per centum of the total annual payrolls subject to contributions under the chapter for the twelve-consecutive-month period ending on the preceding June 30, the Board shall make a declaration to that effect. Effective the quarter following such announcement, each employer's (including each new subject employer's) rate of contribution shall be the standard rate.

(D) CONTRIBUTION RATES AFTER TERMINATION OF MILITARY SERVICE.—When the Board finds that the continuity of an employer's employment experience has been interrupted solely by reason of one or more of the owners, officers, managers, partners, or majority stockholders of such employer's employing enterprise having served in the armed forces of the United States of America or any of its allies during a time of war, such employer's employment experience shall be deemed to have been continuous throughout the period that such individual or individuals so served in such armed forces, including the period up to the time it again resumes the status of an employer liable for contributions under this chapter, provided it resumes such status within two years from the date of discharge of such individual or individuals or from the date of the termination of such war, whichever date is the earlier. For the purposes of this subparagraph (D), in determining an employer's contribution rate his average annual pay roll shall be the average of his last three annual pay rolls.

(5) The Board shall for any uncompleted portion of the calendar year beginning July 1, 1943, and for each calendar year thereafter classify employers in accordance with their actual experience in the payment of contributions and with respect to benefits charged against their accounts, except as provided in subsection (c) (3). Each employer's contribution rate for each subsequent year or part thereof shall be calculated on the basis of his records filed with the Board and benefit payments disbursed through the applicable computation date. The Board shall compute rates for the second six months of 1963 for all employers first acquiring the necessary twelve months' benefit experience under subsection (c) (4) (A) on the computation date June 30, 1963. Such rates shall be based upon such employer's experience in the payment of contributions and benefits charged against his account through June 30, 1963, prior to the crediting of his account with trust fund interest. All employers issued a rate for the second six months of 1963, under this subsection, shall have a computation date of September 30, 1963, for the calendar year 1964.

(6) If, as of the date such classification of employers is made, the Board finds that an employing unit has failed to file any report in connection therewith, or has filed a report which the Board finds incorrect or insufficient, the Board shall make an estimate of the information required from such employing unit on the basis of the best evidence reasonably available to it at the time, and notify the employing unit thereof by registered mail addressed to its last-known address. Unless such employing unit shall file the report or a correct or sufficient report, as the case may be, within fifteen days after the mailing of such notice, the Board shall compute such employing unit's rate of contribution on the basis of such estimates, and the rates so determined shall be subject to increase, but not to reduction, on the basis of subsequently ascertained information.

(7) (A) If 25 per centum or more of the business of any employer is transferred, the transferee shall be determined a successor for the purposes of this section.

(i) If the Board is unable to get information upon which to determine whether or not 25 per centum of the business has been transferred, it may, in its discretion, make such determination based upon the quarterly payrolls of the employers involved for the last complete calendar quarter prior to the transfer and the first complete calendar quarter after such transfer.

(ii) In the event of a transfer of 25 per centum or more of the assets of a covered employer's business by any means whatever, otherwise than in the ordinary course of trade, such transfer shall be deemed a transfer of business and shall constitute the transferee a successor hereunder, unless the Board, on its own motion or on application of an interested party, finds that all of the following conditions exist:

(I) The transferee has not assumed any of the transferor's obligations;

(II) The transferee has not continued or resumed transferor's goodwill;

(III) The transferee has not continued or resumed the business of the transferor, either in the same establishment or elsewhere; and

(IV) The transferee has not employed substantially the same employees as those the transferor had employed in connection with the assets transferred.

(B) The successor, if not already subject to this section, shall become an "employer" subject hereto on the date of such transfer, and shall accordingly become liable for contributions hereunder from and after said date.

(C) The successor shall take over and continue the employer's account, including its reserve and all other aspects of its experience under this section, in proportion to the payroll assignable to the transferred business as determined for the purposes of this section by the Board. However, his successor shall take over only the reserve actually credited to the account of the transferor or for which the transferor has filed a claim with the Board at the date of transfer. The successor shall be secondarily liable for any amounts owed by the employer to the fund at the time of such transfer; but such liability shall be proportioned to the extent of the transfer of business and shall not exceed the value of the assets transferred.

(D) The benefit chargeability of a successor's account under subsection (c), if not accrued before the transfer date, shall begin to accrue on the transfer date in case the transferor's benefit chargeability was then accruing; or shall begin to accrue on the date otherwise applicable to the successor, or on the date otherwise applicable to the transferor, whichever is earlier, in case the transferor's benefit chargeability was not accruing on the transfer date. Similarly, benefits from a successor's account, if not chargeable before the transfer date, shall become chargeable on the transfer date, in case the transferor was then chargeable for benefit payments; or shall become chargeable on the date otherwise applicable to the successor or on the date otherwise applicable to the transferor, whichever is earlier, in case the transferor was chargeable for benefit payments on the transfer date.

(E) The account taken over by the successor employer shall remain chargeable with respect to accrued benefit and related rights based on employment in the transferred business, and all such employment shall be deemed employment performed for such employer.

(F) Notwithstanding any other provisions of this section, if the successor employer was an employer subject to this chapter prior to the date of transfer, his rate of contributions the remainder of the calendar year shall be his rate with respect to the period immediately preceding his date of acquisition. If the successor was not an employer prior to the date of transfer, his rate shall be the rate applicable to the transferor or transferors with respect to the period immediately preceding the date of transfer: Provided, That there was only one transferor or there were only transferors with identical rates; if the transferor rates were not identical, the successor's rate shall be the highest rate applicable to any of the transferors with respect to the period immediately preceding the date of transfer. The rate of the transferor, if still subject to the chapter, will not be redetermined and shall remain the rate with respect to the period immediately preceding the date of transfer.

For future years, for the purposes of subsection (c), the Board shall determine the "experience under this section" of the successor employer's account and of the transferring employer's account by allocating to the successor employer's account for each period in question the respective proportions of the transferring employer's payroll, contributions, and the benefit charges which the Board determines to be properly assignable to the business transferred.

(8) Variations from the standard rates of contributions for each calendar year or part thereof shall be determined as of the applicable computation date in accordance with the following requirements:

(A) If as of the computation date the total of all contributions credited to any employer's account, with respect to employment since May 31, 1939, is in excess of the total benefits paid after June 30, 1939, then chargeable or charged to his account, such excess shall be known as the employer's reserve, and his contribution rate for the ensuing calendar year or part thereof shall be—

(i) 2.7 per centum if such reserve is less than 0.5 per centum of his average annual payroll;

(ii) 2 per centum if such reserve equals or exceeds 0.5 per centum but is less than 1 per centum of his average annual payroll;

(iii) 1.5 per centum if such reserve equals or exceeds 1 per centum but is less than 1.5 per centum of his average annual payroll;

(iv) 1 per centum if such reserve equals or exceeds 1.5 per centum but is less than 2.5 per centum of his average annual payroll;

(v) 0.5 per centum if such reserve equals or exceeds 2.5 per centum but is less than 3 per centum of his average annual payroll;

(vi) 0.1 per centum if such reserve equals or exceeds 3 per centum of his average annual payroll.

(B) If as of the computation date the total amount of benefits paid and chargeable to an employer's account for the periods after June 30, 1939, is more than the total contributions credited to his account with respect to employment since May 31, 1939, then his contribution rate for the ensuing calendar year or part thereof shall be 2.7 per centum except as provided in subsection (c)(3).

(C) Except as otherwise provided in this section, whenever through inadvertence or mistake erroneous charges or credits are found to have been made to experience-rating accounts, the same shall be readjusted as of the date of discovery and such readjustment shall not affect any computation or rate assigned prior to the date of discovery but shall be used on the next computation date in calculating future contribution rates.

(D) Any employer, at any time, may voluntarily pay into the unemployment compensation fund an amount in excess of the contributions required to be paid under the provisions of this chapter, and such amount shall be forthwith credited to his reserve account. His rate of contribution shall be computed, or recomputed, as the case may be, with such amount included in the calculation. To affect such employer's rate of contribution for any year, such amount shall be paid not later than thirty days following the mailing of notice of his rate of contribution for such year, and not later than one hundred and twenty days after the commencement of such year. Such amount, when paid as aforesaid, shall not be refunded or used as a credit in the payment of contributions in whole or in part.

(9) As used in this subsection—

(A) The term "annual pay roll" means the total amount of wages for employment paid by an employer during a twelve-month period ending ninety days prior to the computation date;

(B) The term "average annual pay roll", except for the purposes of paragraph (4) (D) of this subsection, means the average of the annual pay rolls of any employer for the three consecutive twelve-month periods ending ninety days prior to the computation date: Provided, That for an employer whose account could have been charged with benefit payments throughout at least twelve but less than thirty-six consecutive calendar months ending on the computation date, the term "average annual pay roll" means the total amount of wages for employment paid by him during the twelve-month period ending ninety days prior to the computation date;

(C) The term "base period wages" means the wages paid to an individual during his base period for employment;

(D) The term "base period employers" means the employers by whom an individual was paid his base period wages;

(E) The term "most recent employer" means that employer who last employed such individual immediately prior to such individual's filing an initial claim for benefits.

(10) At least one month prior to the final date upon which the first contributions for any calendar year or part thereof become due from any employer at a contribution rate determined under this subsection, the Board shall notify such employer of his rate of contributions and of the benefit charges upon which such rate was based. Such determination shall become conclusive and binding upon the employer unless, within thirty days after the mailing of notice thereof to his last-known address, or in the absence of mailing, within thirty days after the delivery of such notice, the employer files an application for review and a redetermination, setting forth his reasons therefor. Upon receipt of such application, the Board shall voluntarily adjust such matter or shall grant an opportunity for a fair hearing and promptly notify the employer thereof. All such hearings shall be held before a Contribution Rate Review Committee composed of three members who shall be employees of the Board and appointed by the Board. The findings and decision of this Committee shall not be subject to review by the District Auditor. No employer shall have standing, in any proceeding involving his rate of contributions or contribution liability, to contest the chargeability of his account of any benefits paid in accordance with a determination, redetermination, or decision pursuant to section 46-311, except on the ground that the services on the basis of which such benefits were found to be chargeable do not constitute services performed in employment for him and only in the event that he was not a party to such determination, redetermination, or decision or to any other proceedings under this chapter in which the character of such services was determined. The employer shall be promptly notified of the Board's denial or his application or of the Board's redetermination, both of which shall become final unless, within thirty days after the mailing of such notice thereof to his last-known address, or in the absence of mailing, within thirty days after the delivery of such notice, a petition for judicial review is filed in the Superior Court of the District of Columbia. In any proceedings under this subsection the findings of the Board as to the facts, if supported by evidence and in the absence of fraud, shall be conclusive and the jurisdiction of said court shall be confined to questions of law. Such proceedings shall be given precedence over all other civil cases except cases arising under section 46-312 and under section 36-501.

(11) After December 31, 1971, the separate account established for an employer under the provisions of paragraph (1) of this subsection shall be discontinued effective the calendar quarter next succeeding three calendar years after the employer has been determined out of business. Thereafter no employer shall have any right to or interest in such discontinued account.

(d) The contributions payable pursuant to subsections (b) and (c) of this section shall become due and be paid by each employer to the Board in accordance with such regulations as the Board may prescribe, and shall not be deducted in whole or in part from the wages of individuals in such employer's employ.

(e) From December 31, 1939, to January 1, 1955, wages, for the purpose of this section, shall not include any amount in excess of $3,000 paid by an employer to any person arising out of his or her employment during any calendar year. From January 1, 1955, to December 31, 1971, wages shall not include any amount in excess of $3,000 actually paid by an employer to any person during any calendar year. After December 31, 1971, wages shall not include any amount in excess of $4,200 (or in excess of the limitation on the amount of taxable wages fixed by the Federal Unemployment Tax Act (26 U.S.C. 3301-3311), whichever is greater) actually paid by an employer to any person during any calendar year. After December 31, 1954, the term "employment" for the purpose of this subsection shall include services constituting employment under any employment security law of a State or of the Federal Government. After December 31, 1971, the term "employment" for the purpose of this subsection shall include services constituting employment performed in the employ of a transferor as determined under the provisions of subsection (c) (7).

(f) In the event the District of Columbia should elect to cover employees under this chapter under the provisions of section 46-301 (b) (8) (A), or in the event any of its instrumentalities are required to be covered under this chapter, in lieu of contributions required of employers under this chapter, the District of Columbia shall pay into the fund an amount equivalent to the amount of benefits paid to individuals based on wages paid by the District. If benefits paid an individual are based on wages paid by both the District of Columbia and one or more other employers, the amount payable by the District to the fund shall bear the same ratio to total benefits paid to the individual as the base-period wages paid to the individual by the District of Columbia bears to the total amount of the base-period wages paid to the individual by all of his base-period employers.

The amount of payment required under this section shall be ascertained by the Board quarterly and shall be paid from the general funds of the District at such time and in such manner as the Commissioners of the District of Columbia may prescribe except that to the extent that benefits are paid on wages paid by the District from special administrative funds, the payment by the District into the unemployment fund shall be made from such special funds. The District of Columbia shall be liable only for 50 per centum of any extended benefits paid.

(g) Contributions due under this chapter with respect to wages for insured work shall, for the purpose of this section, be deemed to have been paid to the fund as of the date payment was made as contributions therefor under another State or Federal employment security law if payment into the fund of such contributions is made on such terms as the director finds will be fair and reasonable as to all affected interests: Provided, That liability to the fund shall not exceed contributions for the three calendar years next preceding the quarter in which liability was determined. Payments to the fund under this subsection shall be deemed to be contributions for purposes of this section.

(h) Notwithstanding any other provisions of this section, benefits paid to employees of nonprofit organizations shall be financed in accordance with the provisions of this subsection. For the purpose of this subsection and subsection (i), a nonprofit organization is an organization (or group of organizations) described in section 501(c) (3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 [26 U.S.C. 501(c) (3)] which is exempt from income tax under section 501(a) of such Code [26 U.S.C. 501(a)].

(1) Any nonprofit organization which, pursuant to section 46-301(b) (1) (C), is, or becomes, subject to this chapter on or after January 1, 1972, shall pay contributions under the provisions of subsection (c), unless it elects, in accordance with this paragraph to pay to the Board for the District Unemployment Fund an amount equal to the amount of regular benefits plus one-half of the amount of extended benefits paid that is attributable to service in the employ of such nonprofit organization, to individuals for weeks of unemployment which begin during the effective period of such election.

(A) Any nonprofit organization which is, or becomes, subject to this Act on January 1, 1972, may elect to become liable for payments in lieu of contributions for a period of not less than one taxable year beginning with January 1, 1972: Provided, That it files with the Board a written notice of its election within the thirty-day period immediately following such date or within a like period immediately following the date of enactment of this subparagraph whichever occurs later.

(B) Any nonprofit organization which becomes subject to this chapter after January 1, 1972, may elect to become liable for payments in lieu of contributions for a period of not less than the remainder of that and the next year beginning with the date on which such liability begins by filing a written notice of its election with the Board not later than thirty days immediately following the date of the determination of such liability.

(C) Any nonprofit organization which makes an election in accordance with subparagraph (A) or subparagraph (B) of this paragraph will continue to be liable for payments in lieu of contributions until it files with the Board a written notice terminating its election not later than thirty days prior to the beginning of the taxable year for which such termination shall first be effective.

(D) Any nonprofit organization which has been paying contributions under this chapter for a period subsequent to January 1, 1972 may change to a reimbursable basis by filing with the Board not later than thirty days prior to the beginning of any taxable year a written notice of election to become liable for payments in lieu of contributions. Such election shall not be terminal by the organization for that and the next year.

(E) The Board may for good cause extend the period within which a notice of election, or a notice of termination, must be filed and may permit an election to be retroactive but not any earlier than with respect to benefits paid after December 31, 1969.

(F) The Board, in accordance with such regulations as it may prescribe, shall notify each nonprofit organization of any determination which the Board may make of its status as an employer and of the effective date of any election which it makes and of any termination of such election. Such determinations shall be subject to reconsideration, appeal and review in accordance with the provisions of subsection (c).

(2) Payments in lieu of contributions shall be made in accordance with the provisions of this paragraph including either subparagraph (A) or subparagraph (B).

(A) At the end of each calendar quarter, or at the end of any other period as determined by the Board, the Board shall bill each nonprofit organization (or group of such organizations) which has elected to make payments in lieu of contributions for an amount equal to the full amount of regular benefits plus one-half of the amount of extended benefits paid that is attributable to service in the employ of such organization.

(B) (i) Each nonprofit organization that has elected payments in lieu of contributions may request permission to make such payments as provided in this subparagraph. Such method of payment shall become effective upon approval by the Board.

(ii) At the end of each calendar quarter, or at the end of such other period as determined by the Board, the Board shall bill each nonprofit organization for an amount representing one of the following:

(I) For 1972, one-fourth of 1 percent of its total payroll for 1971.

(II) For years after 1972, such percentage of its total payroll for the immediately preceding calendar year as the Board shall determine. Such determination shall be based each year on the average benefit costs attributable to service in the employ of nonprofit organizations during the preceding calendar year.

(III) For any organization which did not pay wages throughout the four calendar quarters of the preceding calendar year, such percentage of its payroll during such year as the Board shall determine.

(iii) At the end of each taxable year, the Board may modify the quarterly percentage of payroll thereafter payable by the nonprofit organization in order to minimize excess or insufficient payments.

(iv) At the end of each taxable year, the Board shall determine whether the total of payments for such year made by a nonprofit organization is less than, or in excess of, the total amount of regular benefits plus one-half of the amount of extended benefits paid to individuals during such taxable year based on wages attributable to service in the employ of such organization. Each nonprofit organization whose total payments for such year are less than the amount so determined shall be liable for payment of the unpaid balance to the fund in accordance with subparagraph (C). If the total payments exceed the amount so determined for the taxable year, all or a part of the excess may, at the discretion of the Board, be refunded from the fund or retained in the fund as part of the payments which may be required for the next taxable year.

(C) Payment of any bill rendered under subparagraph (A) or subparagraph (B) shall be made not later than thirty days after such bill was mailed to the last known address of the nonprofit organization or was otherwise delivered to it, unless there has been an application for review and redetermination in accordance with subparagraph (E).

(D) Payments made by a nonprofit organization under the provisions of this subsection shall not be deducted or deductible, in whole or in part, from the remuneration of individuals in the employ of the organization.

(E) The amount due specified in any bill from the Board shall be conclusive on the organization unless, not later than fifteen days after the bill was mailed to its last known address or otherwise delivered to it, the organization files an application for redetermination by the Board, setting forth the grounds for such application or appeal. The Board shall promptly review and reconsider the amount due specified in the bill and shall thereafter issue a redetermination in any case in which such application for redetermination has been filed. Any such redetermination shall be conclusive on the organization unless the organization files an appeal as set forth in subsection (c) (10), setting forth the grounds for the appeal.

(F) Past due payments of amounts in lieu of contributions shall be subject to the same interest and penalties that, pursuant to section 46-304(c), apply to past due contributions.

(3) In the discretion of the Director, any nonprofit organization that elects to become liable for payments in lieu of contributions shall be required within thirty days after the effective date of its election, to execute and file with the Board a surety bond approved by the Director, or it may elect instead to deposit with the Board money. The amount of such bond or deposit shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of this paragraph.

(A) The amount of the bond or deposit required by this paragraph shall be equal to one-fourth of 1 per centum of the organization's total wages paid for employment as defined in section 46-301(b) (1)

(C) for the four calendar quarters immediately preceding the effective date of the election, the renewal date in the case of a bond, or the biennial anniversary of the effective date of election in the case of a deposit of money, whichever date shall be most recent and applicable. If the nonprofit organization did not pay wages in each of such four calendar quarters, the amount of the bond or deposit shall be as determined by the Director.

(B) Any bond deposited under this paragraph shall be in force for a period of not less than two taxable years and shall be renewed with the approval of the Director at such times as the Director may prescribe, but not less frequently than at two-year intervals as long as the organization continues to be liable for payments in lieu of contributions. The Director shall require adjustments to be made in a previously filed bond as he deems appropriate. If the bond is to be increased, the adjusted bond shall be filed by the organization within fifteen days of the date notice of the required adjustment was mailed or otherwise delivered to it. Failure by any organization covered by such bond to pay the full amount of payments in lieu of contributions when due, together with any applicable interest and penalties provided for in section 46-304(c), shall render the surety liable on said bond to the extent of the bond, as though the surety was such organization.

(C) Any deposit of money in accordance with this paragraph shall be retained by the Board in an escrow account until liability under the election is terminated, at which time it shall be returned to the organization, less any deductions as hereinafter provided. The Director may deduct from the money deposited under this paragraph by a nonprofit organization to the extent necessary to satisfy any due and unpaid payments in lieu of contributions and any applicable interest and penalties provided for in section 46-304(c). The Director shall require the organization within fifteen days following any deduction from a money deposit under the provisions of this subparagraph to deposit sufficient additional money to make whole the organization's deposit at the prior level. The Director may, at anytime, review the adequacy of the deposit made by any organization. If, as the result of such review, he determines that an adjustment is necessary, he shall require the organization to make additional deposit within fifteen days of written notice of his determination or shall return to it such portion of the deposit as he no longer considers necessary, whichever action is appropriate.

(D) If any nonprofit organization fails to file a bond or make a deposit, or to file a bond in an increased amount or to increase or make whole the amount of a previously made deposit, as provided under this paragraph, the Director may terminate such organization's election to make payments in lieu of contributions and such termination shall continue for not less than the four-consecutive-calendar-quarter period beginning with the quarter in which such termination becomes effective: Provided, That the Director may extend for good cause the applicable filing, deposit or adjustment period by not more than fifteen days.

(4) If any nonprofit organization is delinquent in making payments in lieu of contributions as required under paragraph (2) of this subsection, the Board may terminate such organization's election to make payments in lieu of contributions as of the beginning of the next taxable year, and such termination shall be effective for that and the next taxable year.

(5) Each employer that is liable for payments in lieu of contributions shall pay to the Board for the fund the amount of regular benefits plus one-half of the amount of extended benefits paid that are attributable to service in the employ of such employer. If benefits paid to an individual are based on wages paid by more than one employer and one or more of such employers are liable for payments in lieu of contributions, the amount payable to the fund by each employer that is liable for such payments shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of subparagraph (A) or subparagraph (B).

(A) If benefits paid to an individual are based on wages paid by one or more employers that are liable for payments in lieu of contributions and on wages paid by one or more employers who are liable for contributions, the amount of benefits payable by each employer that is liable for payments in lieu of contributions shall be an amount which bears the same ratio to the total benefits paid to the individual as the total base-period wages paid to the individual by such employer bear to the total base-period wages paid to the individual by all of his base-period employers.

(B) If benefits paid to an individual are based on wages paid by two or more employers that are liable for payments in lieu of contributions, the amount of benefits payable by each such employer shall be an amount which bears the same ratio to the total benefits paid to the individual as the total base-period wages paid to the individual by such employer bear to the total base-period wages paid to the individual by all of his base-period employers.

(6) Two or more employers that have become liable for payments in lieu of contributions, in accordance with the provisions of subsection (h) (1), may file a joint application to the Board for the establishment of a group account for the purpose of sharing the cost of benefits paid that are attributable to service in the employ of such employers. Each such application shall identify and authorize a group representative to act as the group's agent for the purposes of this paragraph. Upon approval of the application, the Board shall establish a group account for such employers effective as of the beginning of the calendar quarter in which it receives the application and shall notify the group's representative of the effective date of the account. Such account shall remain in effect for not less than two years and thereafter until terminated at the discretion of the Board or upon application by the group. Upon establishment of the account, each member of the group shall be liable for payments in lieu of contributions with respect to each calendar quarter in the amount that bears the same ratio to the total benefits paid in such quarter that are attributable to service performed in the employ of all members of the group as the total wages paid for service in employment by such member in such quarter bear to the total wages paid during such quarter for service performed in the employ of all members of the group. The Board shall prescribe such regulations as it deems necessary with respect to applications for establishment, maintenance, and termination of group accounts that are authorized by this paragraph, for addition of new members to, and withdrawal of active members from, such accounts, and for the determination of the amounts that are payable under this paragraph by members of the group and the time and manner of such payments.

(i) Notwithstanding any provisions in subsection (h) any nonprofit organization that prior to January 1, 1969, paid contributions required by subsection (c) and, pursuant to subsection (h), elects within thirty days after January 1, 1972, to make payments in lieu of contributions, shall not be required to make any such payment on account of any benefits paid, on the basis of wages paid by such organization to individuals for weeks of unemployment which began on or after the effective date of such election until the total amount of such benefits equals the amount of the positive balance in the experience rating account of such organization. ## NOTES TO DECISIONS

Notice to base period employers

Under section of Unemployment Compensation Act that claimant and other parties to proceedings shall be promptly notified of initial determination with respect to whether or not benefits may be payable, notice to all "base period employers" is required. District Unemployment Compensation Board v. W. Hahn & Co., Inc. (1968, 399 F.2d 987, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 254).

Under section of Unemployment Compensation Act providing that if disqualification of claimant of benefits has been alleged or may exist benefits shall not be paid prior to expiration of period for appeal, there must be some opportunity to challenge claimant's eligibility before payments are made. Id.

§ 46-304. Method of paying employer contributions.

(a) The contributions required by section 46-303, or payment in lieu of contributions under section 46-303(h), shall be paid to and collected by the Board, and shall, immediately upon collection, be deposited in the clearing account of the fund. All moneys so required to be paid to and collected by the Board shall be subject to audit by the District auditor.

(b) Not later than the last day of the following month after the close of each calendar quarter, or at such other time as the Board may by regulations prescribe, every employer shall make a return of, and shall pay the contributions which shall have accrued with respect to, wages paid during such quarter with respect to employment; except as provided in section 46-303(h). Wages unpaid solely because of a court order appointing a fiduciary shall be deemed constructively paid when due. Each such return shall be filed with the Board, and shall contain such information and be made in such manner as the Board may by regulation prescribe. No extension of time for filing the return or for payment of the contributions shall be allowed to any employer, except as herein provided.

(c) (1) If contributions or payments in lieu of contributions under section 46-303(h) are not paid when due, there shall be added interest at the rate of one-half of 1 per centum per month or fraction thereof from the date they become due until paid: Provided, That interest shall not run against a court-appointed fiduciary when the contributions or payments in lieu of contributions under section 46-303(h) are not paid timely because of a court order.

(2) If contributions or wage reports are not filed on or before the fifteenth day of the second month following the close of the calendar quarter for which they are due or contributions, or payments in lieu of contributions under section 46-303(h), are not paid by that time, there shall be added a penalty of 10 per centum of the contributions, or payments in lieu of contributions under section 46-303(h), but such penalty shall not be less than $5 nor more than $25 and for good cause such penalty may be waived by the Board.

(d) In the event of the death, dissolution, insolvency, receivership, bankruptcy, composition, or assignment for benefit of creditors of any employer, contributions, or payments in lieu of contributions under section 46-303(h), then or thereafter due from such employer under this section shall have priority over all other claims, except taxes due the United States or the District, and wages (not exceeding $600 with respect to any individual) due for services performed within the three months preceding such event.

(e) If any employer liable to pay the contribution, or payments in lieu of contributions under section 46-303(h), imposed by section 46-303 neglects and refuses to pay the same after demand, the amount (including any interest) shall be a lien upon all of the property and rights to property, whether real or personal belonging to such person. Such lien shall not be valid as against any mortgagee, pledgee, purchaser, or judgment creditor until notice thereof has been filed by the Board with the Recorder of Deeds of the District of Columbia. The Board may cause a civil action to be filed in the Superior Court of the District of Columbia to enforce the aforesaid lien by sale of any property or rights to property, whether real or personal, of the delinquent employer affected by said lien. All persons having liens upon or claiming any interest in the property or rights to property sought to be sold, as aforesaid, shall be made parties to the proceedings and brought into court. The court shall proceed to adjudicate all matters involved therein and finally determine the merits of all claims to a lien upon the property and rights to the property in question, and in all cases where a claim or interest of the Board therein is established, may decree a sale of such property and rights of property by the proper officer of the court, and any sale made pursuant to such proceedings shall be made subject to any and all valid liens existing against said property or rights to property, at the date of filing of the notice of lien. Such action shall be heard by the court at the earliest possible date, and shall be entitled to preference on the calendar of the court over all other civil actions except petitions for judicial review of this chapter. In any suit to enforce a lien hereunder the owner of the property or rights of property affected by said lien may be allowed to file with the clerk of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia a written undertaking with two or more sureties to be approved by the court, or with corporate surety approved by the court, to the effect that he and they will pay the judgment that may be recovered and costs which judgment shall be rendered against all the persons so undertaking. Upon the approval of said undertaking the property or rights of property shall be released from such lien. No such undertaking shall be approved by the court until the owner of the property or rights of property in question shall have given at least two days' notice to the Board of his intention to apply to the courts therefor. Each notice shall give the names and residences of the persons intended to be offered as sureties and the time when the motion for such approval will be made, and such sureties shall make oath if required that they are worth over and above all debts and liabilities double the amount of said lien. The Board may appear and object to such approval. When corporate surety is offered and the undertaking bears a certificate of the clerk of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia that said corporation holds authority from the Secretary of the Treasury to do business in the District of Columbia and has a process agent therein, no notice shall be required. Such an undertaking as above mentioned may be offered before any suit is brought in order to discharge the property from such lien, in which case notice shall be given as aforesaid to the Board and the same proceedings shall be had as above directed in relation to the undertaking to be given after the commencement of the suit, except that when the surety is a corporation and the undertaking bears a certificate of the clerk of said Superior Court of the District of Columbia that said corporation holds authority from the Secretary of the Treasury to do business in the District of Columbia, and has a process agent therein, no notice shall be required; and said undertaking shall be to the effect that the owner of said property or rights of property and his said sureties will pay any judgment that may be rendered in any suit that may thereafter be brought for the enforcement of said lien. If such undertaking be approved before any suit is brought, the surety or sureties may be made parties to such suit; if the undertaking be approved after suit is brought, the surety or sureties shall ipso facto become parties to the suit, and in either case the decree of the court shall be against the surety or sureties as well as the owner. Subject to such regulations as the Board may prescribe, the Board shall issue a certificate of release of the lien if the Board finds that the liability for the amount of the contribution, or payments in lieu of contributions under section 46-303(h), imposed, together with all interest in respect thereof, has been satisfied or for any other reason deemed proper by the Board. Such lien shall continue to be valid for a period of ten years from the date of filing of the notice thereof with the Recorder of Deeds of the District of Columbia, unless the same shall have been released of record, as hereinbefore provided. The foregoing remedy of the Board shall be cumulative and no action taken by the Board shall be or be construed to be an election on the part of the Board to pursue any remedy hereunder to the exclusion of any other remedy for which provision is made in this chapter.

(f) Whenever any employing unit contracts with or has under it any contractor or subcontractor for any employment which is a part of its usual trade, occupation, profession, or business, said employing unit shall report to the Board, in accordance with applicable regulations, the name and address of each and every such contractor or subcontractor so employed. Unless such report is made the employing unit shall for all purposes of the chapter be deemed to employ each individual in the employ of each such contractor or subcontractor for each day during which such individual is engaged solely in performing such employment. Any employing unit who thus becomes liable for and pays contributions with respect to individuals in the employ of any such contractor or subcontractor, however, may recover same from such contractor or subcontractor.

(g) In payment of any contribution, a fractional part of a cent shall be disregarded unless it amounts to one-half cent or more, in which case it shall be increased to 1 cent.

(h) COLLECTIONS.—If, after due notice, any employer defaults in any payment of contributions or interest thereon, the amount due may be collected by the Board or its designated agent in the manner provided by law for the collection of taxes due the District on personal property in force at the time of such collection (including collection thereof by distraint), or by civil action in the name of the Board, and the employer adjudged in default shall pay the costs of such action. Civil actions brought under this section to collect contributions or interest or penalty thereon from an employer shall be heard by the court at the earliest possible date and shall be entitled to preference upon the calendar of the court over all other civil actions except petitions for judicial review of this chapter. This subsection shall not be construed to mean that the Board shall be required to use only this means of collecting delinquent contributions but it may use any other legal method which it deems advisable.

(i) REFUNDS.—If not later than three years after the date on which any contributions (or payments in lieu of contributions under section 46-303(h)) or interest thereon were paid, an employing unit which has paid such contributions (or payments in lieu of contributions under section 46-303(h)) or interest thereon shall make application for an adjustment thereof in connection with subsequent contribution payments (or payments in lieu of contributions under section 46-303(h)) or for a refund thereof because such adjustment cannot be made, and the Board shall determine that such contributions (or payments in lieu of contributions under section 46-303(h)) or interest on any portion thereof was erroneously collected, the Board shall allow such employing unit to make an adjustment thereof, without interest, in connection with subsequent contribution payments (or payments in lieu of contributions under section 46-303(h)) by it, or if such adjustment cannot be made the Board shall refund said amount, without interest, from the clearing account or benefit account upon checks issued by the Board or its duly authorized agent. For like cause and within the same period, adjustment or refund may be so made on the Board's own initiative. Should benefits have been paid based upon work records filed by the employing unit, claiming an adjustment or refund, such benefit should be disregarded for purposes of figuring such adjustment or refund, and any such benefit payments already having been made at the time of the adjustment or refund, based upon records filed with this Board by such employing unit, shall to that extent be allowed and shall not be deemed to have been paid erroneously.

(j) The Board in its discretion, whenever it may deem it administratively advisable, may charge off of its books any unpaid account due the Board or any credit due an employer who has been out of business for a period of more than three years. Whenever an account is charged off by the Board, there shall be placed in the minutes of the Board a reason for such action.

(k) The Board, or the executive officer provided for under section 46-315(b), with the consent of the Board, may prescribe the extent, if any, to which any ruling, regulation, or decision relating to this chapter shall be applied without retroactive effect.

(l) The Board may compromise any civil case arising under this chapter. Whenever a compromise is made by the Board in each such case, there shall be placed in the minutes of the Board the opinion of an attorney of the Board with the reasons therefor, including a statement of (1) the amount of the contributions, or payments in lieu of contributions under section 46-303(h), due, (2) the amount of interest due on the same, and (3) the amount actually paid in accordance with the terms of the compromise.

There is hereby established in the Treasury of the United States a special escrow account into which the Board shall deposit all funds received in connection with an offer of compromise. Such funds shall be kept in such escrow account until final action is had upon the offer of compromise and shall not be subject to offset for any indebtedness whatsoever. In the event the compromise is approved, the funds shall be transferred to the District Unemployed Compensation Funds. In the event the compromise is disapproved, the funds shall be immediately returned to the individual who made the offer of compromise. For like cause and within the same period, adjustment or refund may be so made on the Board's own initiative. Should benefits have been paid based upon work records filed by the employing unit, claiming an adjustment or refund, such benefit should be disregarded for purposes of figuring such adjustment or refund, and any such benefit payments already having been made at the time of the adjustment or refund, based upon records filed with this Board by such employing unit, shall to that extent be allowed and shall not be deemed to have been paid erroneously. #### § 46-307. Amount and duration of benefits.

(a) On and after January 1, 1938, benefits shall become payable from the benefit account of the District unemployment fund. All benefits shall be paid through employment offices, in accordance with such regulations as the Board may prescribe.

(b) An individual's "weekly benefit amount" shall be an amount equal to one twenty-third (computed to the next higher multiple of $1) of his total wages for insured work paid during that quarter of his base period in which such total wages were highest, with such other following limitations. The Director shall determine annually a maximum weekly benefit amount by computing 66⅔ per centum of the average weekly wage paid to employees in insured work, and shall on or before January 1 of the calendar year in which it shall be effective announce by publication in at least one newspaper of general circulation in the District, the maximum weekly benefit amount so determined. Such computation shall be made by determining total wages reported as paid for insured work by employers in each twelve-month period ending June 30, and dividing said total wages by a figure resulting from fifty-two times the average of mid-month employment reported by employers for the same period. For the period from the effective date of this Act to December 31, 1962, the maximum weekly benefit amount shall be determined and announced by the Director in accordance with the foregoing formula on the basis of wages and employment in the twelve-month period ending June 30, 1961. The maximum weekly benefit amount so determined and announced for a calendar year shall apply only to those claims filed in that year qualifying for maximum payment under the foregoing formula. All claims qualifying for payment at the maximum weekly benefit amount shall be paid at the maximum weekly benefit amount in effect when the benefit year to which the claim relates was first established, notwithstanding a change in said amount for a subsequent calendar year. If the maximum weekly benefit amount is not a multiple of $1, then said maximum weekly benefit amount shall be computed to the next higher multiple of $1.

(c) To qualify for benefits an individual must have (1) been paid wages for employment of not less than $300 in one quarter in his base period, (2) been paid wages for employment of not less than $450 in not less than two quarters in such period, and (3) received during such period wages the total amount of which is equal to at least one and one-half times the amount of his wages actually received in the quarter in such period in which his wages were the highest. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (3), any otherwise qualified individual, the total amount of whose wages during such period is less than the amount required to have been received during such period under such paragraph, may qualify for benefits, if the difference between the amounts so required to have been received and the total amount of his wages during such period does not exceed $70, but the amount of his weekly benefit, as computed under subsection (b), shall be reduced by $1 if such difference does not exceed $35 or by $2 if such difference is more than $35. Wages received by an individual in the period intervening between the end of his last base period and the beginning of his last benefit year shall not be available for benefit purposes in a subsequent benefit year unless he has, subsequent to the commencement of such last benefit year, performed services for which he received remuneration for personal services, whether or not such services were performed in employment as defined in this chapter, in an amount equal to at least ten times the weekly benefit amount for which he qualifies in such last benefit year. Benefits payable to an individual with respect to a week shall be reduced, under regulations prescribed by the Board, by any amount received or applied for with respect to such week as a retirement pension or annuity under a public or private retirement plan or system provided, or contributed to, by any base period employer. An amount received with respect to a period other than a week shall be prorated by weeks. No reduction shall be made under the preceding two sentences for any amount received under title II of the Social Security Act [42 U.S.C. 401 et seq.].

(d) Any otherwise eligible individual shall be entitled during any benefit year to a total amount of benefits equal to thirty-four times his weekly benefit amount or 50 percent of the wages for employment paid to such individual by employers during his base period whichever is the lesser. Such total amount of benefits, if not a multiple of $1, shall be computed to the next higher multiple of $1.

(e) Any individual who is unemployed in any week as defined in section 46-301(e) and who meets the conditions of eligibility for benefits of section 46-309 and is not disqualified under the provisions of section 46-310 shall be paid with respect to such week an amount equal to his weekly benefit amount, less the earnings (if any) payable to him with respect to such week. For the purpose of this subsection, the term "earnings" shall include only that part of the remuneration payable to him for such week which is in excess of 40 per centum of his weekly benefit amount for any week. Such benefits, if not a multiple of $1, shall be computed to the next higher multiple of $1.

(f) DEPENDENT'S ALLOWANCE.—In addition to the benefits payable under the foregoing subsections of this section, each eligible individual who is unemployed in any week shall be paid with respect to such week $1 for each dependent relative, but not more than $3 shall be paid to an individual as dependent's allowance with respect to any one week of unemployment nor shall any weekly benefit which includes a dependent's allowance be paid in the amount of more than the established maximum benefit amount. An individual's number of dependents shall be determined as of the day with respect to which he first files a valid claim for benefits in any benefit year, and shall be fixed for the duration of such benefit year. The dependent's allowance is not to be taken into consideration in calculating the claimant's total amount of benefits in subsection (d).

(g) EXTENDED BENEFITS PROGRAM.—Notwithstanding any other provisions of this section, this subsection provides a program of extended benefits on and after January 1, 1972.

(1) DEFINITIONS.—As used in this subsection, unless the context clearly requires otherwise—

(A) "Extended benefit period" means a period which—

(i) begins with the third week after whichever of the following weeks occurs first: (I) a week for which there is a national “on” indicator, or (II) a week for which there is a State “on” indicator; and

(ii) ends with either of the following weeks, whichever occurs later: (I) the third week after the first week for which there is both a national “off” indicator and a State “off” indicator; or (II) the thirteenth consecutive week of such period: Provided, That no extended benefit period may begin by reason of a State “on” indicator before the fourteenth week following the end of a prior extended benefit period which was in effect with respect to the District.

(B) There is a national “on” indicator for a week if the Secretary of Labor determines that for each of the three most recent completed calendar months ending before such week, the rate of insured unemployment (seasonally adjusted) for all States equaled or exceeded 4.5 per centum.

(C) There is a national “off” indicator for a week if the Secretary of Labor determines that for each of the three most recent completed calendar months ending before such week, the rate of insured unemployment (seasonally adjusted) for all States was less than 4.5 per centum.

(D) There is a State “on” indicator for the District for a week if the Board determines, in accordance with regulations of the Secretary of Labor, that for the period consisting of such week and the immediately preceding twelve weeks, the rate of insured unemployment (not seasonally adjusted) under this chapter—

(i) equaled or exceeded 120 per centum of the average of such rates for the corresponding thirteen-week period ending in each of the preceding two calendar years, and

(ii) equaled or exceeded 4 per centum.

(E) There is a State “off” indicator for the District for a week if the Board determines in accordance with regulations of the Secretary of Labor that for the period consisting of such week and the immediately preceding twelve weeks, the rate of insured unemployment (not seasonally adjusted) under this chapter—

(i) was less than 120 per centum of the average of such rates for the corresponding thirteen-week period ending in each of the preceding two calendar years, or

(ii) was less than 4 per centum.

(F) “Rate of insured unemployment”, for purposes of subparagraphs (D) and (E) of this subsection, means the percentage derived by dividing (i) the average weekly number of individuals filing claims in the District for weeks of unemployment with respect to the most recent thirteen-consecutive-week period, as determined by the Board on the basis of its reports to the Secretary of Labor, by (ii) the average monthly employment covered under this chapter for the first four of the most recent six completed calendar quarters ending before the end of such thirteen-week period.

(G) “Regular benefits” means benefits payable to an individual under this chapter or under any

State law (including benefits payable to Federal civilian employees and to ex-servicemen pursuant to chapter 85 of title 5, United States Code) other than extended benefits.

(H) “Extended benefits” means benefits (including benefits payable to Federal civilian employees and to ex-servicemen pursuant to chapter 85 of title 5, United States Code) payable to an individual under the provisions of this subsection for weeks of unemployment in his eligibility period.

(I) “Eligibility period” of an individual means the period consisting of the weeks in his benefit year which begin in an extended benefit period and, if his benefit year ends within such extended benefit period, any weeks thereafter which begin in such period.

(J) “Exhaustee” means an individual who, with respect to any week of unemployment in his eligibility period:

(i) has received, prior to such week, all of the regular benefits that were available to him under this chapter or any State law (including dependents’ allowances and benefits payable to Federal civilian employees and ex-servicemen under chapter 85 of title 5, United States Code) in his current benefit year that includes such week: Provided, That, for the purposes of this subparagraph, an individual shall be deemed to have received all of the regular benefits that were available to him although as a result of a pending appeal with respect to wages that were not considered in the original monetary determination in his benefit year, he may subsequently be determined to be entitled to added regular benefits; or

(ii) his benefit year having expired prior to such week, has no, or insufficient, wages on the basis of which he could establish a new benefit year that would include such week; and

(iii) (I) has no right to unemployment benefits or allowances, as the case may be, under the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act [45 U.S.C. 351 et seq.], the Trade Expansion Act of 1962 [19 U.S.C. 1801 et seq.], the Automotive Products Trade Act of 1965 [19 U.S.C. 2001 et seq.], and such other Federal laws as are specified in regulations issued by the Secretary of Labor; and (II) has not received and is not seeking unemployment benefits under the unemployment compensation law of the Virgin Islands or of Canada; but if he is seeking such benefits and the appropriate agency finally determines that he is not entitled to benefits under such law he is considered an exhaustee.

(K) “State law” means the unemployment insurance law of any State, approved by the Secretary of Labor under section 3304 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 [26 U.S.C. 3304].

(2) Except when the result would be inconsistent with the other provisions of this subsection, as provided in the regulations of the Board, the provisions of this chapter which apply to claims for, or the payment of, regular benefits shall apply to claims for, and the payment of, extended benefits.

(3) An individual shall be eligible to receive extended benefits with respect to any week of unemployment in his eligibility period only if the Board finds that with respect to such week:

(A) he is an "exhaustee" as defined in paragraph (1) (J) of this subsection, and

(B) he has satisfied the requirements of this chapter for the receipt of regular benefits that are applicable to individuals claiming extended benefits, including not being subject to a disqualification for the receipt of benefits.

(4) The weekly extended benefit amount payable to an individual for a week of total unemployment in his eligibility period shall be an amount equal to the weekly basic or augmented benefit amount, whichever is appropriate, payable to him during his applicable benefit year.

(5) The total extended benefit amount payable to any eligible individual with respect to his applicable year shall be the least of the following amounts:

(A) 50 percent of the total amount of regular benefits (including dependents' allowances) which were payable to him under this chapter in his applicable benefit year;

(B) thirteen times his weekly benefit amount (including dependents' allowances) which was payable to him under this chapter for a week of total unemployment in the applicable benefit year; or

(C) thirty-nine times his weekly benefit amount (including dependents' allowances) which was payable to him under this chapter for a week of total unemployment in the applicable benefit year, reduced by the total amount of regular benefits which were paid (or deemed paid) to him under this chapter with respect to the benefit year.

(D) For purposes of this paragraph, the total regular benefit amount shall be that amount (including dependents' allowances) provided in the individual's monetary determination or the amount of regular benefits (including dependents' allowances) actually received, whichever is the greater.

(6) (A) Whenever an extended benefit period is to become effective in the District (or in all States) as a result of a State or a National "on" indicator, or an extended benefit period is to be terminated in the District as a result of State and National "off" indicators, the Director shall make an appropriate public announcement as provided in the regulations of the Board.

(B) Computations required by the provisions of paragraph (1) (F) of this subsection shall be made by the Board in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Secretary of Labor. (Aug. 28, 1935, 49 Stat. 949, ch. 794, § 7, formerly § 8; July 2, 1940, 54 Stat. 732, ch. 524, § 1; June 4, 1943, 57 Stat. 112, ch. 117; Aug. 31, 1954, 68 Stat. 993, ch. 1139, § 1; Mar. 30, 1962, 76 Stat. 48, Pub. L. 87-424, §§ 5, 6, 7; Dec. 22, 1971, Pub. L. 92-211, § 2(35)-(37), 85 Stat. 768.)

REFERENCE IN TEXT

Reference to "the effective date of this Act", in subsec. (b), probably refers to the effective date of the amendatory Act of Mar. 30, 1962. For effective date of the 1962 Act, see note to § 46-301.

AMENDMENT

1971—Subsec. (b) amended by section 2(35) of Act Dec. 22, 1971, Pub. L. 92-211, as follows:

(A) by striking out the second sentence which read: "If an individual's weekly benefit amount is less than $8, it shall be $8."; and

(B) by striking out in the third sentence "50 per centum" and inserting "66⅔ per centum" in lieu thereof.

Subsec. (c) amended generally by section 2(36) of such Act to read as above set out. Prior to this amendment, subsec. (c) read:

"(c) To qualify for benefits an individual must have (1) been paid wages for employment of not less than $130 in one quarter in his base period, (2) been paid wages for employment of not less than $276 in not less than two quarters in such period, and (3) received during such period wages the total amount of which is equal to at least one and one-half times the amount of his wages for the quarter in such period in which his wages were the highest. Notwithstanding the provisions of clause (3), any otherwise qualified individual, the total amount of whose wages during such period is less than the amount required to have been received during such period under such clause, may qualify for benefits if the differences between the amounts so required to have been received and the total amount of his wages during such period does not exceed $70, but the amount of his weekly benefit, as computed under subsection (b), shall be reduced by $1 if such difference does not exceed $35 or by $2 if such difference is more than $35. Wages received by an individual in the period intervening between the end of his last base period and the beginning of his last benefit year and paid by employers who were his base period employers in such last base period shall not be available for benefit purposes in a subsequent benefit year unless he has, subsequent to the commencement of such last benefit year, received remuneration for personal services, whether or not such services were performed in employment as defined in this chapter, in an amount equal to at least ten times the weekly benefit amount for which he qualifies in such last benefit year. Benefits payable to an individual with respect to a week shall be reduced, under regulations prescribed by the Board, by any amount received with respect to such week as a retirement pension or annuity under a public or private retirement plan or system provided, or contributed to, by any base period employer. An amount received with respect to a period other than a week shall be prorated by weeks. No reduction shall be made under the preceding two sentences for (A) any retirement pension or annuity received by reason of disability, or (B) any amount received under title II of the Social Security Act."

Subsec. (g) added by section 2(37) of such Act to read as above set out.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1971 AMENDMENTS

Section 3 of Act Dec. 22, 1971, Pub. L. 92-211, provided: "The amendments made by this Act (amending sections 46-301, 46-303, 46-304, 46-307, 46-309, 46-310, 46-311, 46-313, 46-314, 46-315, 46-316) shall take effect on January 1, 1972, except that the amendments made by sections 2(35) and 2(36) of this Act (amending section 46-307 (b), (c)) shall take effect only with respect to benefit years that begin on or after January 2, 1971."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Due process

Discriminatory classification of employees, created by Congress' legitimate interest in exempting charitable organizations from payment of unemployment taxes, by denying benefits to employees of exempt organizations, is reasonable and does not violate due process. T. F. Von Stauffenberg v. District Unemployment Compensation Board (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A.2d 110).

(g) Benefits based on service in employment defined in section 46-301(b)(1)(B) and (C) shall be payable in the same amount, on the same terms, and subject to the same conditions as compensation payable on the basis of other service subject to this chapter; except that benefits based on service in an instructional, research, or principal administrative capacity in an institution of higher education (as defined in section 46-301(w)) shall not be paid to an individual for any week of unemployment which begins during the period between two successive academic years, or during a similar period between two regular terms, whether or not successive, or during a period of paid sabbatical leave provided for in the individual's contract, if the individual has a contract or contracts to perform services in any such capacity for any institution or institutions of higher education for both such academic years or both such terms. AMENDMENT

1971—Subsec. (g) added by section 2(38) of Act Dec. 22, 1971, Pub. L. 92-211, to read as above set out.

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA COUNCIL

Section 402(346 and 347) of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred the regulatory and other functions of the Board of Commissioners, under subsections (a) and (d) in the particulars described in pars. 346 and 347, to the District of Columbia Council, subject to the right of the Commissioner as provided by section 406 of the Plan. For provisions establishing the District of Columbia Council, see section 201 of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 46-307, 46-310.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Available for work

To be considered "available for work" within meaning of this section, an individual must actively seek employment and must not unreasonably restrict his job search. National Geographic Society v. District Unemployment Compensation Board (1970, 438 F. 2d 154, 141 U.S. App. D.C. 313).

Unemployment compensation claimant's registration with U.S. Employment Service is not enough to establish her eligibility for unemployment compensation under this section requiring that claimants be registered for work at an employment office and available for work. Id.

In order to be eligible for unemployment benefits claimant must be "available for work" which means that claimant must be genuinely attached to labor market and making adequate contacts for work. Woodward &

Lothrop, Inc. v. District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board et ano. (1968, 392 F. 2d 479, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 155).

Eligibility for benefits

Where unemployment compensation claimant had been classified as (1) a secretary and (2) a bookkeeper, and had base period earnings in excess of $6,000, his rejection of last employer's offer of job as salesman at $1.50 per hour was irrelevant to issue of his initial eligibility for benefits. Woodward & Lothrop, Inc. v. District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board et ano. (1968, 392 F. 2d 479, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 155).

Evidence supported Unemployment Compensation Board findings that the claimant's efforts, during period of October 9 through January 15 for which he sought benefits, to obtain work were sporadic and that claimant, who was formerly employed as a systems analyst and who voluntarily departed from metropolitan center where job openings for computer technicians in banking and government institutions were recurrent to attend classes four days a week in small university town, was not available for work during the period in question. J. A. Doherty v. District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board (D.C. App. 1971, 283 A. 2d 206).

Where only evidence to establish claimant's availability for work was ex parte statements attributed to him, finding by appeals examiner that claimant was entitled to benefits was unsupported by evidence. Woodward & Lothrop, Inc. v. District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board et ano. (1968, 392 F. 2d 479, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 155).

Ordinarily an applicant's ex parte certificate may permit initial determination of eligibility for compensation benefits, but if appeal is taken and claim is put in issue, claimant may receive benefits only if there is evidence to support finding by Board that applicant is available for work. Id.

In order to support finding that claimant is available for work, claimant must adduce evidence that he has conducted an active search for work. Id.

Findings

Finding that unemployment compensation claimant was conducting an active work search and therefore was available for work as required by this section, without any explanation as to why it was found that claimant's limited job search was sufficient to constitute an active search for work, required the remanding of case for explanation of finding. National Geographic Society v. District Unemployment Compensation Board (1970, 438 F. 2d 154, 141 U.S. App. D.C. 313).

Policy of Compensation Act

Basic policy underlying Unemployment Compensation Act is preference for compensation through employment rather than welfare compensation. District Unemployment Compensation Board v. W. Hahn & Co., Inc. (1968, 399 F. 2d 987, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 254).

Rules of evidence

Unemployment compensation board is not bound by strict rules of evidence and making of certain presumptions which underlie finding of eligibility may be necessary in order to have prompt determination of claims, but eligibility itself may not be presumed. District Unemployment Compensation Board v. W. Hahn & Co., Inc. (1968, 399 F. 2d 987, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 254).

(d)(1) Benefits shall not be denied to any otherwise eligible individual for refusing to accept new work under any of the following conditions: (A) If the position offered is vacant due directly to a strike, lockout, or other labor dispute; (B) if the wages, earnings, hours, or other conditions of the work offered are less favorable to the individual than those prevailing for similar work in the locality; (C) if as a condition of being employed the individual would be required to join a company union or to resign from or refrain from joining any bona fide labor organization.

(2) Compensation shall not be denied to any otherwise eligible individual for any week during which he is attending a training or retraining course with the approval of the Board, and such individual shall be deemed to be otherwise eligible for any such week despite the provisions of section 46-309(d) and subsection (c) of this section.

(3) Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter, compensation shall not be denied or reduced to an individual solely because he files a claim in another State (or a contiguous country with which the United States has an agreement with respect to unemployment compensation) or because he resides in another State (or such a contiguous country) at the time he files a claim for unemployment compensation.

AMENDMENT

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1971 AMENDMENT

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA COUNCIL

Section 402(348 to 350) of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred the regulatory and other functions of the Board of Commissioners, under subsections (a), (c) and (e) with respect to prescribing regulations, as specified in pars. 348 to 350, to the District of Columbia Council, subject to the right of the Commissioner as provided by section 406 of the Plan. For provisions establishing the District of Columbia Council, see section 201 of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

Applicability of Administrative Procedure Act

The District of Columbia Administrative Procedure Act (§ 1-1501 et seq.) applies to proceedings under Unemployment Compensation Act, and should be applied in post-hearing procedure by the Unemployment Compensation Board in an unemployment compensation proceeding. Woodridge Nursery School v. T. G. Jessup and District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A. 2d 199).

Confidential information

In the case, the court held that a report, which plaintiff's employer filed with the District Unemployment Compensation Board and which stated that plaintiff was "discharged for dishonesty, shortages in cash and stock * * *," was absolutely privileged. G. Goggins v. I. N. Hoddes, t/a etc. (D.C. App. 1970, 265 A. 2d 302).

Misconduct

Petitioner, who notified supervisors that he would not be at work because he had personal business to transact, cannot be disqualified from receiving unemployment compensation benefits on the ground that his absence without excuse constituted statutory misconduct since there was no company rule or regulation making it mandatory that the request be accompanied with detailed and specific reason, and company had not consistently required bill of particulars before deciding to excuse an absence. L. Green v. District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board (D.C. App. 1971, 273 A. 2d 479).

Failure of petitioner to obtain permission of his supervisor before leaving his duty station because of toothache does not form basis for the denial of unemployment benefits on ground of misconduct since petitioner had complied with all employer's rules then in existence with regard to sickness and company rule on leaving work because of illness said nothing about obtaining permission from supervisor. M. J. Hickenbottom v. District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board (D.C. App. 1971, 273 A. 2d 475).

"Misconduct" within this section must be act of wanton or wilful disregard of employer's interests, a deliberate violation of employer's rules, a disregard of standards of behavior which employer has right to expect of his employee, or negligence in such degree or recurrence as to manifest culpability, wrongful intent, or evil design, or show an intentional and substantial disregard of the employer's interest or of the employee's duties and obligations to the employer. Id.

Whether an employer's rules governing the conduct of its employees is reasonable one, so as to be basis for disqualification from receiving unemployment benefits, is measured not in reference to business interest of employer but with reference to statutory insurance purpose. Id.

Retrospective application of employer's rule requiring verification of employee's whereabouts on day of protest demonstration against employer cannot be basis for finding misconduct on part of petitioner, who had left work because of toothache the day before the demonstration, so as to disqualify him from receiving unemployment benefits since petitioner had complied with all of employer's rules in existence with regard to sickness at time he left work and was not apprised that his compliance with sick rule then in existence would not be enough to satisfy his employer. Id.

Petitioner's participation in alleged unauthorized demonstration is not statutory misconduct so as to disqualify him from receiving unemployment benefits since the petitioner was in a suspended work status before his alleged misconduct took place, and since there was no finding linking petitioner's participation in demonstration with his work. Id.

Policy of Compensation Act

Basic policy underlying Unemployment Compensation Act is preference for compensation through employment rather than welfare compensation. District Unemployment Compensation Board v. W. Hahn & Co., Inc. (1968, 399 F. 2d 987, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 254).

Refusal to accept employment

Where employee, who had resigned from job due to illness, refused reemployment offer because the employer was moving offices a distance of 19 miles from former location, the distance was not so great as to justify refusal to accept employment without consideration of available transportation including employer's chartered bus service, and Unemployment Compensation Board Appeals Examiner was required to make finding as to the adequacy of transportation for person refusing reemployment. National Geographic Society v. District Unemployment Compensation Board (1970, 438 F. 2d 154, 141 U.S. App. D.C. 313).

Voluntary unemployment

Failure of Unemployment Compensation Board Appeals Examiner, determining that claimant left employment for good cause when she refused to accept reemployment at employer's new location, that would require approximately 51-minute ride on employer-chartered bus costing 6 cents more per day than city transportation which claimant had utilized in reaching old place of employment, to give reasons in support of alleged finding that claimant would have suffered hardship both in terms of monetary loss and time-wise had she accepted transfer, left court with no choice but to speculate, and case must be remanded for clarification. National Geographic Society v. District Unemployment Compensation Board (1970, 438 F. 2d 154, 141 U.S. App. D.C. 313).

Since the court, in reviewing award of unemployment compensation with respect to claimant who left employment rather than accept transfer to employer's new location, had only ultimate finding that claimant had established good cause for leaving her employment, court remanded case for a statement of basic findings from which conclusion was derived in case in which the pri-

Appeals Examiner's brief summary of unemployment compensation claimant's testimony, to effect that she was unable to obtain babysitting care, could not substitute for findings on the babysitting issue, and determination that the claimant left employment for good cause and was entitled to unemployment compensation must be remanded for further findings and adequate explanation of the findings. Id.

When a person seeking unemployment compensation payable under state law has left federal government employment, and the federal employing agency has made findings on reason for termination of service, those findings are not conclusive unless employee had the opportunity for a fair hearing before an impartial tribunal. A. Smith v. District Unemployment Compensation Board (1970, 435 F.2d 433, 140 U.S. App. D.C. 361).

Unemployment Compensation Board is not justified in denying an unemployment compensation claim on basis of an initial finding of a federal agency, when that finding is being appealed to the Civil Service Commission. Id.

In event federal employing agency makes no finding one way or the other as to validity of employee's reasons for resigning because of lack of procedure for a fair hearing in such a case, District Unemployment Compensation Board would be free to find, after a hearing, that the resignation was for good cause, as defined by applicable state standards. Id.

§ 46-311. Determination of claims.

(b) Promptly after an individual has filed a claim for benefits, an agent of the Board designated by it for such purpose shall make an initial determination with respect thereto which shall include a determination with respect to whether or not such benefit may be payable, and if payable, the week with respect to which payments will commence, the maximum duration thereof, and the weekly benefit amount, except that in any case in which the payment or denial of benefits will be determined by the provisions of section 46-310(e), the agent shall promptly transmit such claim to an appeal tribunal which shall make a decision thereon after such investigation as it deems necessary, and after affording the parties opportunity for fair hearing in accordance with subsection (e) of this section, and the claimant and interested parties shall be given notice thereof and permitted to appeal therefrom to the Board and the courts as is provided in this chapter for notice of, and appeals from, decisions of appeal tribunals. An initial determination may, for good cause, be reconsidered. The claimant and other parties to the proceedings shall be promptly notified of the initial determination or any amended determination and the reasons therefor. Benefits shall be denied or, if the claimant is otherwise eligible, paid promptly in accordance with such initial determination except as hereinafter otherwise provided. The Board shall promptly notify the claimant and any party to the proceeding of its determination, and such determination shall be final within 10 days after the mailing of notice thereof to the party's last known address or in the absence of such mailing, within 10 days of actual delivery of such notice. If an appeal tribunal affirms an initial determination allowing benefits, such benefits shall be paid regardless of any appeal which may thereafter be taken. If, subsequent to such initial determination, benefits with respect to any week for which a claim has been filed are denied for reasons other than matters included in the initial determination, the claimant shall be promptly notified of the denial and the reasons therefor, and may appeal therefrom in accordance with the procedure herein described for appeals from initial determinations.

(e) An appeal tribunal, after affording the parties reasonable opportunity for fair hearing, shall, unless such appeal is withdrawn, affirm or modify the finding of facts and the initial determination. The parties shall be duly notified of the decision of such appeal tribunal, together with the reasons therefor. The Board, under regulations prescribed by it, may permit further appeal by any party or may, upon its own motion, affirm, reverse, or modify the decision of the appeal tribunal or may set it aside and order a rehearing or the taking of additional evidence before the same or a different appeal tribunal. Unless a petition for such appeal is filed within ten days of mailing of the decision of an appeal tribunal, or within such ten-day period the Board has taken action on its own motion in accordance with the provisions of this subsection, the decision of the appeal tribunal shall constitute the decision of the Board and shall be effective as such. Any decision of an appeal tribunal which is not so modified or so appealed within such ten-day period is final for all purposes, except as provided in section 46-312, and is not subject to review by the District auditor. All decisions rendered by the Board affirming, reversing, or modifying any decision of an appeal tribunal shall become effective immediately, unless the Board shall otherwise order, and are not subject to review by the District auditor.

(f) A full and complete record shall be kept of all proceedings in connection with an appealed claim. All testimony at every hearing on any such claim shall be taken down by a stenographer or recording device, but shall not be transcribed except upon order of the Board or in the event of an appeal pursuant to section 46-312(a). Upon any such appeal, a copy of all the testimony and of the findings of fact upon which the Board's decision was based shall be filed with the court, and the facts so found shall, if supported by evidence, be binding on the court.

AMENDMENT

1971—Section 2(40) of Act Dec. 22, 1971, Pub. L. 92-211, amended section—

(A) by amending the fifth sentence to read as above set out. Prior to this amendment, the fifth sentence read: "The claimant or any party to the determination may file an appeal from such initial determination or from a reconsideration of such determination within ten days after notification thereof, or after the date such notification was mailed to his last known address."

(B) by striking out the sixth sentence in subsection (b); by striking out the seventh sentence through the words "Provided, That" in subsection (b) and capitalizing the word "if" immediately thereafter. The stricken matter read: "If upon such initial determination benefits are allowed but the record of the case indicates that a disqualification has been alleged or may exist, benefits shall not be paid prior to the expiration of the period for appeal as hereinafter provided. If an appeal is duly filed with respect to a matter other than the weekly benefit amount or maximum duration of benefits payable, benefits with respect to the period prior to the final decision of the Board shall be paid only after such decision: Provided, That".

(C) by striking out "after the date of notification or" immediately after "ten days" in the fourth sentence of subsection (e) and inserting in lieu thereof "of".

(D) by striking out "(a)" immediately after "section 46-312" in the penultimate sentence of subsection (e); and

(E) by inserting "or recording device" immediately after "stenographer" in the second sentence of subsection (f).

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1971 AMENDMENT

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA COUNCIL

Section 402(351 to 354) of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred the regulatory and other functions of the Board of Commissioners, under subsections (a), (c), (e) and (g) with respect to prescribing regulations and fixing rate of fees, as specified in pars. 351 to 354, to the District of Columbia Council, subject to the right of the Commissioner is provided by section 406 of the Plan. For provisions establishing the District of Columbia Council, see section 201 of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

Applicability of Administrative Procedure Act

The District of Columbia Administrative Procedure Act (§ 1-1501 et seq.) applies to proceedings under Unemployment Compensation Act, and should be applied in post-hearing procedure by the Unemployment Compensation Board in an unemployment compensation proceedings. Woodridge Nursery School v. T. G. Jessup and District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A. 2d 199).

Evidence of availability

Where only evidence to establish claimant's availability for work was ex parte statements attributed to him, finding by appeals examiner that claimant was entitled to benefits was unsupported by evidence. Woodward & Lothrop, Inc. v. District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board et ano. (1968, 392 F. 2d 479, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 155).

Ordinarily an applicant's ex parte certificate may permit initial determination of eligibility for compensation benefits, but if appeal is taken and claim is put in issue, claimant may receive benefits only if there is evidence to support finding by Board that applicant is available for work. Id.

In order to support finding that claimant is available for work, claimant must adduce evidence that he has conducted an active search for work. Id.

Federal employees

Final decision

In this case, the court held that a two-sentence decision of District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board, stating that decision of appeals examiner of certain date should be reversed because claimant believed that employer accepted offer to terminate her services on one date rather than on another date, was inadequate as a finding of fact and a conclusion of law. Woodridge Nursery School v. T. G. Jessup and District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A. 2d 199).

Findings

Where the findings of fact in unemployment benefits case were without any significant support in testimony elicited at hearing conducted by appeals examiner, and where it appeared that findings of fact were supported, if at all, principally by documentary evidence consisting of standard forms containing illegible notes and hearsay statements that were of very doubtful competency, reviewing court could not make a considered judgment as to whether there was a fair hearing and a reasonable application of the statute and regulations of the Unemployment Compensation Board, whether there was a prejudicial departure from requirements of law or an abuse of Board's discretion, and whether Board's decision was supported by substantial evidence and was reasonable and not arbitrary. M. L. Hill v. District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board (D.C. App. 1971, 281 A. 2d 433).

Where employee, who had resigned from job due to illness, refused reemployment offer because the employer was moving offices a distance of 19 miles from former location, the distance was not so great as to justify refusal to accept employment without consideration of available transportation including employer's chartered bus service, and Unemployment Compensation Board Appeals Examiner was required to make finding as to the adequacy of transportation, for person refusing reemployment. National Geographic Society v. District Unemployment Compensation Board (1970, 438 F. 2d 154, 141 U.S. App. D.C. 313).

Failure of Unemployment Compensation Board Appeals Examiner, determining that claimant left employment for good cause when she refused to accept reemployment at employer's new location that would require approximately 51-minute ride on employer-chartered bus costing 6 cents more per day than city transportation which claimant had utilized in reaching old place of employment, to give reasons in support of alleged finding that claimant would have suffered hardship both in terms of monetary loss and time-wise had she accepted transfer, left court with no choice but to speculate, and case must be remanded for clarification. Id.

Since the court, in reviewing award of unemployment compensation with respect to claimant who left employment rather than accept transfer to employer's new location, had only ultimate finding that claimant had established good cause for leaving her employment, court remanded case for a statement of basic findings from which conclusion was derived in case in which the primary factual issue raised below was the alleged inability to obtain adequate babysitting care for children. Id.

Appeals Examiner's brief summary of unemployment compensation claimant's testimony, to effect that she was unable to obtain babysitting care, could not substitute for findings on the babysitting issue, and determination that the claimant left employment for good cause and was entitled to unemployment compensation must be remanded for further findings and adequate explanation of the findings. Id.

When a person seeking unemployment compensation payable under District law has left federal government employment, and the federal employing agency has made findings on reason for termination of service, those findings are not conclusive unless employee had opportunity for a fair hearing before an impartial tribunal. A. Smith v. District Unemployment Compensation Board (1970, 435 F. 2d 433, 140 U.S. App. D.C. 361).

Unemployment Compensation Board is not justified in denying an unemployment compensation claim on basis of an initial finding of a federal agency, when that finding is being appealed to the Civil Service Commission. Id.

In event federal employing agency makes no finding one way or the other as to validity of employee's reasons for resigning because of lack of procedure for a fair hearing in such a case, District Unemployment Compensation Board would be free to find, after a hearing, that the resignation was for good cause, as defined by applicable state standards. Id.

Hearings

Last known address

Phrase "last known address" within meaning of District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Act that appeal from decision of claims deputy may be taken by claimant within 10 days after notification thereof, or after date such notification was mailed to his "last known address" is not invariably the most recent mailing address of claimant. E. MacKenzie v. D.C. Unemployment Compensation Board (1968, 393 F. 2d 659, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 258).

Where District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board found claimant eligible for unemployment benefits, and thereafter claims deputy ruled that claimant was not available for work and mailed notice of such determination to temporary address of claimant in St. Paul, Minnesota, instead of to permanent address of claimant in Washington, D.C., and it was known that temporary address had been abandoned, notice was not sufficient to start period for taking an appeal by claimant because not "last known address" within meaning of statute. Id.

Notice of appeal

Even if the Unemployment Compensation Board deemed it unnecessary to permit a reply to petition for appeal in an unemployment compensation proceeding, the other party at least should have been given notice that the appeal had been filed. Woodridge Nursery School v. T. G. Jessup and District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A. 2d 199).

Notice to base period employers

"Notice to Base Period Employer", stating that employee had filed a claim, specifying monetary determination of claim payable provided that employee met all requirements, and mailed before initial determination of eligibility had been made, did not trigger the ten-day period in which employer might appeal determination of eligibility for unemployment benefits. Atchison & Keller, Inc. v. District Unemployment Compensation Board (1970, 435 F. 2d 411, 140 U.S. App. D.C. 339).

Under section of Unemployment Compensation Act that claimant and other parties to proceedings shall be promptly notified of initial determination with respect to whether or not benefits may be payable, notice to all "base period employers" is required. District Unemployment Compensation Board v. W. Hahn & Co., Inc. (1968, 399 F. 2d 987, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 254).

Under section of Unemployment Compensation Act providing that if disqualification of claimant of benefits has been alleged or may exist benefits shall not be paid prior to expiration of period for appeal, there must be some opportunity to challenge claimant's eligibility before payments are made. Id.

Notice to last employer

"Notice to Last Employer" sent to employer who was both the base period employer and the last employer did not trigger ten-day period for employer's appeal from determination of eligibility for unemployment benefits, although it stated that employer had ten days to appeal "this determination", where only determination referred was monetary determination of claim and notice did not affirmatively state that the initial determination of eligibility had been made. Atchison & Keller, Inc. v. District Unemployment Compensation Board (1970, 435 F. 2d 411, 140 U.S. App. D.C. 339).

Notice to principal base period employer of benefit payment

"Notice to Principal Base Period Employer of Benefit Payment" did not trigger ten-day period for employer's appeal from determination of eligibility for unemployment benefits, particularly since it stated that the employer could not appeal payment shown on the notice. Atchison & Keller, Inc. v. District Unemployment Compensation Board (1970, 435 F. 2d 411, 140 U.S. App. D.C. 339).

Record—Sufficiency

Where the record consisted of numerous standard forms, some containing illegible cryptic notes and others bearing neither signature of unemployment benefits claimant nor an agency official, and a transcript of recorded testimony from which it appeared that crucial questions necessary to determination of "availability" were asked of claimant, and, although it was clear that she gave answers, in many instances, the answers were not transcribed and the Unemployment Compensation Board failed to state specifically whether it adopted the appeals examiner's findings of fact, and to render a proposed decision before its final order, no meaningful judicial review of the Board's decision could be conducted, and the case will be remanded to the Board with instructions to make appropriate findings of fact and conclusions of law. M. L. Hill v. District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board (D.C. App. 1971, 279 A. 2d 501).

Findings of fact, conclusions of law and reasoned application of an agency's policy, if any, must be clearly reflected in an administrative agency's decision when further administrative or judicial review is provided by statute. Id.

Rules of evidence

Unemployment compensation board is not bound by strict rules of evidence, and making of certain presumptions which underlie finding of eligibility may be necessary in order to have prompt determination of claims, but eligibility itself may not be presumed. District Unemployment Compensation Board v. W. Hahn & Co., Inc. (1968, 399 F. 2d 987, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 254).

Time to appeal

Under this section, the ten-day period for appeal from initial determination of claims deputy that unemployment compensation claimant was disqualified from receiving unemployment benefits ran from date on which the claimant received notice of the initial determination rather than from the date on which the determination was mailed. M. A. Riley v. District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board (D.C. App. 1971, 278 A. 2d 691).

Purpose of limitation on time in which an employer can appeal determination of eligibility for unemployment benefits is not to discourage appeals but to prevent unreasonable delay in payment of benefits. Atchison & Keller, Inc. v. District Unemployment Compensation Board (1970, 435 F. 2d 411, 140 U.S. App. D.C. 339).

Where district unemployment compensation board on March 6 sent employer notice stating that former employee had filed claim for unemployment compensation and that eligibility to receive benefits would be decided later, and on March 14 board notified employer that claimant had been paid his first weekly benefit, 10-day period for filing of appeal did not begin to run until March 14, and employer's appeal filed March 23 was timely. District Unemployment Compensation Board v. W. Hahn & Co., Inc. (1968, 399 F. 2d 987, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 254).

§ 46-312. Court review.

Within thirty days after the decision of the Board has become final, any party to the proceeding may appeal from the decision to the Superior Court of the District of Columbia. Upon the filing of any such appeal notice thereof shall be served upon the Board by the appellant and upon any other party to the proceedings. Such appeal shall be heard by the court at the earliest possible date and shall be given precedence over all other civil cases. It shall not be necessary on any such appeal to enter exceptions to the rulings of the Board and no bond shall be required for entering such appeal. In no event shall any appeal act as a supersedeas. In any appeal under this section the findings of the Board, or of the examiner or appeal tribunal, as the case may be, as to the facts, if supported by evidence and in the absence of fraud, shall be conclusive, and the jurisdiction of said court shall be confined to questions of law; Provided, That no appeal shall be permitted under this section by any party who has not first exhausted his administrative remedies as provided by this chapter. (Aug. 28, 1935, 49 Stat. 953, ch. 794, § 12, formerly § 13; renumbered and amended June 25, 1936, 49 Stat. 1921, ch. 804; June 4, 1943, 57 Stat. 118, ch. 117; June 25, 1948, 62 Stat. 991, ch. 646, § 32(b); May 24, 1949, 63 Stat. 107, ch. 139, § 127; July 29, 1970, Pub. NOTES TO DECISIONS

If a federal agency insists, contrary to law, on making and retaining a finding adverse to a former employee, who is seeking unemployment compensation payable under District law, without opportunity for hearing, the remedy does not lie in a suit directed to the Unemployment Compensation Board, but rather the appropriate judicial remedy is to strike the federal finding made and continued without opportunity for a hearing, and an action to obtain such a result properly names the federal agency as a party. A. Smith v. District Unemployment Compensation Board (1970, 435 F. 2d 433, 140 U.S. App. D.C. 361).

(e) FEDERAL-STATE COOPERATION.—(1) In the administration of this chapter, the Board shall cooperate with the Department of Labor to the fullest extent consistent with the provisions of this chapter, and shall take such action, through the adoption of appropriate rules, regulations, administrative methods, and standards, as may be necessary to secure to the District and its citizens all advantages available under the provisions of the Social Security Act that relate to unemployment compensation [42 U.S.C. 501 et seq., 1101 et seq.], the Federal Unemployment Tax Act [26 U.S.C. 3301-3311], the Wagner-Peyser Act [29 U.S.C. 49 et seq.], and the Federal-State Extended Unemployment Compensation Act of 1970 [26 U.S.C. 3304], or other Manpower Acts.

(2) In the administration of the provisions in section 46-307(g), which are enacted to conform with the requirements of the Federal-State Extended Unemployment Compensation Act of 1970 [26 U.S.C. 3304], the Board shall take such action as may be necessary (A) to ensure that the provisions are so interpreted and applied as to meet the requirements of such Federal Act as interpreted by the Department of Labor, and (B) to secure to the District the full reimbursement of the Federal share of extended and regular benefits paid under this chapter that are reimbursable under the Federal Act.

(f) DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION.—Except as hereinafter otherwise provided, information obtained from any employing unit or individual pursuant to the administration of this chapter and determinations as to the benefit rights of any individual shall be held confidential and shall not be disclosed or be open to public inspection in any manner, whether by subpoena or otherwise, revealing the individual's or employing unit's identity. Any claimant (or his legal representative) shall be supplied with information from the records of the division, to the extent necessary for the proper presentation of his claim in any proceeding under this chapter with respect thereto. Subject to such restrictions as the Board may by regulation prescribe, such information may be made available to any agency of this or any other State, or any Federal agency, charged with the administration of an unemployment compensation law or the maintenance of a system of public employment offices, or the Department of Public Welfare of the government of any State, or the United States Accounting Office or the Bureau of Internal Revenue of the United States Department of the Treasury, and information obtained in connection with the administration of the employment service may be made available to persons or agencies for purposes appropriate to the operation of a public employment service. Upon request therefor the Board shall furnish to any agency of the United States charged with the administration of public works or assistance through public employment, and may furnish to any State agency similarly charged, the name, address, ordinary occupation, and employment status of each recipient of benefits and such recipient's rights to further benefits under this chapter. The Board may request the Comptroller of the Currency of the United States to cause an examination of the correctness of any return or report of any national banking association rendered pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, and may in connection with such request transmit any such report or return to the Comptroller of the Currency of the United States as provided in section 1606(c) of the Federal Internal Revenue Code.

(h) In the case of contumacy by, or refusal to obey a subpoena issued to, any person, the Board may invoke the aid of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia in requiring the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of books, papers, correspondence, memoranda, and other records. Such court may issue an order requiring such person to appear before the Board or officer designated by the Board, there to produce records, if so ordered, or to give testimony touching the matter in question; and any failure to obey such order of the court may be punished by such court as a contempt thereof. Any person who shall, without just cause, fail or refuse to attend and testify or to answer any lawful inquiry or to produce books, papers, correspondence, memoranda, and other records, if in his power so to do, in obedience to the subpoena of the Board, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be subject to a fine of not more than $1,000 or to imprisonment for a term of not more than one year, or both.

(As amended July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91-358, title I, § 155(c) (44) (D), 84 Stat. 573; Dec. 22, 1971, Pub. L. 92-211, § 2(41), 85 Stat. 772.)

Confidential information

In the case, the court held that report, which plaintiff's employer filed with the District Unemployment Compensation Board and which stated that plaintiff was "discharged for dishonesty, shortages in cash and stock * * *," was absolutely privileged. G. Goggins v. I. N. Hoddes, t/a etc. (D.C. App. 1970, 265 A. 2d 302).

§ 46-314. Method of paying administrative expenses.

(a) All moneys received by the Board from the United States under title III of the Social Security Act [42 U.S.C. 501-504] or from other sources for administering this chapter shall, immediately upon such receipt, be deposited in the Treasury of the United States as a special deposit to be used solely to pay such administrative expenses (including expenditures for rent, for suitable office space in the District of Columbia, and for lawbooks, books of reference, and periodicals), traveling expenses when authorized by the Board, premiums on the bonds of its employees, and allowances to investigators for furnishing privately owned motor vehicles in the the performance of official duties at rates not to exceed $65 per month. All such payments of expenses shall be made by checks drawn by the Board and shall be subject to audit by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia in the same manner as are payments of other expenses of the District. Notwithstanding the provisions of this section and the provisions of sections 46-302 and 46-308, the Board is authorized to requisition and receive from its account in the Unemployment Trust Fund in the Treasury of the United States of America, in the manner permitted by Federal law, such moneys standing to the District's credit in such fund, as are permitted by Federal law to be used for expenses incurred by the Board for the administration of this chapter and to expend such moneys for such purposes. Moneys so received shall, immediately upon such receipt, be deposited in the Treasury of the United States in the same special account as are all other moneys received for the administration of this chapter. All moneys received by the Board pursuant to section 302 of the Social Security Act [42 U.S.C. 502] shall be expended solely for the purposes and in the amounts found necessary by the Department of Labor for the proper and efficient administration of this chapter. In lieu of incorporation in this chapter of the provision described in section 303(a) (9) of the Social Security Act [42 U.S.C. 503(a) (9)], the Board shall include in its annual report to Congress, provided in section 46-313(c), a report of any moneys received after July 1, 1941, from the Department of Labor under title III of the Social Security Act [42 U.S.C. 501-504], and any unencumbered balances in the unemployment compensation administration fund as of that date, which the Department of Labor finds have, because of any action or contingency, been lost or have been expended for purposes other than, or in amounts in excess of, those found necessary by the Department of Labor for the proper administration of this chapter.

(b) (1) There is hereby created a special deposit fund in the Treasury of the United States, separate and apart from the District Unemployment Fund, to be known as the Special Administrative Expense Fund. Notwithstanding any contrary provisions of this chapter, (A) interest and penalties collected from employers, and dishonored check penalties authorized by section 1-264, shall after January 31, 1972, be deposited into the clearing account in the District Unemployment Fund in the Treasury of the United States for clearance only and shall not, except as provided in paragraph (4) of this subsection, be deemed a part of the District Unemployment Fund; (B) thereafter, during each calendar quarter, there shall be transferred from the clearing account to such Special Administrative Expense Fund all moneys described in subparagraph (A) of this subsection collected during the preceding quarter; and (C) refunds of such moneys paid into the Special Administrative Expense Fund shall be made from such fund.

(2) Said moneys shall not be expended or available for expenditure in any manner which would permit their substitution for, or a corresponding reduction in, Federal funds which would in the absence of said moneys, be available to finance expenditures for the administration of this chapter. Nothing in this subsection shall prevent said moneys from being used as a revolving fund to cover expenditures, necessary and proper under the law, for which Federal funds have been duly requested but not yet received, subject to the charging of such expenditures against such funds when received. The moneys in this fund shall be used by the Board for the payment of costs of administration which are found by the Board not to be proper and valid charges payable out of Federal grants or other funds received for the administration of this chapter. All such payments of expenses shall be made by checks drawn by the Board and shall be subject to audit by the District in the same manner as are payments of other expenses of the District.

(3) No expenditure of this fund shall be made unless and until the Board by resolution duly entered in its minutes finds that no other funds are available or can properly be used to finance such expenditures. Vouchers drawn to pay expenditures of this fund shall, among other things, include a duly certified copy of the resolution of the Board hereinbefore referred to.

(4) The moneys in this fund shall be continuously available to the Board for expenditures and refunds in accordance with the provisions of this subsection and shall not lapse at any time or be transferred to any other fund or account except as herein provided. If, on June 30 of any calendar year, the balance in this fund exceeds $250,000 by $1,000 or more, the Board shall transfer such excess to the Unemployment Trust Fund. It shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to invest such portion of this fund in excess of $10,000 at the end of each month. Such investments shall be made in the same manner as provided in section 904 of the Social Security Act [42 U.S.C. 1104]. The interest on, and the proceeds from, the sale of redemptions or any obligations held in this fund shall be credited to and form a part of this fund. ### § 46-316. Reciprocal arrangements.

(a) The Board is hereby authorized to enter into reciprocal arrangements with appropriate and duly authorized agencies of other States or of the Federal Government, or both, whereby services performed by an individual for a single employing unit for which services are customarily performed by such individual in more than one State shall be deemed to be services performed entirely within any one of the States (1) in which any part of such individual's service is performed or (2) in which such individual has his residence or (3) in which the employing unit maintains a place of business, provided there is in effect, as to such services, an election, approved by the agency charged with the administration of such State's unemployment-compensation law, pursuant to which all the services performed by such individual for such employing unit are deemed to be performed entirely within such State.

(b) The Board is hereby authorized to enter into reciprocal arrangements with appropriate and duly authorized agencies of other States or of the Federal Government, or both, whereby potential rights to benefits accumulated under the unemployment-compensation laws of one or more States or under one or more such laws of the Federal Government, or both, may constitute the basis for the payment of benefits through a single appropriate agency under terms which the Board finds will be fair and reasonable as to all affected interests and will not result in any substantial loss to the fund.

(c) The Board shall participate in any arrangements for the payment of compensation on the basis of combining an individual's wages and employment covered under this chapter with his wages and employment covered under the unemployment-compensation laws of other States which are approved by the Secretary of Labor in consultation with the State unemployment-compensation agencies as reasonably calculated to assure the prompt and full payment of compensation in such situations and which include provisions for (1) applying the base period of a single State law to a claim involving the combining of an individual's wages and employment covered under two or more State unemployment-compensation laws, and (2) avoiding the duplicate use of wages and employment by reason of such combining.

(d) The Board is hereby authorized to enter into reciprocal arrangements with appropriate and duly authorized agencies of other States or of the Federal Government, or both, whereby contributions due under this chapter with respect to wages for employment shall for the purposes of section 46-304 be deemed to have been paid to the fund as of the date payment was made as contributions therefor under another State or Federal unemployment-compensation law, but no such arrangement shall be entered into unless it contains provisions for such reimbursement to the fund of such contributions and the actual earnings thereon as the Board finds will be fair and reasonable as to all affected interests.

(e) Reimbursements paid from the fund pursuant to subsection (c) shall be deemed to be benefits for the purpose of sections 46-306, 46-307, and 46-308. The Board is authorized to make to other State or Federal agencies and to receive from such other State or Federal agencies reimbursements from or to the fund, in accordance with arrangements entered into pursuant to this section.

(f) The administration of this chapter and of State and Federal unemployment-compensation and public-employment-service laws will be promoted by co-operation between the District and such States and the appropriate Federal agencies in exchanging services and making available facilities and information. The Board is therefore authorized to make such investigations, secure and transmit such information, make available such services and facilities, and exercise such of the other powers provided herein with respect to the administration of this chapter as it deems necessary or appropriate to facilitate the administration of any such unemployment-compensation or public-employment-service law, and in like manner to accept and utilize information, services, and facilities made available to the District by the agency charged with the administration of any such other unemployment-compensation or public-employment-service law.

(g) To the extent permissible under the laws and Constitution of the United States, the Board is authorized to enter into or cooperate in arrangements whereby facilities and services provided under this chapter and facilities and services provided under the unemployment-compensation law of any foreign government may be utilized for the taking of claims and the payment of benefits under the employment-security law of the District or under a similar law of such government. (Aug. 28, 1935, 49 Stat. 954, ch. 794, § 16, formerly § 17; renumbered and amended June 4, 1943, 57 Stat. 121, ch. 117; Dec. 22, 1971, Pub. L. 92-211, § 2(44), 85 Stat. 773.)

sentence will not apply to those organizations granted an exemption under this paragraph before January 5, 1971.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 7-947, 45-722, 47-801b to 47-801f.

Charitable organizations

National Parks Association, a nonprofit institution publishing a monthly magazine and cooperating with the National Parks Service, an agency of federal government, to protect and restore open spaces and parks is an institution similar to those institutions specifically exempted under subsection (k) of this section, and since it is not specifically enumerated it is not entitled to tax exemption under the generalized subsection (h) dealing with buildings of nonprofit institutions used for purposes of public charity principally within the District of Columbia. District of Columbia v. National Parks Association (1971, 444 F. 2d 963, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

Construction

Subsection (k) of this section enumerating institutions whose real property shall be exempt from taxation in District of Columbia reflects congressional inability to derive suitable generalized language covering institutions, for the most part educational or scientific in nature, that were felt deserving of tax exempt status while at same time excluding those that, although capable of effectively pleading a scientific or educational character, were considered properly subject to taxation; the statutory reference to "buildings belonging to such similar institutions as may hereafter be exempted from such taxation by special Acts of Congress" means that institutions not otherwise exempt who are similar to those named in body must seek real property tax exemptions from Congress. District of Columbia v. National Parks Association (1971, 444 F. 2d 963, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

Institutions that are similar to the specified institutions listed in subsection (k) of this section are not entitled to have their tax exempt status determined by generalized subsection (h) exempting buildings belonging to and operated by nonprofit institutions for purpose of public charity principally within the District of Columbia. Id.

Merely because an institution may be said broadly to be similar to those specifically enumerated in subsection (k) does not require that the institution be specifically exempted by special act of Congress if it falls squarely within the terms of any other subsection. Id.

There shall also be exempt from taxation upon the same terms and conditions the adjoining property owned by the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America, now designated on the records of the Assessor of the District of Columbia as Lots 813 and 814 in Square 1285, together with any improvements which may hereafter be erected thereon by said National Society of the Colonial Dames of America. A tax sale is not a government taking for which just compensation must be paid under the Constitution after judicial proceedings. Industrial Bank of Washington v. T. J. Sheve et al. (1969, 307 F. Supp. 98).

Judicial sale under Section 47-1011 which permits redemption after passage of two years but before issuance of requested tax deed is an additional method for collecting taxes which does not replace or add to administrative sale procedures. Id.

Where, after due notice of tax delinquency to owner by letter and to all others by publication, the property was sold at a tax sale held in the manner prescribed by District of Columbia statute, holder of deed of trust note on real estate involved did not have a constitutional or statutory right to redeem during the time between end of two-year redemption period and issuance of requested tax deed. Id.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Construction

A tax sale is not a government taking for which just compensation must be paid under the Constitution after judicial proceedings. Industrial Bank of Washington v. T. J. Sheve et al. (1969, 307 F. Supp. 98).

Denial of preliminary injunction

An appeal from a denial of a motion for preliminary injunction by a lienor which sought to enjoin the commissioners of District of Columbia from issuing a tax deed to a purchaser at a tax sale could not be equated with an appeal from a final disposition on the merits, notwithstanding ambiguity of the record as to whether district court had undertaken to decide the substantive question of right of the lienor to redeem prior to actual issuance of a tax deed notwithstanding expiration of the statutory two year redemption period. Industrial Bank of Washington v. W. N. Tobriner et al., etc. (1968, 405 F. 2d 1321, 132 U.S. App. D.C. 51).

A tax deed does not extinguish an easement appurtenant that was created by written conveyance. R. L. Fields et al. v. District of Columbia et al. (1971, 443 F. 2d 740, 143 U.S. App. D.C. 325).

Where deed conveyed fee title to 16-foot wide strip of land as and for a private roadway leading to designated avenue and for no other purpose whatsoever, reserving easement in plaintiffs' predecessor, and the strip abutted on the rear of plaintiffs' lots, notwithstanding subsequent sale of strip by tax deed, the trial court improperly entered decree that would allow tax deed grantee to place curbs, parking places and retaining walls on land within area of original grant and compel plaintiff lot owners to accept an additional easement which they did not desire in derogation of easement as originally reserved in deed, although plaintiffs would have a paved roadway where none existed before and plaintiffs would be given practical access to their lots. Id.

An appeal from a denial of a motion for preliminary injunction by a lienor which sought to enjoin the commissioners of District of Columbia from issuing a tax deed to a purchaser at a tax sale could not be equated with an appeal from a final disposition on the merits, notwithstanding ambiguity of the record as to whether district court had undertaken to decide the substantive question of right of the lienor to redeem prior to actual issuance of a tax deed notwithstanding expiration of the statutory two year redemption period. Industrial Bank of Washington v. W. N. Tobriner et al., etc. (1968, 405 F. 2d 1321, 132 U.S. App. D.C. 51).

Whenever any real estate in the District of Columbia has been, or shall hereafter be, offered for sale for nonpayment of taxes or assessments of any kind whatsoever, and shall have been bid off in the name of the District of Columbia, and more than two years shall have elapsed since such property was bid off as aforesaid and the same has not been redeemed as provided by law, the Commissioners of said District may, in the name of the District aforesaid, petition the Superior Court of the District of Columbia to enforce the lien of said District for taxes or other assessments on the aforesaid property by decreeing a sale thereof; and up to the time of the sale hereinafter provided for such property may be redeemed by the owner or other person having an interest therein by the payment of all taxes or assessments due the District of Columbia upon said property and all legal penalties and costs thereon, together with such other expenses as may have been incurred by said District prior to, and as a result of, the filing of the action herein provided for. NOTES TO DECISIONS*Construction

A tax sale is not a government taking for which just compensation must be paid under the Constitution after judicial proceedings. Industrial Bank of Washington v. T. J. Sheve et al. (1969, 307 F. Supp. 98).

Judicial sale under Section 47-1011 which permits redemption after passage of two years but before issuance of requested tax deed is an additional method for collecting taxes which does not replace or add to administrative sale procedures. Id.

Where, after due notice of tax delinquency to owner by letter and to all others by publication, the property was sold at a tax sale held in the manner prescribed by District of Columbia statute, holder of deed of trust note on real estate involved did not have a constitutional or statutory right to redeem during the time between end of two-year redemption period and issuance of requested tax deed. Id.

§ 47-1209. Payment of taxes—To be made semiannually—Mandamus to compel filing sworn return—Expenses.

Real-estate taxes and personal taxes of all kinds shall hereafter be payable semiannually in equal instalments in the months of September and March. If either of said instalments on real or personal property shall not be paid within the months when the same is due, said instalments shall thereupon be in arrears and delinquent, and there shall be added and collected with said tax a penalty of 1 per centum per month upon the amount thereof for the period of such delinquency, and such instalment or instalments, with the penalties thereon, shall constitute a delinquent tax to be collected in the manner now provided by law.

If any person neglects or refuses to file a return of personal property as required by law, and the assessor certifies to the Board of Commissioners that, in his opinion, the best information obtainable does not afford a satisfactory basis for assessment, the Board of Commissioners may, by petition to the Superior Court of the District of Columbia for mandamus against such person, compel the filing of a sworn return, and in such case the court shall require the person at fault to pay all expenses of the proceeding. NOTES TO DECISIONS

Congress was constitutionally empowered to enact the District of Columbia Income and Franchise Act of 1947 (§ 47-1551 et seq.) imposing an income tax on individuals residing in the District of Columbia, notwithstanding that they had no elected representatives in Congress. S. E. O. Breakefield v. District of Columbia (1970, 442 F. 2d 1227, 143 U.S. App. D.C. 203; cert. denied 91 S. Ct. 871, 401 U.S. 909).

Domicile as a prerequisite to tax liability

District of Columbia Income and Franchise Tax Act did not by its terms subject to tax income earned in the first three months of year by person who was domiciled in another state and then moved to the District in which he became a domicile and resident thereof for the remaining nine months of the year and who paid tax to District on income earned for nine months in which he was a domicile. District of Columbia v. P. S. Davis (1967, 371 F. 2d 964, 125 U.S. App. D.C. 311).

(1) The term “capital asset” means property defined or treated as a capital asset under the Internal Revenue Code of 1954.

(2) For the purpose of computing for any taxable year the tax imposed under this subchapter with respect to sales or other dispositions of property referred to in subparagraph (1), the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 relating to the treatment of gains and losses (other than the alternative tax imposed by section 1201 of such Code) shall apply.

(m) The word "dividend" means any distribution made by a corporation (domestic or foreign) to its stockholders or members, out of its earnings, profits, or surplus (other than paid-in surplus), whenever earned by the corporation and whether made in cash or any other property (other than stock of the same class in the corporation if the recipient of such stock dividend has neither received nor exercised an option to receive such dividend in cash or in property other than stock instead of stock) and whether distributed prior to, during, upon, or after liquidation or dissolution of the corporation, except that in the case of any such distribution any part of which for purposes of the income tax imposed under the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 is deemed to constitute a capital gain, such part shall be deemed to constitute a capital gain for purposes of the tax imposed by this subchapter: Provided, however, That in the case of any dividend which is distributed other than in cash or stock in the same class in the corporation and not exempted from tax under this subchapter, the basis of tax to the recipient thereof shall be the market value of such property at the time of such distribution: And provided, however, That the word "dividend" shall not include any dividend paid by a mutual life insurance company to its shareholders.

Capital assets

Liquidating shares distributed to shareholders and held by them for three days before sale to others are not a capital asset in hands of shareholders and gains on sale of shares cannot be given capital gains treatment. J. H. Verkouteren v. District of Columbia (1970, 433 F. 2d 461, 139 U.S. App. D.C. 303).

Assets demand independent tax treatment, perhaps differing treatment, according to whether they belong to a corporation, ongoing or dissolved, or to its shareholders. Id.

Neither the period a corporation holds distributed property nor the period a stockholder holds his stock in distributing corporation is the criterion in District of Columbia for measuring duration of stockholder's ownership to ascertain whether for him it is a capital asset but it is instead the period the stockholder holds distributed property that is determinative. Id.

Since findings clearly established that good will of an acquired company was a capital asset held more than two years, gain from sale of such capital asset was exempt from franchise tax. A.C.F. Industries, Incorporated v. District of Columbia (1967, 382 F. 2d 463, 127 U.S. App. D.C. 247).

Capital gains

The District of Columbia capital gain exclusion is generous as to taxpayers and public interest argues against enlarging it. J. H. Verkouteren v. District of Columbia (1970, 433 F. 2d 461, 139 U.S. App. D.C. 303).

Constitutionality

The taxation of a liquidating dividend representing earnings realized by a corporation prior to the effective date of first District of Columbia income tax did not violate the due process clause of Fifth Amendment on the theory that imposition of income tax constituted retroactive taxation. American Security and Trust Com- pany, Surviving Trustee etc. v. District of Columbia (1969, 408 F. 2d 1295, 133 U.S. App. D.C. 92).

Dividends

To the extent that a corporation's liquidating shares represent its earned surplus, they are properly considered under this section to be dividends constituting gross income to recipient shareholders. J. H. Verkouteren v. District of Columbia (1970, 433 F. 2d 461, 139 U.S. App. D.C. 303).

Stockholders' gain on the sale of liquidating shares which they had held for three days before sale is stockholders' share of sale price of stock less the cost to them of stock they sold. Id.

The cost of liquidating shares to shareholders who held the shares for three days before sale to others is the amount of dividend attributed to shareholders in regard to the stock equalling earned surplus and shareholders' gain on sale would be determined using that portion as cost. Id.

Pursuant to a section of the District of Columbia Code defining "dividend" as any distribution to stockholders whenever earned by the corporation, distributions of corporate earnings accumulated prior to date of the first District of Columbia income tax are taxable. American Security and Trust Company, Surviving Trustee etc. v. District of Columbia (1969, 408 F. 2d 1295, 133 U.S. App. D.C. 92).

A transaction whereby taxpayer, who owned apartment house corporation, sold his stock in the corporation to purchasers who dissolved the corporation and gave taxpayer an installment note secured by a trust deed on the apartment house resulted in nontaxable capital gain, although there might have been different tax consequences had corporation sold real estate and paid liquidating dividend to taxpayer. District of Columbia v. L. Neyman (1969, 417 A. 2d 1140, 135 U.S. App. D.C. 193).

TITLE II.—EXEMPT ORGANIZATIONS

TAX EXEMPTION OF INTERNATIONAL TELECOMMUNICATIONS SATELLITE CONSORTIUM

The act of Oct. 22, 1970, Pub. L. 91-494, provided as follows:

This Act shall apply to the International Telecommunications Satellite Consortium, and any successor organization thereto, in which the United States through its designated entity participates pursuant to the Communications Satellite Act of 1962 (47 U.S.C. 701 and following).

SEC. 2. The International Telecommunications Satellite Consortium, and any successor organization thereto, its property, income, operations and other transactions, and the participants therein other than the designated United States entity, shall be exempt from all taxes imposed by the District of Columbia and shall not be required to obtain any license required by the District of Columbia Income and Franchise Tax Act of 1947, as the same hereafter may be amended: Provided, however, That this exemption shall not apply to any property which shall not be used for the purposes of said Consortium or successor organization, or to any income, operations, or other transactions which shall not be related to the purposes of said Consortium or successor organization.

SEC. 3. The District of Columbia Council is authorized to promulgate regulations to carry out the purpose of this Act.

(11) Repealed, by act Oct. 31, 1969, Pub. L. 91-106, § 601(b) (2).

(As amended, Oct. 31, 1969, Pub. L. 91-106, title VI, §§ 601(b) (1) (2), 602, 83 Stat. 176, 177.)

1969—Act Oct. 31, 1969, Pub. L. 91-106, § 601(b) (1) (2), amended subsection (a) by striking out "other than capital assets" and inserting "including capital assets" and repealing par. 11 of subsection (b) which provided:

"(11) Capital gains.—Gains from the sale or exchange of any capital assets as defined in this subchapter."

Section 602 of the same act amended subsection (b) (5) to read as above set out. The former provisions of (b) (5) are as follows:

Liquidating shares distributed to shareholders and held by them for three days before sale to others are not a capital asset in hands of shareholders and gains on sale of shares cannot be given capital gains treatment. J. H. Verkouteren v. District of Columbia (1970, 433 F. 2d 461, 139 U.S. App. D.C. 303).

The District of Columbia capital gain exclusion is generous as to taxpayers and public interest argues against enlarging it. Id.

Domicile as a prerequisite to tax liability

District of Columbia Income and Franchise Tax Act did not by its terms subject to tax income earned in the first three months of year by person who was domiciled in another state and then moved to the District in which he became a domicile and resident thereof for the remaining nine months of the year and who paid tax to District on income earned for nine months in which he was a domicile. District of Columbia v. P. S. Davis (1967, 371 F. 2d 964, 125 U.S. App. D.C. 311).

Nontaxable capital gain

A transaction whereby taxpayer, who owned apartment house corporation, sold his stock in the corporation to purchasers who dissolved the corporation and gave taxpayer an installment note secured by trust deed on the apartment house resulted in nontaxable capital gain, although there might have been different tax consequences had corporation sold real estate and paid liquidating dividend to taxpayer. District of Columbia v. L. Neyman (1969, 417 A. 2d 1140, 135 U.S. App. D.C. 193).

§ 47-1557b. Deductions.

(a) Deductions allowed.—

* * * *

(4) Losses.—Losses sustained during the taxable year and not compensated for by insurance or otherwise—

(A) if incurred in a trade or business; or

(B) if incurred in any transaction entered into for the production or collection of income subject to tax under this subchapter, or for the management, conservation, or maintenance of property held for the production of income subject to tax under this subchapter, though not connected with any trade or business; or

(C) of property not connected with a trade or business, if such losses arise from fire, storm, shipwreck, or other casualty, or from theft, except that in the case of an individual, a loss described in this subparagraph shall be allowed only to the extent that the amount of loss to such individual arising from each casualty, or from each theft, exceeds $100.

For purposes of the $100 limitation of subparagraph (C), a husband and wife making a joint return for the taxable year in which the loss is allowed as a deduction shall be treated as one individual. No loss described in this paragraph shall be allowed if, at the time of filing the return, such loss has been claimed for inheritance or estate tax purposes.

(7) Depreciation.—A reasonable allowance for exhaustion, wear, and tear of property used in the trade or business, including a reasonable allowance for obsolescence; and including in the case of natural resources allowances for depletion as permitted by reasonable rules and regulations which the Commissioners are hereby authorized to promulgate. The basis upon which such allowances are to be computed is the basis provided for in section 47-1583e. In the case of property held by any taxpayer on the first day of his first taxable year beginning after December 31, 1968, which, on such first day, was property described in this paragraph, any reduction in the basis of such property for purposes of computing the allowance under this paragraph which resulted from the enactment of the District of Columbia Revenue Act of 1969 shall be treated as an additional depreciation deduction which shall (subject to paragraph (14)) be allowable under this paragraph ratably over such period (beginning not earlier than the first taxable year of the taxpayer which begins after December 31, 1968), not to exceed ten taxable years, as may be agreed upon by the taxpayer and the Commissioner.

(16) Regulated Investment Companies.—In the case of a regulated investment company as defined in section 851 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, which meets the requirements of section 852(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954—

(A) the dividends paid by the regulated investment company which qualify for the dividends-paid deduction under section 852(b) (2) (D) and 852 (b) (3) (A) (ii) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, including dividends considered as having been paid during the taxable year by reason of section 855 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954; and

(B) such amount as the regulated investment company shall designate for purposes of section 852(b) (3) (D) (ii) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 as undistributed long-term capital gains to be included in computing the long-term capital gains of the shareholder. Such amounts shall be included as gains from the sale or exchange of capital assets, as defined in this article, in computing such shareholder's taxable income as defined in section 47-1567.

(16) Real estate investment trusts.—In the case of a real estate investment trust as defined in section 856 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, which meets the requirements of section 857(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, the dividends paid by the real estate investment trust which qualify for the dividends-paid deduction under section 857(b) (2) (C) and section 857(b) (3) (A) (ii) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, including dividends considered as having been paid during the taxable year by reason of section 858 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Principal place of business
In this case, there is no question that the principal offices and businesses were located outside the District of Columbia and were located in the states where the loans were made and the payments thereon received. The facts are clear that the principal place of business for each subsidiary was not in the District of Columbia, and the argument that for source purposes there could be more than one source—one within and one without the District of Columbia—is answered by pointing out that by its clear meaning this cannot be. State Loan and Finance Corporation etc. v. District of Columbia (1967, 381 F. 2d 895, 127 U.S. App. D.C. 116).

Source and situs

The source of interest income is the obligor and its situs is his residence. State Loan and Finance Corporation etc. v. District of Columbia (1967, 381 F. 2d 895, 127 U.S. App. D.C. 116).

Source of dividends

The source of dividends is the domicile of the paying or issuing corporation. State Loan and Finance Corporation etc. v. District of Columbia (1967, 381 F. 2d 895, 127 U.S. App. D.C. 116).

Source of income defined

Common sense requires that the question of source or domicile in the case of dividend and interest source is one which is resolved by finding the principal office and business of the corporation. State Loan and Finance Corporation etc. v. District of Columbia (1967, 381 F. 2d 895, 127 U.S. App. D.C. 116).

§ 47-1571a. Imposition and rate of tax.

The minimum tax payable shall be $25.00. (July 16, 1947, 61 Stat. 345, ch. 258, Art. I, title VII, § 2; Aug. 2, 1968, Pub. L. 90-450, title II, § 202(a), 82 Stat. 612; Oct. 31, 1969, Pub. § 47-1602. Tax based on market value—Appraisal.

Deduction of federal estate taxes

Regulation permitting deduction of federal estate taxes paid only on property subject to District of Columbia inheritance tax was required to give way to plain meaning of statute manifesting clear intent of Congress to impose tax on market value of inheritance received and containing no estate tax apportionment provisions. District of Columbia v. M. W. Payne (1966, 374 F. 2d 261, 126 U.S. App. D.C. 47).

The full amount of federal estate taxes, which were paid from personal residuary estate as required by law and a portion of which had been paid on value of Ohio realty devised to persons other than residuary legatee, was deductible in computing residuary legatee's District of Columbia inheritance tax, notwithstanding regulation permitting deduction of federal estate taxes paid only on property subject to the District inheritance tax. Id.

Consent to inspection

The owner of a multiple dwelling structure by applying for license under this section to operate building as apartment house consented to inspection of premises required by section 47-2302, and entry into building without warrant did not violate Fourth Amendment right. J. D. Neuman Properties, Inc. v. District of Columbia, Board of Appeals and Review (D.C. App. 1970, 268 A.2d 605).

Violations of regulations

In this case the court held that the fact that there had been Housing Code violations, under process of being corrected, in tenant's apartment at time she executed lease does not render lease invalid. C. M. Watson v. S. Kotler (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 141).

Section 402(385) of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred the regulatory and other functions of the Board of Commissioners, under subsection (f) with respect to directing as to the identification tags to be borne by licensed vehicles, to the District of Columbia Council, subject to the right of the Commissioner as provided by section 406 of the Plan. This section is referred to in sections 40-103, 40-301, 44-301, 47-1914.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Foreign chartered bus tours

In this case the court concluded that the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority lacked jurisdiction to regulate operation of chartered bus tours which originated and terminated outside the metropolitan area and which provided overnight hotel accommodations for tour patrons who were taken on sight-seeing tours with all passengers departing from and returning to same bus at each stop. D.C. Transit System, Inc. v. Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission, et al. (1969. 420 F. 2d 226, 136 U.S. App. D.C. 384).

Suspension or revocation of hacker's license

In this case the court held that the Hackers' Board may not suspend or revoke a hacker's license unless it concludes after hearing and upon appropriate findings as required by section 1-1509 that a valid regulation promulgated by the District of Columbia Council under section 47-2345(a) prescribing suspension or revocation has been violated, or unless it can show in the record "reliable, probative, and substantial evidence," supporting its own conclusion that suspension or revocation of the particular license will be "in the interest of public decency" or necessary for "the protection of lives, limbs, health, comfort, and quiet of the citizens of the District of Columbia". G. A. Proctor v. Hackers' Board, Government of the District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1970, 268 A. 2d 267).

Only when the District of Columbia Council promulgates regulation explicitly making violation of public service commission taxicab regulation grounds for suspension or revocation of a hackers' license can such violation constitute the basis for suspension or revocation order by Hackers' License Appeal Board. Id.

Since there was no finding by the Hackers' License Appeal Board that hacker had violated valid public service commission taxicab regulation or that suspension of hackers' license was warranted for protection of public health, comfort or in interest of public decency, nor was there probative or substantial evidence in the record upon which such finding could be made, the suspension of license for refusal to transport patron unless he rode in front seat of taxicab was erroneous. Id.

Section 402(386) of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred the regulatory and other functions of the Board of Commissioners, under this section with respect to regulations governing the conduct of licensed vendors, to the District of Columbia Council, subject to the right of the Commissioner as provided by section 406 of the Plan. NOTES TO DECISIONS

This section, which vests control over right to sell merchandise on public street or in public places in administrative agency that has no appropriate standards to guide its actions, is in violation of First Amendment, with respect to publisher and itinerant street vendor of comic books principally devoted to social and political satire. OD et ano. v. J. Wilson, Chief, Met. Police Dept. (1971, 323 F. Supp. 76).

Newspaper vendors

Although it appeared that metropolitan police officers on approximately 20 occasions had confronted newspaper vendors and warned them that a vendor needed a license, could not stack papers on sidewalk, and would have to keep moving, in view of recent new interpretation of this section covering street vendors and newspapers and police chief's recent directive to police force stating that selling of newspapers from stacks placed on sidewalk without benefit of any other physical accouterment was not in violation of code even if vendor has not first obtained a license and sells such newspapers daily from same location, injunctive relief would not be granted against Metropolitan Police Department on vending issue. *Washington Free Community, Inc. v. § 47-2344. Commissioners may regulate, modify, or eliminate license requirements.

The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are authorized and empowered, when in their discretion such is deemed advisable, to require a license of other businesses or callings not listed in this chapter or chapter 21 of this title and which, in their judgment, require inspection, supervision, or regulation by any municipal agency or agencies and to fix the license fee therefor in such amount as, in their judgment, will be commensurate with the cost to the District of Columbia of such inspection, supervision, or regulation, and are further authorized and empowered in their discretion to modify any of the provisions of this chapter or chapter 21 of this title so far as eliminating therefrom any business or calling in this chapter or chapter 21 of this title required to be licensed, or to raise or lower the amount of the license fee provided in this chapter or chapter 21 of this title, as the cost of inspection, supervision or regulation is raised or lowered. (July 1, 1902, 32 Stat. 628, ch. 1352, § 7, par. 45; July 1, 1932, 47 Stat. 562, ch. 366.)

CODIFICATION

The words "this chapter and chapter 21 of this title" have been substituted for "this section", referring to section 7 of the source statute, to reflect the classification of pars. 1 to 51 of section 7 to this Code.

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA COUNCIL

Section 402(391) of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred the regulatory and other functions of the Board of Commissioners, under this section with respect to requiring a license of other businesses or callings, to the District of Columbia Council, subject to the right of the Commissioner as provided by section 406 of the Plan. For provisions establishing the District of Columbia Council, see section 201 of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Violation of regulations

In this case the two home improvement contracts made within three days of each other relating to the same house are unenforceable because unlicensed contractor violated District of Columbia home improvement regulations by accepting from homeowner $3,000 in full payment under the first agreement before completion of work thereunder, and homeowner could recover the $3,000 from contractor. R. C. Miller v. Peoples Contractors, Ltd. (D.C. App. 1969, 257 A. 2d 476).

§ 47-2344a. Undertakers' licenses—Qualifications—Examination—License without examination—Authority of Commissioners—Appropriations—Definitions.

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER

See § 401 of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, eff. Nov. 3, 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1. See also §§ 301 and 503 of the Plan.

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA COUNCIL

Section 402(392 and 393) of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred the regulatory and other functions of the Board of Commissioners, under subsection (b) and (d) (6) in the particulars described in pars. 392 and 393, to the District of Columbia Council, subject to the right of the Commissioner as provided by section 406 of the Plan. For provisions establishing the District of Columbia Council, see section 201 of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1.

§ 47-2345. Promulgation of regulations authorized—Suspension or revocation of licenses—Bonding of licensees authorized to collect moneys—Exemptions.

(a) The Commissioners are further authorized and empowered to make any regulations that may be necessary in furtherance of the purpose of this chapter and chapter 21 of this title and to suspend or revoke any license issued hereunder when, in their judgment, such is deemed desirable in the interest of public decency or the protection of lives, limbs, health, comfort, and quiet of the citizens of the District of Columbia, or for any other reason they may deem sufficient.

CODIFICATION

In subsection (a), the words "this chapter and chapter 21 of this title" have been substituted for "this section", referring to section 7 of the source statute, to reflect the classification of pars. 1 to 51 of section 7 to this Code.

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA COUNCIL

Section 402(394, 395 and 396) of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred the regulatory and other functions of the Board of Commissioners, under this section in the particulars described in pars. 394, 395 and 396, to the District of Columbia Council, subject to the right of the Commissioner as provided by section 406 of the Plan. For provisions establishing the District of Columbia Council, see section 201 of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 47-2339.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Constitutionality of regulations

There is a strong presumption of constitutionality afforded to regulations regulating businesses under police power in interest of public safety, and one attacking such regulations on due process grounds carries the heavy burden of showing that the regulation is unreasonable and has no rational relationship to objective sought to be obtained. F. R. Vanderhoof v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A. 2d 112).

Liability of surety

One should be considered "subject to criminal prosecution" within regulation providing that surety on home improvement bond shall not be liable for any claim unless it arises out of violation of statute or regulation for which principal is subject to criminal prosecution if there appear facts that in court's opinion would constitute prima facie case of violation of any criminal statute committed in connection with improvement contract or of a pertinent home improvement regulation that carries a criminal penalty. G. Gilliam v. Travelers Indemnity Co., Inc. (D.C. App. 1971, 281 A. 2d 429).

Where president and major stockholder of corporate home improvement contractor collected prepayment on contract and absconded without completing work subjected him to criminal prosecution, surety is liable on home improvement bond under regulation providing that surety shall not be liable for any claim unless it arises out of violation of statute or regulation for which principal is subject to criminal prosecution. Id.

Suspension or revocation of hacker's license

In this case the court held that the Hackers' Board may not suspend or revoke a hacker's license unless it concludes after hearing and upon appropriate findings as required by section 1-1509 that a valid regulation promulgated by the District of Columbia Council under section 47-2345(a) prescribing suspension or revocation has been violated, or unless it can show in the record "reliable, probative, and substantial evidence," supporting its own conclusion that suspension or revocation of the particular license will be "in the interest of public decency" or necessary for "the protection of lives, limbs, health, comfort, and quiet of the citizens of the District of Columbia". G. A. Proctor v. Hackers' Board, Government of the District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1970, 268 A. 2d 267).

Only when the District of Columbia Council promulgates regulation explicitly making violation of public service commission taxicab regulation grounds for suspension or revocation of a hackers' license can such violation constitute the basis for suspension or revocation order by Hackers' License Appeal Board. Id.

Since there was no finding by the Hackers' License Appeal Board that hacker had violated valid public service commission taxicab regulation or that suspension of hackers' license was warranted for protection of public health, comfort or in interest of public decency, nor was there probative or substantial evidence in the record upon which such finding could be made, the suspension of license for refusal to transport patron unless he rode in front seat of taxicab was erroneous. Id.

Violation of regulations

In this case the two home improvement contracts made within three days of each other relating to the same house are unenforceable because unlicensed contractor violated District of Columbia home improvement regulations by accepting from homeowner $3,000 in full payment under the first agreement before completion of work thereunder, and homeowner could recover the $3,000 from contractor. R. C. Miller v. Peoples Contractors, Ltd. (D.C. App. 1969, 257 A. 2d 476).

§ 47-2346. Prosecutions.

Prosecutions for violations of any of the provisions of this chapter or chapter 21 of this title, or of any section added hereto from time to time by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, or of any regulation made by the commissioners under authority of this chapter or chapter 21 of this title, shall be on information in the Superior Court of the District of Columbia by the corporation counsel of the District of Columbia or any of his assistants. (July 1, 1902, 32 Stat. 628, ch. 1352, § 7, par. 47; July 1, 1932, 47 Stat. 563, ch. 366; Apr. 1, 1942, 56 Stat. 190, ch. 207, § 1; July 8, 1963, 77 Stat. 77, Pub. L. 88-60, § 1; July 29, 1970, Pub. § 47-2347. Penalties.

Any person violating any of the provisions of this chapter or chapter 21 of this title, or additions thereto made from time to time by the commissioners of the District of Columbia, where no specific penalty is fixed, or the violation of any regulation made by the commissioners under the authority of this chapter, shall upon conviction be fined not more than $300 or imprisoned for not more than ninety days. Any person failing to file any information required by this chapter or chapter 21 of this title, or by any regulation of the commissioners of the District of Columbia made under the provisions hereof, or who in filing any such information makes

Estoppel to litigate

The Court held that the District of Columbia was collaterally estopped from relitigating in criminal prosecution the issue of whether art dealer was required to obtain secondhand dealer's license where that issue had been fully litigated before the Board of Appeals and Review and issue decided in favor of dealer. District of Columbia v. P. H. Fisher (D.C. App. 1969, 258 A. 2d 456).

§ 47-2348. Saving clause.

Any violation of any provision of law or regulation issued hereunder which is repealed by this chapter and chapter 21 of this title and any liability arising under such provisions or regulations may, if the violation occurred or the liability arose prior to such repeal, be prosecuted to the same extent as if this chapter and chapter 21 of this title had not been enacted. (July 1, 1902, ch. 1352, § 7, par. 49, as added July 1, 1932, 47 Stat. 563, ch. 366.)

If any provision of this chapter or chapter 21 of this title is declared unconstitutional or the applicability thereof to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of the chapter or chapter 21 of this title and the applicability of such provision to other persons and circumstances shall not be affected thereby. (July 1, 1902, ch. 1352, § 7, par. 50, as added July 1, 1932, 47 Stat. 563, ch. 366.)

(Aug. 17, 1937, ch. 690, title IX, § 3, as added May 16, 1938, 52 Stat. 371, ch. 223, § 8, and amended July 26, 1939, 53 Stat. 1108, ch. 367, title IV, § 5(b); July 10, 1952, 66 Stat. 543, ch. 649, § 3(a); July 29, 1970, Pub. #### NOTES TO DECISIONS

Letter which was signed by executor of estate and specifically stated that it was sent as agent for residuary legatee and that legatee wished to appeal inheritance tax assessment contained statement "sufficient to indicate that court has jurisdiction of the subject" within rule authorizing informal petitions consisting of letter addressed to the court and signed by taxpayer if it contains such statements. District of Columbia v. M. W. Payne (1966, 374 F. 2d 261, 126 U.S. App. D.C. 47).

A letter which was signed by officer of executor of decedent's estate and which specifically stated that it was sent as agent for residuary legatee and that the legatee wished to appeal inheritance tax assessment substantially complied with District of Columbia Tax Court rule providing for informal petition consisting of letter addressed to court and actually signed by taxpayer if it contains statements sufficient to indicate that court has jurisdiction of subject. Id.

(a) Decisions of the Superior Court in civil tax cases are reviewable in the same manner as other decisions of the court in civil cases tried without a jury. The District of Columbia Court of Appeals has the power to affirm, modify, or reverse the decision of the Superior Court with or without remanding the case for hearing.

(b) The decision of the Superior Court shall become final (1) upon the expiration of the time allowed for filing a petition for review, if no petition is filed within that time; (2) upon the expiration of time allowed for filing a petition for certiorari if the decision of the Superior Court has been affirmed on appeal, the appeal has been dismissed, or no petition for certiorari has been filed; (3) upon denial of a petition for certiorari if the decision of the Superior Court has been affirmed on appeal or the appeal has been dismissed; or (4) upon the expiration of thirty days from the date of issuance of the mandate of the Supreme Court, if that Court has affirmed the decision of the Superior Court or dismissed the petition for review.

(c) If the Supreme Court directs that the decision of the Superior Court be modified or reversed, the decision rendered in accordance with the Supreme Court's mandate shall become final upon the expiration of thirty days from the time it was rendered unless within that time either the District or the taxpayer has instituted proceedings to have the decision corrected to accord with the mandate, in which event the decision of the Superior Court shall become final when so corrected.

(d) If the decision of the Superior Court is modified or reversed by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals and if (1) the time allowed for filing a petition for certiorari has expired and no such petition has been filed, (2) the petition for certiorari has been denied, or (3) the decision of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals has been affirmed by the Supreme Court, then the decision of the Superior Court rendered in accordance with the mandate of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals shall become final upon the expiration of thirty days from the time the decision of the Superior Court was rendered, unless within that time either the District or the taxpayer has instituted proceedings to have the decision corrected so that it will accord with the mandate, in which event the decision of the Superior Court shall become final when corrected.

(e) If the Supreme Court orders a rehearing, or if the case is remanded by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals for rehearing and if (1) the time allowed for filing of a petition for certiorari has expired and no petition has been filed; (2) the petition for certiorari has been denied; or (3) the decision of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals has been affirmed by the Supreme Court, then the decision of the Superior Court rendered upon such rehearing shall become final in the same manner as though no prior decision had been rendered.

(f) As used in this section the term "mandate", in case a mandate has been recalled prior to the expiration of thirty days from the date of issuance, means the final mandate. 14. (a) "Retail sale" and "sale at retail" mean the sale in any quantity or quantities of any tangible personal property or service taxable under the terms of this chapter. Said term shall mean all sales of tangible personal property to any person for any purpose other than those in which the purpose of the purchaser is to resell the property so transferred in the form in which the same is, or is to be, received by him, or to use or incorporate the property so transferred as a material or part of other tangible personal property to be produced for sale by manufacturing, assembling, processing, or refining. For the purpose of the tax imposed by this chapter, these terms shall include but shall not be limited to the following:

(6) The sale or charges for possession or use of any article of tangible personal property granted under a lease or contract, regardless of the length of time of such lease or contract or whether such lease or contract is oral or written; in such event, for the purposes of this chapter, such lease or contract shall be considered the sale of such article and the tax shall be computed and paid by the vendor upon the rental paid: Provided, however, That the gross proceeds from the rental of films, records or any type of sound transcribing to theaters and radio and television broadcasting stations shall not be considered a retail sale.

(7) (A) The sale of or charges to subscribers for local telephone service. The inclusion of such sales and charges in the definition of the terms "retail sale" and "sale at retail" shall not authorize any tax to be imposed under this title on so much of any amount paid for the installation of any instrument, wire, pole, switchboard, apparatus, or equipment as is properly attributable to such installation.

(B) The term "local telephone service" means—

(i) the access to a local telephone system, and the privilege of telephonic quality communication with substantially all persons having telephone or radio telephone stations constituting a part of such local telephone system, and

(ii) any facility or service provided in connection with a service described in clause (i) of this subparagraph. The term "local telephone service" does not include any service which is a "toll telephone service" or a "private communication service" as defined in subparagraphs (C) and (D).

(C) The term "toll telephone service" means—

(i) a telephonic quality communication for which (a) there is a toll charge which varies in amount with the distance and elapsed transmission time of each individual communication and (b) the charge is paid within the United States, and

(D) The term "private communication service" means—

(i) the communication service furnished to a subscriber which entitles the subscriber—

(a) to exclusive or priority use of any communication channel or groups of channels, or

(b) to the use of an intercommunication system for the subscriber's stations, regardless of whether such channel, or groups of channels, or intercommunication system may be connected through switching with a service described in subparagraph (B) or (C),

(ii) switching capacity, extension lines and stations, or other associated services which are provided in connection with, and are necessary or unique to the use of, channels, or systems described in clause (i) of this subparagraph, and except that such term does not include any communication service unless a separate charge is made for such service.

(8) The sale of or charges for admission to public events, including movies, musical performances, exhibitions, circuses, sporting events, and other shows or performances of any type or nature, except that any casual or isolated sale of or charge for admission made by a semipublic institution not regularly engaged in making such sales or charges shall not be considered a retail sale or sale at retail.

(9) The sale of or charges for the service of repairing, altering, mending, or fitting tangible personal property, or applying or installing tangible personal property as a repair or replacement part of other tangible personal property, whether or not such service is performed by other means of coin-operated equipment or by any other means, and whether or not any tangible personal property is transferred in conjunction with such service.

(10) The sale of or charges for copying, photocopying, reproducing, duplicating, addressing, and mailing services and for public stenographic services.

(11) The sale of or charges for the service of laundering, dry cleaning, or pressing of any kind of tangible personal property, except when such service is performed by means of self-service, coin-operated equipment.

(b) The term "retail sale" and "sale at retail" shall not include the following:

(1) (A) Sales of transportation and communication services other than sales of local telephone service.

(B) Sales of local telephone service rendered by means of a coin-operated telephone available to the public; except that where such coin-operated telephone service is furnished for a guaranteed amount, the amounts paid under such guarantee plus any fixed monthly or other periodic charge shall be subject to the tax imposed on local telephone service by this title.

(2) Professional, insurance, or personal service transactions which involve sales as inconsequential elements for which no separate charges are made, except as otherwise provided in paragraph 14(a).

(3) Any sale in which the only transaction in the District is the mere execution of the contract of sale and in which the tangible personal property sold is not in the District at the time of such execution: Provided, however, That nothing contained in this subsection shall be construed to be an exemption from the tax imposed under chapter 27 of this title.

(4) Sales to a common carrier or sleeping-car company by a corporation all of whose capital stock is owned by one or more common carriers or sleeping-car companies of tangible personal property, procured or acquired by such corporation outside the District, which consists of repair or replacement parts used for the maintenance or repair of any train operating principally without the District in the course of interstate commerce, or commerce between the District and a State, provided such sales are made in connection with the furnishing of terminal services pursuant to a written agreement entered into before January 1, 1963.

These terms shall mean all sales of tangible personal property to any person for any purpose other than those in which the purpose of the purchaser is to resell the property so transferred in the form in which the same is, or is to be, received by him, or to use or incorporate the property so transferred as a material or part of other tangible personal property to be produced for sale by manufacturing, assembling, processing, or refining. For the purpose of the tax imposed by this chapter, these terms shall include, but shall not be limited to, the following:

(4) The sale or charges for possession or use of any article of tangible personal property granted under a lease or contract, regardless of the length of time of such lease or contract or whether such lease or contract is oral or written; in such event for the purposes of this chapter, such lease or contract shall be considered the sale of such article and the tax shall be computed and paid by the vendor upon the rental paid: Provided, however, That the gross proceeds from the rental of films, records, or any type of sound transcribing to theaters and radio and television broadcasting stations shall not be considered a retail sale.

(6) The sale of or charges for admission to public events, including movies, musical performances, exhibitions, circuses, sporting events, and other shows or performances of any type or nature, except that any casual or isolated sale of or charge for admission made by a semipublic institution not regularly engaged in making such sales or charges shall not be considered a retail sale or sale at retail.

(7) The sale of or charges for the service of repairing, altering, mending, or fitting tangible personal property, or applying or installing tangible personal property as a repair or replacement part of other tangible personal property, whether or not such service is performed by means of coin-operated equipment or by any other means, and whether or not any tangible personal property is transferred in conjunction with such service.

(8) The sale of or charges for copying, photocopying, reproducing, duplicating, addressing, and mailing services and for public stenographic services.

(9) The sale of or charges for the service of laundering, dry cleaning, or pressing of any kind of tangible personal property, except when such service is performed by means of self-service, coin-operated equipment.

(b) The terms "retail sale", "sale at retail", and "sold at retail" shall not include the following:

(1) Sales of transportation and communication services other than sales of local telephone service.

(3) Sales of tangible personal property which property was purchased or acquired by a nonresident prior to coming into the District and establishing or maintaining a temporary or permanent residence in the District. As used in this subsection, the word "residence" means a place in which to reside and does not mean "domicile."

(4) Sales of tangible personal property which property was purchased or acquired by a nonresident person prior to coming into the District and establishing or maintaining a business in the District.

(5) The use or storage within the District of tangible personal property owned and held by a common carrier or sleeping-car company for use principally without the District in the course of interstate commerce, or commerce between the Dis-
